"In regard to the cause of the panic the Sherman bill was the last straw on the camel's back. But the tariff was the load. The Democrats have condemned the Mc-Kinley bill to death, and now it is in until they can execute it.

"The McKinley bill gave you work. After the election of 1892 the capitalists departed with their money for Europe. In Lawrence and Ware not one-half the wages are paid as were when Harrison was president. If you will release from prison the McKinley bill, you will have work tomorrow and you know it."

Mr. Walker continued about the advan-tages of the tariff. "When my friend follows me, he will confuse everything I say. The tariff is the same as your trades unions. It keeps up your wages all over. If wages are not as high in other places as here, yours will go down." This closed

Mr. Williams' Turn.

Hon, George Fred Williams was then introduced. He said he was not called on to refute all the arguments his opponent may advance, but to discuss the question he was called to discuss. If the gentleman wants to discuss the tariff, if it is still a live issue, the speaker said, he would come here and discuss it; but the question ing physician to the Brompton Hospital for Conis the panic and business depression "The McKinley bill is now in full effect, but it does not operate in bad times. If the fear of a change in tariff was the cause of the panic, the first place it would appear would be among the manufacturers; but behind them were the jobbers, who countermanded orders because the money stringency made them fearful they could not pay their bills. Of 800 failures reported by Bradstreets, only 1 per cent pretended that tariff legislation had anything to do with the failures, and 79 per cent gave money stringency as the

The speaker said he left the Republican party when it went over to the enemies of sound finance. Cleveland promised sound currency in 1884. He did not succeed, because both parties were against him. this was enough to offset the whole vote of New England. The Republicans then admitted the enemies of a sound carrency into the house. Having admitted these enemies there was but one result, and then began the bargaining away of sound money in which you, sir (turning to Mr.

Walker), took the leading part."
Mr. Williams quoted from Mr. Walker
where he had denounced silver, and read an interview with him published in the Worcester Spy, in which he said the bill would make the rich richer and the poor poorer, "and then," continued the speaker,
"he went back to Washington and voted for silver. It was in the next session he got so excited defending silver that he took off his coat and called it 'pure politics.' Free coinage was a bargain between tariff and silver men. From the day the will was nassed there has been distrust

Mr. Walker then spoke in rejoinder. He said: "What do you prefer-rhetoric or bread? Will you cheer for rhetoric only? Where are your facts? Cleveland is the only bulwark of sound money in the party, but by leaving the money question to the party itself they would make a worse bill."

Mr. Walker asked A. S. Roe to read selections from different speeches. Mr. Walker said no man ever knew him to lie or to equivocate, "and this man (referring to Mr. Williams) knew that he stated an absolute untruth when he said I gave The Spy an interview denouncing this bill and House Carried Repeal Bill Over For a Day.

THE RULES OF THE SENATE

Will Be Changed So as to Facilitate Business.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 1.-The silver men, or the most intense silver men in the house, will, it is said, insist that the repeal bill be put through by force and without any agreement on their part as to time when debate shall end or anything

They say they mean to be forced into submission. The mode of procedure in the house will probably be that as soon as the speaker lays the bill before the house Mr. Wilson of West Virginia will move that the house and the senate amendments be concurred with. Mr. Voorhees' bill, which declares the inreferred to a committee, and consequently Mr. Bland has the privilege of making such a motion. It would, of course, be voted down. It is probable that the rules committee will fix a time for voting on the bill at some time this evening, perhaps about 5 o'clock.

There was no delay in transmitting the silver purchase repeal bill, as passed by the senate, back to the house for that body's concurrence in the one simple amendment. At 12:50 Secretary of the Senate Cox appeared at the main door of the house with the long-looked-for bill and amendment in his hand. Mr. Oates (Dem., Ala.) was on the floor at the time and was interrupted by the speaker, who said: "The gentleman from Alabama will suspend while the house receives a message from the senate. The bill and the message were formally accepted and then the house resumed its routine business. The only special feature that marked the incident was the handclapping with which Representatives Fitch, Hendrix and Dunphy of New York received Secretary Cox's official announcement of the repeal from the upper chamber. The chamber silver men laughed

Mr. Bland had stated that he would not allow the unanimous consent, by virtue of which slone the bill could be considered. However, Mr. Livingston of Georgia arose and asked unanimous con-sent to consider the silver bill and to take a vote today at 5 o'clcck. Silver men had been laboring with Mr. Bland to get his consent to this arrangement. Mr. Bland was not persuaded, and on his objection to immediate resolution the repeal bill went over until today.

The bill to remit the duties on the ammunition imported for the use of the navy during the trouble between the United States and Chili was passed. The debate on the bankruptcy bill was then resumed.

In the Senate. Senator Blackburn, chairman of the committee on rules, introduced and the senate adopted the following resolution. which was undoubtedly inspired by the recent discussion of the rules during the past few weeks: That the committee on rules be instructed to inquire and report to the senate what re-vision of or amendments to the rule, if any, Ainsworth, Ia. A few minutes later Baggage Master Valentine in moving the and satisfactory disposition of the busine should be adopted to secure a more efficient of the senate.

Senator Blackburn says it is his purpose as chairman of the committee on rules to

He declined to indicate what changes he would advocate or whether he expected to secure the co-operation of the majority of tured by the Spanish forces, and many the committee. He added that he desired that it be distinctly understood that in taking up this work he meant no reflection upon the senate because of the course pursued in connection with the repeal of the purchasing clause of the Sherman act. He said fur her that he had not thought excitement of a heated debate, but now that the discussion was at an end, and while the necessity is fresh in the minds of the senators, he thinks the question should be taken up and disposed of by the senate in the interest of future legislation.

To Succeed Mr. Haddaway. WASHINGTON, Nov. 1 .- The Democrats of the house held a caucus last night to select a successor to the late Rev. Samuel W. Haddaway, the house chap'ain. During the summer season in Japan droughts are very frequent, and the rice fields, before so beautiful, presenting as they do all the different shades of green imaginable, gradually lose their bril liancy of color, turn yellow and parched and threaten the total destruction of the crop. Not only does the rice suffer, but the wells dry up and necessitate the carrying of water from long distances. Soa Hammond, Worthen and Ford are candrought in Japan is indeed a great calamity. After waiting and hoping in vain for a downfall of rain, the people turn out en masse to evoke the power of their deities to send them the saving showers. A procession is formed of perhaps 200 straw emblems representing the sun with streamers having prayers written on they are waist deep, and surrounding the emblems pray aloud and throw water on the images with both hands. After doing this several times the pro cession is reformed, when it proceeds to the temple to pray again. This cere mony is repeated several times, and should the rain come in abundance prayers are offered in thanksgiving. NEW YORK, Nov. 1 .- A Tammany ratification meeting was held in the Tenth assembly district last evening. The headquarters of the association are on the corner of Fourteenth street and Second avenue. During the progress of the meeting fireworks were continuously set off in the middle of the street until about 9:30 John Dolan determined to make a little Economically Clothed ? o'clock, when one big bomb was left. example, which he did by turning the iron-lined box, in which all the pyrotech nics were delivered, upside do wn over the mortar. When the bomb exploded the box was blown into fragments, which were scattered in every direction, throwing down and injuring many people and hattering windows and doors in the vi-sinity. The most seriously injured are Thomas Reilly, 10 years, and James Donevan and his wife Kate. Mrs. Donovan was seriously hurt and is not expected to live.

The windows of three or four buildings on the south side were all broken, and the door of 308 was struck by a fragment of the box and broken com-

When the excitement had subsided, the speakers referred to the accident in such touching terms that a resolution to donate $500 for the benefit of the sufferers was unanimously carried. Dolan, who caused the accident, was arrested.

A COVETOUS ITALIAN. Court Will Not Permit Him to Have

PROVIDENCE, Nov. 1 .- In the municipal court the petition of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children for authority to take in custody Catrina Gatta, a handsome 14-year-old Italian girl, was heard. It appears that when in Italy a man old enough to be her tather fell in love with the child. He and the parents entered into some sort of an agreement whereby the man was to be given the girl should he pay the family's passage to America. He did this, and upon arriving here the girl refused to carry out the terms agreed upon by her parents. This angered the mother, and she beat the girl unmercifully. Although shamefully treated, the girl would not allow herself to be forced into wedlock with the old man. The torture continued, and when the po-lice learned of her case they began an in vestigation, which resulted in the finding of the maiden in a terrible state. She was weak from continued punishment and her wrists were burned. How this was done was not fully explained in the testimony

The case terminated in the granting of the petition, and Catrina was taken from her cruel mother and lover by the authorities and will be placed in a safe place out of harm's way. The Italians interested in the case are enraged over the outcome of the case, and in all probability this will not be the last heard of it. It is likely that the lover will now try to get his money back.

Hand by Police.

NEW YORK, Nov. 1 .- Superintendent Byrnes has had a demand made upon him by another crauk, who wanted $100,000, which, he asserted, had been given to him for safe keeping several years ago. The WOLLASTON-Ross' news stand and man had never been around the place before, but he was known through his letter-ATLANTIC - Brancheid's News Agency writing mania, as similar demands had been received by the superintendent nearly of it in pennies." The superintendent promised to honor the demand, and called in a detective, who led the man into the execution chamber. There he said his name was Thomas Reilly, a printer, 47 years old. He refused to give his address or tell anything more

Reilly had no weapon of any kind, but when searched several hundred newspaper clippings, all relating to wealthy men in this city, were found in his possession. A postal card which he had forgotten to mail had been directed to the surrogate of New York city, and said:

My Dear Sir-Please excuse, at the same time acknowledge, these few lines from me and oblige. What I wish to know is concern-ing that money that has been paid over to you by the Astors, Vanderbits, Goulds and capitalists for to be presented to me. Excuse this unpleasant way of doing business, but you left me no other course to pursue. Yours truly,

THOMAS K. REILLY. Sergeant Fagan's Visitor.

Sergeant Fagan of the East Thirty-fifth street station was behind the desk at 12:30 yesterday, when a wild-looking man entered and, in a flerce voice, demanded $5000. The man, who was fairly well dressed, kept both hands buried in the overcoat pockets, and it looked as if a re-volver might be exhibited at any moment. There was no one in the police station save the sergeant, and in order to gain time he invited the man into the waiting room. The two were talking "business," the officer eyeing his man suspiciously all the time, when Patrolman Rose returned from dinner. "I owe this man $5000," Fagan said, with sigh of relief. "Officer take him down to the bank and see that he gets it." Rose realized the situation in a moment and courteously invited the man out. The crank, who was overjoyed at the prospect of getting the money so easily, followed and was escorted to the Yorkville police ourt. He refused to enter the building and then a rough and tumble fight resulted, the policeman, who was the stronger of the two, being victorious.

Pending the arrival of Justice Grady the crank was put in the prisoners pen. After a few moments Patrollian Rose followed the man into the pen for the After a few moments Patrolman purpose of getting his pedigree. The two men struggled for fully two minutes before Policemen Bond and Hartigan sprang to his assistance. Finally the man was subdued a little and he was put back. He was committed for examination as to his sanity.

The man gave his name as John Drenholz. He said he was a Swede. When searched a heavy clasp knife and a razor were found in his pockets.

And Still Another.

Another crank was arrested at West and Cortlandt streets. The man was caught endeavoring to convince an Italian fruit-seller that one of his apples was a part of the moon. At the Church-street police station the prisoner gave his name as Henry Frank, out refused to tell where he resides Frank declared that he had been selected to kill Mayor Harrison of Chicago, but having sold his soul to General Russell of New Haven and acting under the latter's orders, he had stopped in New York to kill the Cuban consul, in order that the island could be annexed to the United States. He waited too long, and Prendergast was told to go ahead. Frank said that he knew Mayor Harrison's slayer well, and that General Russell was the "head man of the society." Justice Martin committed him for examination as to his sanity.

Funeral Services Over the Remains of the Murdered Mayor.

CRICAGO, Nov. 1 .- The remains of Chicago's dead mayor were borne to the city hall yesterday, there to lie in state. Dense crowds thronged the streets and sidewalks for blocks around the Carter Harrison mansion on Ashland boulevard and witnessed the funeral procession. Solemn stillness was observed.

The cortege was a lengthy one and the distance to the city hall, two miles through the heart of the city, was not covered for a considerable time. Following the carriages concaining the city officials and mourners came a great throng resolved to accompany the comparatively small cortege to its destination. Simplicity was the feature of the obsequies.

As soon as the casket was borne in and placed on the catafalque in the center corridor, the Clark street entrance was thrown open, and a line of silent, seemingly awed citizens began to file through the building, each to take a last look at the face of the dead. Seldom has such a gorgeous floral display been made in honor of any public man as could be witnessed within the great corridor where lay the catafalque. All day long two lines of people passed rapidly by.

The face the people looked upon was the one they had been accustomed to in life. Death had wrought no perceptible changes. The late mayor seemed to be sleeping. Three quartets stationed near the bier sang, at intervals, the hymn "Lead, Kindly Light." Grimy little bootblacks, with their kits upon their shoulders and their ragged hats in their dirty hands, tiptoed by and paused a moment to look upon the face of the man they knew in life. Old city employes brushed away a tear as they went by. There were many women in the procession.

The public schools are closed today. The board of trade, banks and other places of business are deserted. The funeral took place at 11 o'clock from the Church of the Epiphany. An hour before that time the remains were taken from the city hall to the church, where the services according to the Episcopal ritual were conducted by Rev. T. H. Morrison, Jr.

The procession proceeded from the church to Graceland cemetery. The column was a large one, many societies, civic and military, having been assigned to position by Marshal Doyle.

BOTH ARE NOW MISSING.

They Have Eloped.

Otis, a grocer at 445 Central street, has been missing since Monday night, and Miss Lena Kock, a handsome 18-year-old her was $225,000. girl, who resided with her parents at 102 Wilcox street, has been missing since the same night, and her family, the police and Otis family are of the opinion that the couple have eloped, and are now either in New York or Boston.

A warrant has been issued for Otis' ara wife and two children, and is about 30 years of age. According to Mrs. Kock and the sister of the missing girl, Otis has a Response of the missing girl, Otis been paying attention to Lena for a year. He has called at the house two or three times a week, and gave his name as G. O. Young, and claimed to be a single man. He had not, as far as they know, proposed to the girl, but it was tacitly understood that they were the same as engage 1.

Otis had presented Lena with many presents, and accompanied her to public places of entertaiment. Last Monday Otis called at Miss Kock's and stayed a short time. After he had gone Lena said she was going out for a few moments, and left home. She did not return, and, inquiry being made at Mr. Otis' store, it was found that no such person as G. O. Young was there, and that Otis had not been there since the previous day.
Since Monday night Mrs. Kock, who is alone, her husband being away, and unconscious of the scandal, has gone from house to house almost frantic in her search for her daughter. Yesterday she gave the matter to the police. A short time since there was a fire in

Otis' store, and it is supposed that the insurance money and the proceeds of a fire sale have furnished the funds for his trip.

DEMOCRATIC RALLY.

Last Evening.

The Democrats held a rallly at Hancock hall, Wednesday evening. James F. Burke chairman of the city committee, presided and introduced the several speakers of the evening, precluding each speaker by a few week. Yearly subscription, $5; by the month, 50 brief remarks.

On the stage besides the speakers were, at Ashmont. William F. Powers, M. T. Sullivan, Fred. F. Green, M. T. Sullivan, Councilmen Owen and Holbrook, W. P. Cherrington and T. F. Ford.

Herbert M. Federhen, Jr., candidate for Representative, was the first speaker and he was received with shouts of applause. He spoke at length upon the National and State issues, and urged upon his hearers the necessity of supporting all Democratic candidates particularly those for Represen-

W. P. Cherrington of Atlantic also spoke briefly on the labor question confining himself to attacking the labor record of Candidate Greenhalge.

THE HISTORICAL SOCIETY.

Several Applications for Membership-Donations Acknowledged.

The first regular meeting of the Quincy Historical Society was held Wednesday evening at the Probate Court room. Seven applications for membership were received. A committee consisting of W. G. A. Pattee, ex-Mayor Porter and W. G. Spear, was appointed to arrange for the preparation and reading of papers at each regular meeting, and as many men and women prominent in the world of letters will undoubtedly deliver some interesting addresses, a rare opportunity will be given members and their friends to hear them. A check of $50 was received from one of the prominent members of the society.

The librarian reported nineteen donations consisting of books, pamphlets and manu- Island, Ill., will preach to the Lutheran scripts, among which were the original voting list of the town of Quincy of 1812 and a check list used by some politicians will probably go together then and be en- in 1823. The purpose for which Mr. Cleveland coverses in a street last evening. WASHINGTON, Nov. 2.—Silver purchases called congress in extraordinary session was accomplished at 4:25 yesterday afternoon, when he affixed his signature to the bill to repeal unconditionally the purchase tlause of the Sherman law. The struggle in the house was short. Only 27 men could be rallied for the last stand by the silver leaders, Messrs. Bland and Bryan. Mr. Bland and his colleagues, knowing that further opposition was futile, pre-ferred to sacrifice the opportunity for a fection may have been communicated to few hours' debate offered by Mr. Wilson in order to force the majority to bring in the cloture and concur in the senate A L amendment by duress. But even in this they failed. Their small following might have succeeded had they been led by experienced and skillful parliamentary tacticians. Neither Mr. Bryan nor Mr. Snodgrass, his heutenant, is well versed in parliamentary previous question. It was carried with a roar. The filibusterers had been caught napping, and nothing remained for them to do except to submit. For 39 minutes, under the rule, followed the rattle of oratery amid the greatest confusion and excitement. At its conclusion the vote body was found hanging from a tree. was taken on Mr. Bland's free coinage Redmond's life was full of crime. substitute. The majority was 73 against it. Then came the final vote on concurring in the senate amendments. The vote when the original bill passed the house Aug. 28 the vote was 201 to 100, so that although the total vote yesterday was the state of Mrs. Florence I. W. Burnham, to Yung Kwai, a young member smal er the proportion was practically the same.

The Climax.

The final vote was taken at 2:50 p. m. The bill was engressed immediately, and in 20 minutes, at 3:10, the formal announcement was made to the senate that its amendment had been agreed to by the ouse. The bill was hurriedly enrolled by Chairman Pearson of the committee on enrolled bills, and at 3:30 was presented to Speaker Crisp for his signature.

A fleet-footed messenger carried it to the sen te, where it was signed two minutes later by Vice President Stevenson. Chairman Pierson, with the bill under his arm, entere la eurrique waiting for him on the

The president had been kept duly advised of the progress of events. Indeed, e manifested so much interest in the ote in the house that at his request a luplicate of the names of those who had roted for or against the concurrence was made soon after the rollcall was completed, and this list was lying on his desk when Mr. Pearson arrived with the bill. A dead animal of any kind, fish, fowl or beast, buried near the roots of a fruit or other tree, will cause a wonderful pass into the vegetable, but being a natural and a powerful generator of electricity increases the current that passes from the atmosphere to the earth, and thereby a larger quantity of support is drawn from the atmosphere. You can grow a good crop of potatoes on a brick pavement if moisture is retained moist earth by copper wires.

Commercial fertilizers do not enrich the soil-do not add anything to it that is of value. The object sought in these fertilizers is to put the soil into a condition that will enable it to conduct electricity. The electrical current passes into the vegetable through its leaves, carrying with it the gross matter that goes to build up the vegetable cells, and after that matter is deposited in the vegetable the electric current must have a conductor through which to pass to the

Wornout soils are poor conductors, and the acids used in the commercial fertilizers, which are little more than acids and sand, pulverize the dead soil and enliven it for a short time. - Foster's Weathturned in or straight. You can never be graceful in movement while you do. An ideal place in which to practice walking would be a long room with a mirror at each end. Though this is usnally impracticable, you should by all means practice in front of a mirror, or you may only accentuate bad habits. It is unnecessary to say that heavy skirts and tight corsets are quite incompatible with freedom of motion. Do not bother about the shoulders. Hold the chest well forward, and they will take care of themselves. Then, with the chin well up and the toes turned out, you may iterally "walk a chalk line."

It is always hard to tell what to do with the hands. It is said that no woman under 25 has ever learned how to carry these offending members. But this, I think, was written of English women. The natural way-to have them hanging at the sides or loosely clasped in front—is not considered elegant. And to have them glued to the sides as far as the waist line, and then bent in at the elbow, is not only awkward in itself, but it elevates the shoulders in the most unlovely way. Therefore most women try to obviate the difficulty by carrying something in the hands. It does seem strange that the most useful members of the body should be so unpleasantly in: evidence when they are not in use. But however you elect to carry them, remember that the first and last rule in good walking is not to hurry.-Philadelphia Record.

NEW CHINESE BILL PASSED.

The Special Session of Congress Winds Up Today.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 3.—The committee on ways and means having charge of the figured. tariff bill have not yet reported their rough draft to their associates.

They are now again going over the rough draft, which they completed several days ago, to get it in form to report to the najority of the committee. The power of the committee is well established to make the tarff as nearly as possible a

In so doing they expected to increase the revenue from the customs as well as to greatly reduce duties all along the line. All duties are to be reduced to a revenue point, the free list is greatly enlarged and officers of Portlani at bay with a doublecut made in nearly everything along the

The question of increasing the revenue s one which a great deal of attention is being given and a number of propositions for increasing the income of the government through the internal revenue taxes are under consideration. The proposed increased tax on beer appears to be a popular one among the Democrats in the house. It is estimated that the present tax of $1 on a tarrel of beer amounts to about 1-5 of a cent per glass, and it is calculated an increase of $1 a barrel, which would make this tax about two-fifths of a cent per glass, would not affect the remaining selling price of the drink, and the tax of $2a barrel would not be more than half the tax on alcohol in beer of what the whisky tax is, the tax being calculated on the alcohol in the beer and not on the bulk of beer itself. Where the Gain Comes.

An income of $32,000,000 a year is calculated on from this increase if made. The tax on whisky will probably be increased 10 cents, making it $1 instead of 90 cents, as now. This increase is reckoned to increase the income $12,000,000.

The present tax on manufactured tobacco, etc., including cigars, is 6 cents. It is proposed to double this to increase the duty by $16,000,000. The tax on cigars, which is now $3, it is now proposed to increase to $4, which should add $6,000,000 to

In connection with this it is proposed to reduce the import duty on tobacco used in the manufacture of cigars to encourage the manufacture in this country, and increase the revenue by increasing the importation. As has been said before it is not proposed to re-establish any tax on sugar, but the abolition of the tax would save the government $20,000,000 a year, practically adding this much to the rev-

It is calculated that if these things are done the aggregate increase of revenue him. You may take him back to jail, Mr. will be $76,000,000, and it is believed by the Sheriff." Democrats that there would be a sufficient increase of revenue arising from an increase on importations on lower duties to raise this to nearly $100,000,000.

The testimony taken by the house ways and means committee on the tariff has been printed and presented to senators and members. The matter makes a volume of 1220 pages and contains suggestions relating to almost every article touched by tariff legislation.

To Adjourn This Afternoon The committee on rules reported to the house a resolution for adjournment at 3 o'clock today. Mr. Catchings (Dem., Miss.) introduced the resolution, which was dis-cussed, and then the previous question ordered. The resolution was finally passed -yeas, 134; nays, 83.

Geary Law Changed. The Chinese bill passed the senate yesterday afternoon. It is the house bill unamended. It extends for six months the time under which the Chinese can register under the Geary law and for the deporta-tion after this time of any Chinese laborer found in the United States without a certification of registration. It provides that the word laborer shall be construed to mean skilled and unskilled laborers, while a Chinese merchant shall be a Chinaman devoted exclusively to mercantile pursuits and not engaged as a laborer

Chinese merchants shall be all Chinamen devoted exclusively to mercantile pursuits and not engaged as a laborer at all. It changes the provisions of the Geary law concerning witnesses, in that instead of requiring a white witness it requires that the witness shall be other than a Chinaman. He Was Serving a Nine-Year Sentence For Larceny.

HIS BROTHER WAS GUILTY

And Finally Makes a Voluntary Confession.

Boston, Nov. 3 .- After a consideration of his case, the pardon committee of the executive council decided to recommend the pardon of William H. Tucker, who was serving a nine-year sentence in the state's prison. Warden Lovering, who pleaded earnestly for Mr. Tucker at the hearing yesterday before the committee, carried the news of the pardon and the release papers to the prison yesterday afternoon and Tucker was again a free man William H. Tucker claimed he suffered for a crime he never committed. The history of the case is replete with interest, involving as it does the lives of two brothers now behind the bars at Charles-

George and William H. Tucker were former is 38 years of age and William is about 44. From the biographies of the trade of Quincy. two it would appear that the younger brother was ever the proverbial black sheep of the 'amily. Robberies and petty larcenies made him notorious in and about his home, and society, as it existed in ing affairs that has occurred in Portland those parts, slighted him and preferred his absence at its gatherings. William's Hard Luck.

William, on the contrary, though no great saint, was no great sinner either. His record was far freer than his wayward between the town and Mr. White over a street which had been cut through his own genius till an event occurred toward own genius till an event occurred toward the close of the year 1889 that brought them together and has kept them so ever

George received a 10-year sentence for that offense and five in Cambridge on another. They have been incarcerated ever since.

William protested strongly and accused his brother as the guilty party. George accused William in turn as the sole malefactor. Cirtain circumstances in the case attracted attention. Many believed that William was innocent and that George was simply sustaining his own reputation.
Warden Lovering was firmly convinced that he was guarding an innocent man in William H. Tucker and expressed himself so. The second, in two counts, charged him with larceny of overcoats, satchel and cartridges valued at $88, and other articles valued at $20. To this

Tucker pleaded guilty.

The third indictment charged him jointly with George A. Tucker in the first count for breaking and entering the house of Charles T. Johnson in the nighttime, and the second count held him for the larceny in said house of clothing. To the second count he pleaded guilty, and Justice Sherman adjudged him a common and notorious thief and sentenced him to imprisonment for nine years. As to the guilt of W. H. He concludes by reminding the governor and council that, without the last indict-ment, the petitioner could not have been sent to prison for so long a term as he has already served, as it is more than an adequate sentence for the other two larcenies. Lieutenant Governor Wolcott presided yesterday. Warden Lovering went before the committee and earnestly addressed the members in behalf of the petitioner. He insisted that William and George have never been together since they were over there, and there has been no cause for the freight trains on the Pennsylvania road written confession except the stricken were passing each other here a car of one conscience of the younger. Fatal Railroad Accident.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 3. -An express on the Reading railroad dashed into another express at Nicktown, killing H. F. Ricker, brakeman, and badly injuring three pas-sengers. Intense fog was said to be the cause of the accident.

A BOILER EXPLODED.

Six New York People Hurled Into Eternity.

A DOZEN OTHERS INJURED.

Fronts of Two Houses Blown Out of Sight.

NEW YORK, Nov. 3.-The boiler in the drydock, East Broadway and Battery Railroad company's shops, burst yesterday afternoon. One end of the building was smashed, six were killed and more than a dozen persons more or less badly hurt.

The wrecked boiler was blown clear across the street 100 feet, and striking two tenements like an enormous battering ram, broke down the wall to the third story. Ten minutes before the explosion occurred scores of children were playing on the broad sidewalk in front of the now wrecked building, picking up grain spilled from the feed wagons which unload there, and dancing and carrying on.

The children were from the parochial school of the Church of the Immaculate Conception near by. Their homes were in the surrounding tenements. At 1 o'clock the teachers' bell summoned them back to their tasks. The last of them had not passed through the school gate when a remendous explosion shook the building to its foundation and sent teachers and children rushing to the street.

Wreck and Desolation.

When the dust cleared away, a scene of wreck and desolation was disclosed. The east end of the drydock railroad company's three-story stable had collapsed. The fourstory wing east of it stood, but a hole was knocked through the partition wall that divided it from the fallen boiler houses. The street was littered with broken bricks and lumber. The tenements across the way looked as if they had gone through a bombardment.

The fronts of two houses had disappeared. Where they had been was a rag-ged hole. A dying horse kicked in its death struggles in the middle of the street. In the gutter lay one man apparently dead, and in the doorway of the saoon where he had been struck down, another with a broken head.

Here and there, everywhere, wounded and bleeding men and children were crawling away from the unknown peril, grasping with feeble hands in the pave-ment and the dirt. Ambulances camehalf a dozen-in answer to a summons, and the wounded and the dead were picked up and carried away. A man, who ran around wringing his hands and shouting in anguished tones that his brother was killed, was led away by the police.

The Dead and Injured. When a survey of the field had been made the police list showed the casualties. The dead: Thomas Hassan, Samuel Mc Mullen, Joseph Quinn, 22, carpenter; John Gillespie, stableman; John Armstrong, en-gineer; William Royal, 29, engineer.

Injured: Patrick Sheehan, 27, married, a driver, fractured skull; James Harland, 29, married, stableman, fractured thigh; Michael Brennan, 23, single, laborer, arm fractured; Charles Breslin, 27, married, stableman, fractured skull; George L. Martine, 32, narried, cardriver, skull fractured; Thomas Powell, 49, mechanic; William Egan, 25, married, laborer, severe con-and slightly injured. How many horses were enguifed in the wreck when the building fell is unknown. Seven were shot two hours after the collapse. They were all more or less injured. How many are in the ruins is yet to be ascertained. The cause of the explosion was overpressure. The loss of property is about Brutal Burglars. ERIE, Pa., Nov. 3.-Two masked burglars entered the home of Bartholomew Crowley in Harbor Creek township and demanded his money. They beat and choked the old man brutally. While they were about to carry out their fiendish intentions the old man's daughter, Mrs. Carey, who had been tortured by the burglars in her room upstairs first, jumped from her window and escaped. The City of Alexandria was fitted to carry 80 first class passengers. The first dispatch sent out stated that 60 lives were lost The steamship had no passengers on board. She had been to Matanzas to discharge her cargo, and was on her way back to Havana to take on the remainder of her cargo for New York and her complement of passengers.

The City of Alexandria carried the mail to Cuba and was a screw vessel, built by John Roach & Son of Chester, Pa., in 1879. She was iron, had three decks, and was of 2914 tons gross register. She was purchased in 1885 for $400,000 by the New York and Cuba Mail Steamship company, and carried a crew of 60 men.

The vessel had taken on a miscellaneous argo, including 48 puncheons of Santa Cruz and Jamaica rum, to be delivered at Havana. There was an explosion at clock Wednesday morning, and the fire followed instantly. The flames spread rapidly through the ship and she was lost control of almost at the beginning. The crew took to the lifeboats and, as stated, were saved, with the possible exception of the purser and the stewardess. A Havana dispatch to a morning paper states that 35 people perished by the loss of the Alexandria, but the story is doubted. FIFTEEN BALLOTS TAKEN.

Jury In the Hawley Murder Case Unable to Agree.

BRIDGEFORT, Conn., Nov. 3. - At 11 o'clock last night, after being out 11 hours, the jury announced that it could not reach an agreement in the Florence Hawley murder case. Judge Hamersley dismissed them. Fifteen ballots were taken. The first stood two for murder in the first degree, five for murder in the sec and degree and five for acquittal. The last ballot was eight for manslaughter and four for acquittal.

A motion to admit the prisoner to bail was denied by the judge. Mrs. Hawley is colored, aged 30 years, and is charged with the murder of Mrs. Mary Munson in Shelton in December, 1891. Mr. Munson was a white woma and the paramour of the prisoner's hus

WOMAN'S WORLD.

THE FACTS REGARDING THE INFLU-ENCE OF WOMAN'S WORK.

To woman's home work, says Miss Heather-Bigg, were attributed by some persons, and especially by workingmen, such evils as excessive toil, starvation wages and unsanitary surroundings. This assumption was based upon a fundamental misconception. The popular impression seemed to be that women were taking a larger share of the world's work than heretofore. But woman's work has not changed in quantity—only in character—and not even so much in character as supposed.

As a matter of fact, women of the working classes had always been joint breadwinners with their husbands. At no time in the world's history had the man's labor alone sufficed for the maintenance of his wife and children, and as an eminent French economist has said, "The ideal society in which the man supplies all the wants of his family has never | hat with a piece of elastic. Then this existed yet." Moreover, from the beginning of the middle ages women had black and white headed pins, as the case worked at other industries than those might be, were used. The appearance that were domestic, sometimes pursuing of many a pretty little bonnet was such industries in their homes, some- marred by the reckless use of these untimes outside of them. This truth had sightly articles. But we have changed long been admitted and acted upon in all that, and nowadays bonnet pins are ence. Miss Stevenson at Wellesley.

Miss Julia Stevenson, the second daughter of Vice President Stevenson, finds Wellesley life very fascinating and quite a change from the home life to which she has been accustomed.

She likes the cosmopolitan atmosphere for which Wellesley is celebrated, and she likes the generous spirit shown by the students, who esteem each girl for her own true worth regardless of wealth or social position. "It seemed very queer at first that we were all obliged to have our daily housework duties," said Miss Stevenson, "but mine is not very heavy work, and I do not object to it at all. My task is to clear off the lunch tables at noon. It comes at a time of day, too, when I am very glad to get the cobwebs out of my brain," she added, with a jolly little

"Well, I do for men," said Miss Stevenson. "I think for men it is an excellent thing. I have known two or three very awkward and clumsy young men to return from a coeducational college quite transformed into polished young gentle men." Miss Stevenson laughingly admitted, however, that if all young ladies

American Girls Abroad. By the latest foreign advices American girls are warned that they have nothing further to hope for in England. They are, however, not left without hope. They are thoughtfully reminded that there are fine fields for enterprise in Malta and Italy. Malta is a small place, not very dressy. The best sort of army and navy company is to be met out there, and a few good letters of introduction and a little money will go a great way. It seems that some American girls have found this out for themselves, and plready there is a rustling in the British dovecots there. In Italy the Americans have it all their own way. The Polish families allude to the Quirinal as the Americans' court. The best places are filled by Americans. Queen Marguerite in speaking English chooses American expressions. It is said that a son of the Duke of Aosta has fallen in love with an American convent bred girl and wants to marry her. Altogether it seems that, taking things by and large, things are not so bad as they might be, and the ca-rees of the American girl as a dashir matrimonial buccaneer is not to be cut short .- New York Sun.

Such laws, she said, are beneficial in proportion as they are wisely, energetically and equally enforced. She said of the Pennsylvania factory law: "Out of this law, and its enforcement by the devoted and courageous factory inspectors appointed under it, have grown in the past five years the practical enfranchisement of women and children employees. The puny children and haggard women who used to throng the streets morning and night are now the exceptions. They have been replaced by a cheerful army of women and children, well dressed and well fed, with vigor in their steps, hope in their eyes and health in every motion and act. Pennsylvania has practically abolished sweatshops."-Philadephia Ledger.

During the coming campaigns, both State and Municipal, the DAILY LEDG-ER feels compelled to make a charge for all political matter, whether in the reading or advertising columns. This applies to all communications, letters, challenges, replies, squibs, comments, etc. The terms will be reasonable to all parties and can be had upon application.

Readers should keep in mind that much of the political matter appearing in newspapers is paid matter, although unsigned and unmarked, or credited to other papers, and does not always represent the sentiment of the paper. Editorial matter appears in this column | Sargent, Mr. J. A. Bass, Mr. E. J.

THE DAILY LEDGER does not object to being called a Democratic paper by Republican orators, or Republican by our Democratic friends. As is the case with the Boston Herald, it only shows the LEDGER to be an independent paper, which its pubeditors are known to be Republicans, it resolution: does not follow that the LEDGER is a Republican paper- It denies emphatically the assertion at the joint debate that it is a Democratic "organ." It is, moreover, the organ of no party. The Republican city committee, of which Mr. Sherman is chairman, certainly has not invited any support in the present campaign. Grand rallies have been held, but not one has been advertised in the local papers. Even that joint debate, or farce, was not advertised.

Caucuses and conventions are grudgingly advertised or not at all, etc., etc.

MR. SHERMAN'S sarcastic compliment for publishing the details of the debate 24 hours in advance of any official information, gives us a chance to tell a little story. The challenge was inserted and paid for by the Democrats, not as an item of news. Mr. Sherman's reply came promptly the position is plain.

THE JOINT DEBATE at Wollaston would have been much more satisfactory had it been entered into by the Republican speaker with the same spirit as on the other side. Mr. Orcutt's arguments were might have been met with others equally as good. Why did Mr. Sherman attempt to make a farce of it? Why did he think it not be the Republican candidate for mayor next month? Read the report of the debate and judge for yourself of the merits.

NATIONAL AND STATE ISSUES.

A Crowded House and Liberal Applause for Both Speakers.

The long talked of Sherman-Oreutt debate came off last evening at Boynton & Russell's hall, Wollaston. The hall was crowded to suffocation with Republicans and Democrats. There was also quite a sprinkling of ladies in the audience.

The crowd was a good natured one, apparently equally divided so far as political preferences go, and was generous with its applause to each speaker as he got in a good thrust at his opponent.

All of the old war horses of both parties were present, among whom were noticed Hon, Henry O. Fairbanks, President Bass of the Council, Mr. J. G. Witham, Mr. W. H. Brasee, Mr. H. T. Whitman, Mr A. L. Baker, Mr. Walter F. Nichols, Mr. George F. Pinkham, Mr. George A. Litchfield, Mr. W. G. Corthell, Mr. W. H. Rideout, Mr. Geo. W. Brown, Mr. E. E. Williamson, Mr. H. M. Federhen, Mr. Jas. C. Killing of Matabeles Discussed In the Commons.

THE LATEST FROM BRAZII

Records the Killing of Hundreds of Peixoto's Soldiers.

LONDON, Nov. 4 .- In the house of commons Sydney Buxton, parliamentary secretary of the colonial office, replying to a number of questions on the subject, said that the government had nothing to add to the reports of trouble with the Matabeles that had appeared in the newspapers, which, he believed, were substantially ac

Sir James Ferguson, former parliamentary secretary of the foreign office, asked if the government believed there had been any needless bloodshed. Henry Labouchere, who is bitterly opposed to the methods of the British South Africa company, wanted to know if the government did not consider the massa-

Arabs Overcome MELILLA, Nov. 4.—General Marcias pre-pared a detachment of troops yesterday or a sortie with the object of relieving the outlying forts. His force, which was composed of picked soldiers, sallied forth from the fortress amid the cheers of the entire populace. The body marched rapidly toward the river Curo. The Arabs, as soon as the approach of the Spanish troops was discovered, began to gather at the front in large numbers, and soon made an attack upon the Spaniards. A fierce engagement followed, which ended in the defeat of the Arabs, who retired to the Guruba mountains, after many of their force had been killed and wounded. The European force then moved on the forts Postrogordo, which they furnished with a fresh supply of provisions.

Hundreds of Soldiers Drowned. LONDON, Nov. 4 .- The Morning Leader has the following special from Lisbon: A private telegram from Buenos Ayres says that the insurgent warship Repubica rau into and sunk the transport Rio de Janeiro which was on her way from Rio Grande do Sul to Rio de Janeiro with troops for President Peixoto. Three hundred troops were drowned. A dispatch to The Times from Rio de Janeiro contains the information that the Republica had rammed the Rio Janeiro, and that 500 out of 1100 troops on board were drowned. The dispatch also said that Admiral Mello confirmed the truth of this report.

Horse Carried Him to the Enemy. CAPE TOWN, Nov. 4.- Captain Williams had his horse wounded during the skirmish on Oct. 23 between the colonists' forces and the Matabeles. The wound caused Captain Williams' horse to bolt. The trail of Captain Williams was followed for a mile, but the Matabeles prevented any further search. Captain Williams may possibly reach one of the British outpests alive.

STEAM BOILERS.

Interesting Result of the Inspection as to Their Safety.

Boston, Nov. 4 .- Although the inspecby State Police Officer Hawley is not completed, it is so far advanced as to justify the agitation which Chief Wade has begun ooking to the enactment of a law requirng the inspection by the state of all steam boilers in use in manufactories, school-houses, public buildings and similar places, and the employment of men to tend them who are competent to do so. Inspector Hawley has found many defective boilers and more incompetent men whose only knowledge is how to make steam without regard to the safety or the hazard to individuals. The information thus obtained is being put into the form of a detailed report, which will be incorporated in the report on this matter which Chief Wade will make to the next legislature. It is believed that the facts presented will prove so startling that there will be no delay in assing a law which will supply this important link in the chain of state super-vision of buildings in which the public has so great and vital an interest.

An Abundance of Whalehone.

NEW BEDFORD, Mass., Nov. 4.—Reports eceived in this city from the Arctic whalng fleet are to the effect that the season's eatch is unprecedented in the history of the industry. Almost all the whales were taken by the steamers, the sailing vessels being handicapped by the westward ice drift. The total catch of the season was 340 whales. Narwhal's catch, 62, beats all previous records. The whalers wintering n the Arctic are unable to send their catch this fall. This enormous catch will have great effect on the bone market.

The Cabo Machichaco, a Spanish steamcharging her cargo, which comprised scared. nearly 2000 tons of different merchandise, though the main part of this cargo was iron ore and a number of sacks of flour, barrels of wine, many cases of petroleum and over 500 cases of dynamite, of which only 20 cases were declared on the steamer's manifest, the remaining 480 cases of lynamite being contraband.

The fire was first discovered in the coal bunkers and raged so fiercely as to be beond the control of the entire ship's crew. Finally the local authorities were notified, and the fire department and a detachment of the civic guard were sent to the scene. The provincial governor, upon learning that the ship's manifest showed that there were 20 cases of dynamite on board, directed the firemen to assist the crew in bringing this quantity of explosive material ashore. This was done in safety. It was believed that no more dynamite remained on board on the Cabo Machichaco, Jackets. vessel out into the bay that the flames might not come to the wharf and to adjoining property.

The Explosion.

In the meantime thousands of people had burst, and soon after that there was the place: seemed to open in halves. A blaze shot skyward, over which a crown of smoke rested the earth for miles around, caused houses to totter, smashed every window in the immense mass of flying iron, burning wood, blackened timbers and scorched eams, which soon after fell like deathdealing hail upon the neighborhood, scattering death and destruction wherever it crushed downward.

The scene following the blowing up of the steamer Machichaco is almost indescribable. The power of the dynamite shot tons of iron into the air, where it mingled with the burning fragments of the steamship,

Saturday LEDGERS which were very wide apart. That of the Republican was construction and that of the Democratic party destruction. The Republican party has its faults and had made mistakes, especially when they lowered themselves to adopt democratic methods. The Democrats were the party of destruction in the sense that the leaders accept theory instead of facts.

Michael J. Murray.

Mr. Marray was then introduced and made one of the best and most interesting addresses ever delivered in this city, and when he finished the applause was loud and long and it was not until he had risen in his seat and bowed to the audience that quiet was resumed.

Mr. Murray discussed the question of protection, and that principle more than any other has helped to give labor that high sphere it has today. It was the Republican party who carried the country brough that time that said free labor of the north could not mix with slave labor of he south. He was a Republican but never uite so much of a one as now when he realized that the furnace had gone out and the mills had ceased to run. It was of ittle consequence what the personal head was, but it was a notice that the administration was to undergo a change and that beard. ducted on a new basis. Dark clouds had taken the place of that feeling of prosperity legislation that had done this the Democrats have had time to wipe all from the statute books. The silver act never closed the factory doors and if you do not believe Democrats mean to enace a new basis of tariff and that the business of the country found the girl hanging out of a window must be on a free trade basis. It takes with blood pouring from a dozen wounds money to run the government and that must come from somwhere and those who want to come from abroad must pay something into the treasury as our industries do to help run the government. The contract labor law was a Republican measure. De the Democrats say anything about repealing that law? A hundred years ago the unfortur people who came into the hands of surgeons, generally soldiers or sail who had been hurt in action, were for to undergo the operations necessary to the prolongation of life without taking ether or chloroform, as is now adminis tered to make the patient unconscious, and so free from pain attendant upon the operation. To secure quiet, often the subject had to be bound by ropes, so that much as he might desire to wince he was utterly unable to do so.

Occasionally patients would show remarkable fortitude at the crisis of their troubles, but none ever showed more than a soldier who, on the morning after the battle of Yorktown, Oct. 19, 1781, Charles E. Miles, P. was brought into the hospital, having been shot in the knee. It was found necessary to amputate the limb, and the surgeon ordered the nurses to bind the man fast preparatory to the operation. "Never!" protested the soldier. "You may tear my heart from my breast, but

His request was complied with, and he proceeded to tune the instrument, after which he said, "So, doctor, now you can begin." And he played during the whole of the operation, which lasted 40 minutes, without uttering a single false note or disturbing his features in the slightest.—Harper's Young People.

They All Saw It Move.

Mrs. Burton, with her husband-Sir Richard Burton, the famous travelerand two ladies, had driven out of Trieste to a village dance and were sitting in the carriage listening to the band. In telling of it she said:

Waterproof Bricks.

It is stated that ordinary bricks boiled in tar for about 12 hours, or until they are saturated with it, are increased about 80 per cent in weight, are much harder than common ones, and unaffected by frosts and acids as well as perfectly waterproof. two later the girl threw herself from the train on the Turner's Falls branch, near the pine woods, with the evident intention of dashing out her brains.

For nearly an hour she was unconscious beside the track. When she was discovered she was taken to the Farren House and every attention was given her. While she was in Turner's Falls she was employed as a domestic, and yet this girl, doing the coarse work of the kitchen, had been reared in luxury, given the best education the schools of this country afforded, and had her education completed at a leading institute at Zurich.

Back of all this is a pitiful story-parents searching for their daughter, she writing them letters pure of thought and diction, then estrangement from her father because of a disordered mind; shifting from one place to another so rapidly that her parents would not receive her let-ters before she would have located elsewhere. The story in detail is as follows:

She Acted Queerly. A few months ago a woman giving the name of Lena Greyson came to Turner's Falls and went to the boarding house of Mrs. C. H. Quimby. She was without funds, but her clothing showed that she came from the upper ranks of life. She asked for work and said she was willing a more remunerative situation.

very significant report was that from Greenfield, the birthplace of John E. Russell, the Democratic candidate, where from a Democratic plurality of 12 last year Greenhalge got a plurality of 132.

Candidate Schieren was endorsed with the result that the Democratic majority of 29,000 at the last election has absolutely overturned and a Republican mayor elected by about 15,000.

William J. Gavnor, the prominent Democratic majority of 29,000 at the last election bas absolutely overturned and a Republican mayor elected by about 15,000.

Other ominous signs for the Democrats were the constantly reported losses for their ticket in the stronghold of Boston. In this city alone the loss was 4263, J. L. Russell's plurality being reduced to 10,225. The same story was repeated in a like ratio from all over the state, and at 7 o'clock it was evident that Greenhalge was triumphantly elected.

After that it was merely a question of his placelier.

As Viewed by the Press.

The Post says: The hostile conditions

Both Republican and Democratic losses which the Democrats faced in this campaign have been apparent to everyone. They resembled the conditions which accompanied Cleveland's defeat in 1888. The removal of the silver cancer has been a painful operation. It has left the patient weak and suffering; and for the moment there has been resentment against the surgeon that has inflicted the necessary pain. The majority for publican candidates will receive 65 per Mr. Greenbalge is an unthinking majority.

The Herald says: The election has been held in a period of business depression. It appealed to the pockets of many voters. The Democrats were the party in power, and the party in power always suffers in such a contingency. A defeat under such conditions is far from irreparable. It may be but a temporary reverse, if the defeated party heeds its admonition and acts with greater wisdom in the future. To do this, they must rally more than ever about their president, and be mindful of the reasonable requirements of the business of the country. If they fail to do this other defeats await them, and defeats not all as easily recovered from as this may be The Globe meets defeat as follows: It the language of a famous hero, "We have met the enemy, and we are theirs.' Beyond reasonable question, it was a con lition, not a candidate, that made possible the result of the contest yesterday over the governorship of Massachusetts. The calamity cry, urged in season and out of season, undoubtedly had its effect. Nevertheless, we are convinced that in spite of all such appeals, Mr. Greenhalge would have been defeated yesterday but for the aid and comfort given to his cause from the halls of legislation at Washing-

No longer will a Democratic figurehead occupy the gubernatorial chair of this state. The sweep has been complete. Greenhalge's majority will be not less than 30,000. It is improbable that the Democrats will have enough members in the next legislature to make a respectable opposition. It is one of those Republican victories on a full vote that shows what Massachusetts can do when their blood is Massachusetts can do when their blood is up. Greenhalge was seen at his house late last night by a representative of The Associated Press. He said of the result: "I am, of course, greatly gratified at my election by so pronounced a majority. Apart from personal considerations, however, it is evident that Massachuset's has emphatically swung back into the Republican column where she naturally belongs. I venture to say that Democratic rule in this state is dead for years to come.

Isaac H. Maynard, the caudidate on the Democratic ticket for judge of the court of appeals, against whom the independent Democrats have waged most bitter and unrelenting war, has been surprisingly and overwhelmingly defeated. In New York city he ran 35,000 behind his ticket, in Brooklyn over 18,000 and in Eric county several thousands. Almost without exception the returns from every part of the state show that he was heavily scratched; even 10 of "Boss" McKane's retainers at Coney Island scratched him. The result seems to be that he has been defeated by a plurality close in the neigh-borhood of 100,000. Practically complete returns from many of the counties of the state and scattering returns from the others indicate that the Republicans have elected their entire state ticket and that they will have a good working majority in the next legislature.

Josiah Quincy's Predictions-Will Have

The game commenced at 3 o'clock, the Academys having the ball. They started with a rush, and soon Kolb scored a touchdown, Holden kicking the goal. At the end of the first half, the score stood:-Academy 6, High School 0. After an intermission of ten minutes the second half commenced. The High school started in to retrieve their laurels, and after about eight minutes play, the Highs tried the cris-cross and Chapman scored a touchdown, Hall kicking the goal. Adams then had the ball. During the last minute of play, Kent fumbled the ball. Mitchell of he High school picked it up and sprinted ighty yards for a touch-down, Hall failed o kick the goal. The High Schools had scored ten points in this half and the score stood: High School 10, Adams 6.

DESCRIBE YOUR FRIEND.

And Then See How Well Your Picture Will Fit Scores of Others.

"He was a young man and fairly good looking; smooth face and without glasses; wore a dark suit; was about 5 feet in height and looked like a married man. Anybody would know him." Such was the description turned in by a young woman who slipped quietly into the city editor's office and wanted to advertise for Chalmers. It appeared that Chalmers And 47,000 Plurality for Lieuhad left home, and nobody knew why, and this young woman had faith that her recital of his personal traits would bring him back. It was a good example of the average person's power of descriptions. of the average person's power of description of a fellow being.

It is totally inadequate! Though man oe fearfully and wonderfully made, there seems to be an unaccountable inability in nine persons out of every ten to give a creditable word picture of any one whom they have seen. Because we understand the looks of a person when we meet them, it never occurs to the mind that other people do not grasp a thorough idea of his appearance with a few passing phrases of description.

Your friend comes in, and you expound to him that such and such a man has just called for him, but almost invariably your exposition is a jumbled lot of phrases which apply to the human race in general.

The other day when I rushed into my office room with a column story on the end of my tongue-or at the tip of my Boston, Nov. 8, 2 P. M.—The latest pen, to be more accurate—I was given "Hello! A man has just been in to see > "What did he look like?"

> "Oh, he was a good looking fellow-not very tall, rather heavy, but not too much so.'

"Was he old or young?"
"About 20 or 25, I should say." "What color of hair?"

"How dressed?" "Oh, just an ordinary business suit." Have you ever heard such a description? If not, watch yourself next tim you tell of some one's call. You will be surprised to find that your description would fit almost any member of the human race.

Why is it? I don't know. We read in books that it's because we don't cultivate the habit of intelligent observation. There was once a boy who learned how to describe what he saw. Every morning he was sent by his father to walk rapidly by an elegantly arranged window, and then afterward to repeat to him all the things he saw at this one glance at the panorama and to describe them. At first the lad could remember but few things that his eye may have caught in the passing glance, but in time he could remember almost everything in a show window by merely seeing it once.—Boston Herald.

GENESIS OF THE STEAMBOAT.

Ancient Craft That Foreshadowed the Modern Greyhounds of the Sea.

The first steamboat was built by Dennis Papin, who navigated it safely down the Fulda as long ago as 1707. Unfortunately this pioneer craft was destroyed by jealous sailors, and even the very memory of it was lost for three-quarters of a century. In 1775 Perrier, another Frenchman, built an experimental steam vessel at Paris. Eight years later, in 1783, Jouffroy took up the idea that had been evolved by Papin and Perrier and built a steamer, which did good service for some time on the Saone.

The first American to attempt to apply steam to navigation was John Fitch, a Connecticut mechanic, who made his initial experiments in the year 1785. To what extent Fitch was indebted to the three illustrious French inventors named shove we are not informed, but that his models were original there is not the least doubt. In the first he employed a large pipe kettle for generating the steam, the motive power being side paddles worked after the fashion of oars on a common rowboat. In the second Fitch craft the same mode of propulsion was adopted with the exception that the paddles were made to imitate a revolving wheel and were fixed to the sternclearly foreshadowing the present stern-

This last mentioned boat was the first American steam vessel that can be pronounced a success. It made its first trip to Burlington in July, 1788. But, after all, it was not until after the opening of the present century that steam navigation started into actual life. In 1807 Robert Fulton (who every school child knows was an American), in conjunction with one Robert R. Livingston, built the Clermont, and established a regular packet service between New York and

The success of this undertaking was so satisfactory that four new boats were built before the end of 1811, at least two of them being designed for service in other rivers.-St. Louis Republic.

The Man In the Iron Mask.

A letter to Louvois by Louis XIV, written in cipher, has been long in the archives of the ministry of war and has at length been deciphered. In it the king orders Louvois to arrest General de Burlonde for having raised the siege of Conti without permission, to send him to Pignerol and to conceal his features under a loup, or black velvet mask. The order was executed, and the presumption is therefore violent that the "Man In the Iron Mask"—it was a black velvet one with iron springs-was General de Burlonde. The story tallies with the known fact that the prisoner made repeated attempts to communicate his name to soldiers; that he was treated with respect by his military jailers, and that Louis XV, who knew the truth of the whole affair, declared it to be a matter of no importance. The difficulty is to discover the king's motive for such a precaution, but he may have feared discontent among his great officers or the soldiery. It must, however, be possible to discover from the lists in the war office whether General de Burlonde was recorded as "missing" or "dead" about the right time. - Saturday Review.

Busy Burglars.

FRAMINGHAM, Mass., Nov. 8.—Burglars entered the houses of Deacon George W. Bigelow and Dr. E. H. Bigelow, on Pleasant street, Framingham Centre, at an early hour this morning. At the doctor's house they secured watches and valuable jewelry. They carried most of Mr. Bigelow's clothes into the kitchen, but failed to find his money, which was in a coat pocket. At Deacon Bigelow's house the thieves secured a pocketbook belonging to George D. Bigelow, a Boston lawyer, and a watch and jewelry belonging to Miss Fanny Bigelow. Here the thieves were frightened away by the inmates.

And Explanations by Honduras Are Now In Order.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 8.-Information received at the state department is to the effect that Minister Baker, United States minister ta Navaragua, Costa Rica and Salvador, boarded the Costa Rica, ar American ship, at Corinta for Salvador The ship entered the port of Amapala in Honduras, and while there the authorities of that government demanded the surrender of Barilla, a citizen of Honduras who was a passenger on the ship on hi way to Guatemala.

Barilla, it is understood, had been engaged in some insurrectionary movement in Houduras, for which a criminal charge is pending. After the ship received he clearance papers and while she was leav ing port, shots were fired directly at her The secretary of state was not at the cal inet meeting when the dispatch from Minister Baker arrived, and it was taken over to him there. It was probably discussed at the cabinet meeting. The captain of the Costa Rica is the same captain who harbored Barrundias several years ago, who was killed on his ship while the attempt was being made to forcibly remove him by the authorities in whose waters the ship lay. It has been published that a political refugee, who is a passenger as Barilla was, cannot be taken from a ship on which he is a passenger.

The chance presence of the United States minister on the vessel in this case is not considered to make any difference in the diplomatic aspects of the case. Nothing could be learned at the department of what reply was sent to Minister Baker or what steps it is proposed to take in the matter. It would ordinarily be expected, under the circumstances, that an energetic protest would be lodged with the Honduras government.

Palicarpo Barilla, the passenger who was the occasion of the trouble, recently led a revolution against the Honduras government, but was defeated by General Vasquez. He seems to have taken refuge in Nicaragua after the failure of the revo lution, and it is said was leaving that country at this time to avoid its government in his difficulty.

Boston, Nov. 9.-Massachusetts spoke in no uncertain voice, and Hon. Frederic T. Greenhalge and the entire Republican state ticket were elected by enormous pluralities, and not only this, but the Republican preponderance of seven to one in the executive council is maintained, and both branches of the general court are more strongly Republican than in the distinctly Republican legislature of 1893. The Democratic gubernatorial plurality of over 14,000 in Boston last year is cut down to 10,000, and Republican gains are recorded in almost every city, town and village in the commonwealth. The Prohibition ballot appears to be about the same as last year, rising 7000, and no very remarkable increase is shown in the Populist In Boston the bill providing for the election of aldermen at large is adopted by 26,818 to 19,735 in opposition, and the vote for rapid transit was unexpectedly large, the proposition receiving the endorsement of 23,980 suffregists, while the opposition vote was but 27,109; figures which show, as Mayor Matthews explains, that although this particular measure was not acceptable to a majority of the people of Boston, there is convincing evidence of an aroused

A RATIFICATION MEETING.

City Committee Have No Mayoralty Candidate, But Want the Best Man.

The Republican city committee held a sort of jollification meeting at headquarters State and Municipal, the DAILY LEDG- Wednesday evening. The windows facing the square were illuminated with candles, while outside of the building quantities of Roman candles and rockets were exploded. It was about 8 o'clock when the chairman called order, and said there was no reason why after five years of good henest government in city affairs, it should not be continued another year. The ward and city committee had no candidate to nominate but wanted some one who would lead them to victory.

John F. Merrill said if the right candidate was secured, Republicans can be victorious. We have good men in Ward One, but they would not accept the nomination. He would take off his coat and work for

FOR LITTLE FOLKS.

Swallowed the Cork

The Frightened Bottle-Great Cæsar

I've swallowed my cork!—St. Nicholas. Fun For Newsboys.

Marshall P. Wilder was the principal one of the entertainers who combine to give the newsboys a few hours of fun at the Newsboys' lodging house. It was the first of the series of entertainments arranged for the amusement of the boys during the winter, and an audience of 250 greeted Mr. Wilder. Never was any audience more amused at that funny man's jokes or more appreciative of his occasional pathos. In the funniest of the stories some of the small bodies shook until they held their sides with their hands and laughed until many : tear found its way down a grimy cheek. No entertainer who comes before thes newsboy audiences need fear that the point of his work will be lost. When the boys' turn came and the professional gave way to amateur talent, there was one newsboy who blacked up and put on a dresscoat for his stump speech. He was laughed at more than any of the other amateurs excepting Billy O'Brien, whose imitation of the actors he had seen at the Bowery theater was a clever enough piece of work to have been a credit to a professional.

When the pie match came between two newsboys, there was no hard feeling because the negro boy won, because it's already a tradition of pie eating matches that the colored boy always does win So no offense was meant when he was called Snowball, and a number of hands assisted him vigorously in wiping the remains of the contest from his face. It was an evening when there was only time for fun, and every one of the 250 boys present knew that and kept it in view.-New York Sun.

Little Maidens. How should little maidens grow When they're 10 or over? In the sunshine and the air, Wholesome, simple, fresh and fair, As the bonny daisies blow

And the happy clover. How should little maidens speak When they're 10 or over?
As the birds do, and the bees, Singing through the flowers and trees, Till each nortal fain would seek The merry hearted rover.

How about her eyes and ears At this stage of growing?
Like the clear, unclouded skies,
Not too angry, not too wise, So that all she sees and hears May be worth the knowing. And the little maiden's heart? Ah, for that we're praying

That it strong and pure may grow; God, who loveth children so, Keep her from all guile apart, Through life's mazes straying!

ST. GABELLE'S INN.

My Uncle Bayle was a man whom every one loved and welcomed as a visitor. Raleigh was not a candidate for a political little city of Mirepoix, but in a grand chateau, with crimson roof and shutters, in the environs of Foix. A lawyer by he approaches the table-he writes-he ing to see our mother, and there were many of us to greet him, for Uncle Bayle | And the phantom said to this mocking man, was the eldest of 13 children, all of them, with one or two exceptions, living with their own or their children's children in the neighborhood of the family home, my sister and myself in the homestead itself, with our infirm but pious and courageous mother, whom, as I told you awhile ago, Uncle Bayle came to see.

"Uncle," said Dorothy one evening, he prettiest as well as the bravest of all our cousins, "tell us a ghost story, please. We have heard all the others." "One cold autumn evening," said he,

some 40 years ago, I was returning from Toulouse, where I had been called on business. I was traveling fast and had already passed Auterive, where some friends had urged me to stay the night, but I was in a hurry to reach Saverdun, three leagues farther on, and continued my route. Just in front of the monastery of Bolbonne, in the forest of Secourien, one of those furious tempests which spring up in the heart of the mountains without a moment's warning fell upon me. In less than no time it was as black as midnight and the road invisible. There was nothing for it but to turn about and ask for shelter at Bolbonne. In a little while my horse stopped, and I saw that we were before the door of an inn. I entered. The company was numerous and composed of merchants, Spanish students and the sportsmen of the neighborhood, surprised like myself by the storm.

"'Truly,' said one of the hunters, 'the weather's devilish—a regular witches' sabbat.'

"'Pardon me,' cried a voice in a distant corner, 'witches and goblins hold sabbats on moonlight nights and not in

"We all turned to see who had spoken and saw that it was a Spanish merchant. None of us seemed disposed at first to answer a remark made with such solemn gravity. In fact, we were as silent as owls until suddenly my neighbor on the right, a young man of frank and pleasing appearance, burst into a fit of "'Really,' said he, indicating the merchant who had spoken last, 'it seems as if the gentleman understood the habits of goblins. Perhaps they've told you,' turning to him scornfully, 'how much they dislike to be wet and muddy!'

"The Spaniard gave him a terrible look. "'You speak too lightly, young man, said he, 'far too lightly of things you know nothing about.' "'And you would have me believe that ghosts exist?" "'Perhaps,' said the other, 'if you are brave enough to look and see. Here's a purse,' he continued, rising and approaching the table, 'containing 30 golden quadruples. I wager them all that in an hour's time I call before you the face of any one of your friends, even if he has been dead a dozen years, whom you may name to me. Moreover, when you have recognized him, he shall approach, embrace and salute you with a kiss. Do you agree?' And as he asked the question the manner of the man was so impressive and stern that we involuntarily trembled. My neighbor only remained unmoved. " 'And you can do all that?' he cried. "'Yes,' answered the Spaniard, 'and willingly part with my 30 quadruples beside, if I do not, provided you will lose a similar amount if I hold to my promise and force you to believe.' The offer was at once accepted.

"To guard against trickery and deception, we decided to use a little pavilion situated in the outer garden, perfectly isolated and bare of everything but a chair and a table. After assuring ourselves that there were no other issues than a door and a window, the student entered and, we left him to his fate, not, however, without placing beside him all the necessary writing materials and extinguishing the lights.

"When everything was ready and we had arranged ourselves in a circle around the door, the Spaniard, who had waited in an exhibition lottery, and you can't in absolute silence till all was done, began to sing in a low, sweet voice, a verse, as near as I can remember, running

With a cracking noise the coffin bursts In the tomb, deep, dark and profound, And the phantom white places his foot On the soil of the cold, damp ground! "Then, elevating his voice, he called to the student shut up within the pavilion:

"'You have told me,' said he, 'that you desire to have a visit from the spirit of your friend, Francis Vialat, drowned three years ago while crossing the ferry of Pensagnoles. Now, what do you

"'I see nothing,' replied the student; but stay! a white light begins to lift itself yonder by the window, formless, shifting and like a floating cloud'-"After a moment's silence the Spaniard begins to sing again, his voice deeper and gloomier than before:

"And the phantom white, whom the rushing Had faded to a tint so fair, Wiped with his shroud and his skeleton hand The drops from his face and hair."

"'What do you see now,' he cries 'you who wish to sound the mysteries of the tomb; what do you see now?

"'Nothing,' replies the voice of the student, calm and cool as ever.

"'And you are not afraid?' cries the Spaniard, his manner more scornful and insulting still. "'I am not afraid,' comes back the clear, brave voice of the prisoner within while we, standing on the outside and ir hight of the infernal sorcerer's incanta tions, scarcely dare to look at each other. so great is our dismay and surprise. "'And the phantom said,' cries the Spaniard furiously:

And the phantom said, coming out from the "In order that he may know me in truth, I will go to my friend proud, smiling and sweet, As in the days of our first early youth!"

"And again, ceasing his song, he puts his terrible question: "'What do you see now?" "The phantom advancing-he raises the veil-it is Francis-Francis Viatalhas written his name'— But before he can say more the Spaniard resumes, his voice wild and howling:

"Come thou at once and give to me
Thy hand to my hand, thy heart to my heart,
And thy lips where I can kiss thee!" " 'Are you afraid now? Are you afraid now?" he repeats, almost with frenzy.

A shuddering cry, dying away in a moan, is the student's only answer. " 'I warned him,' said the Spaniard harshly; 'I warned him how it would be. You see, messieurs,' turning to address us, 'that I have gained the wager. But let him keep the money. I am content with the lesson given him. He will be wiser in future." And with a grave inclination he walked away, leaving us thunderstruck at the door of the pavilion behind which the sound of moans still

"At last we opened it to find the student writhing upon the floor, a paper signed with the name of Francis Viatal on the table beside him. It was at least an hour before he had recovered sufficiently to be about again. Then, furious with rage at the treatment he had received from the sorcerer, he insisted upon having him brought before him.

"But the merchant was not to be found, either in or out of the inn. "'But I will find him,' cried the student, 'and I will kill him on the spot for the impious performance in which he has made me assist.'

"And soon after, learning from the stable boy that the merchant had saddled his horse himself and departed some time ago, he followed him, still swearing instant vengeance. "We never saw him-in fact, we never saw either of them again. "And yet, Uncle Bayle," said Dorothy breathlessly, "you can say there are no such things as ghosts or goblins"-

"More positively than ever," he replied. "Neither the Spanish merchant nor the Toulouse student were ever seen again, as I tell you. No more were the 30 beautiful quadruples which I and the other guests of the inn had put together to make up the sum of the Spaniard's wager. The two rascals had carried them off between them, after playing before us a comedy which we were simple tons enough to believe, but which I found very dear at the time, when I had considerably less money to spare than at present."-From the French.

Coal Waste.

The great quantities of anthracite coal wasted by the unsuitable methods resorted to in preparing it for market is the subject of complaint by Mr. Harris, the head official of the Lehigh Coal company. These operations, he says, result in reducing a large proportion of the coal to sizes too small for commercial purposes, the percentage of waste from this source averaging as high as 20 per cent of the coal hoisted from the col lieries, this, however, having been somewhat diminished in recent years by the utilization of the smaller sizes of coal. He thinks that this process—rescuing coal from the waste heaps-is destined to go much farther in the more general use of coal in fine particles. He believes that it may not be going too far to assume that improved methods of mining and of preparing coal may insure the use as fuel of one-half the coal now remaining, so that it may be reckoned that there are still not far from 6,000,000,000 tons of anthracite available before the beds will be wholly exhausted. The present annual consumption of anthracite is about 40,000,000 tons, and this consumption has for some years been increasing at the rate of 4 per cent per annum.-New York Sun.

That is the last known of the bottle until one of the furly, alarmed by the outery made by Margaret when her mother fell to the flor, tay to the room in which they were and found the bottle, about onethird full, standing on the table.

The captuin's desk at station 6 bears witness to the strength of the poison, as when the bottle was brought to the station streamed along is plainly to be seen yet. It is authoritatively s ated that the evidence which the police have gathered is not of sufficient strength to connect two The station 6 officers do, however, place some credence in the evidence which they have accumulated against one of the three. BOMBARDING OF RIO

Still Kept Up Under the Command of Admiral Mello.

SHORTAGE OF AMMUNITION

Not Received With Good Grace by Insurgents.

NEW YORK, Nov. 10 .- The World this morning publishes the following cable up since Tuesday. The fort at Nictheroy fired upon and sunk yesterday one of Mello's torpedo boats. Nictheroy and Fort Villegaignon have been much damaged by shells.

Although various explanations have been made to account for the explosion of a powder magazine on Governor's island, the real cause is left in mystery. Mello's guards, unless there was a traitor among them, would not have fired it purposel The bottom falls out of the story that Peixoto's men were on duty there and, acting under orders, blew it up on seeing the British sailors land, mistaking them for Mello's men, because it was an insurgent

The most p'ausible explanation advanced, fortified too by Mello's charge that the government was responsible, is that some of Peixoto's gunners, seeing the British soldiers land on Governor's island. thought that they were a detachment of Mello's marines after powder and launched at the magazine, which by chance slipped frosts. Fifteen years ago, said George W Rae, a Manitoba pioneer, the grizzly bear was so plentiful among the Manioba Rockies that the Hudson Bay company annually secured many hundreds of their skins from the army of hunters and trappers that had its range in that wild region, but today this fierce and ponderous beast-nowhere so fierce or f such enormous proportions as among the Manitoba fastnesses—is quite a rari-Two doctors examined the body and ty in its old haunts, and I doubt if one pierced the arteries of the wrist to see if the heart was in action or if there was any ran now be come upon without a difficult and tedious journey of at least 300 miles into the interior wilderness of the

I beieve that the moose, although the flesh of 2,000 of them is required to supply the ilitary stations in the territory alonchanged to a deathly paleness, which with fresh meat every year, is as plentiful today in its wild retreats as it has een at any time since the great inroads of fur and pelt hunters were begun in he territory.

I know no reason why the grizzly bear f the Manitoba Rockies should grow so much larger than the grizzly of the same mountains in the States, but a long and varied experience in hunting these animals in their respective localities has proved to me that such is the fact. No grizzly bear that I ever captured or that ever knew to be captured south of Manitoba measured more than 7½ feet than 1,200 pounds. But it was no uncommon thing in the palmy days of grizzly bears in Manitoba for the hunter Grizzly bears, like all the rest of the entment.

As the latter rushed forward with lowered head and was almost upon the bear the immense grizzly threw himself quickly to one side, and with a blow as quick as lightning with one of his great forepaws seldom failed to break his antagonist's neck. A Manitoba grizzly has been known to engage in rapid succes sion four and even five infuriated buffalo bulls and kill every one of them. It sometimes happened, though, that a bull younger and more agile than his com-panion succeeded in evading the fatal blow of the grizzly's terrible paw long enough to give in turn a deadly thrust of The New York Times says the cruiser his horn into the bear's side, puncturing Mutton, his vitals and making the contest a mu-

In general characteristics, of course the Manitoba grizzly is not in any way different from others of the family. While I believe that a grizzly bear will sometimes wait and precipitate a fight with a man and take pains to put himself in the way of one, in the great majority of cases he will take a second thought about the matter and back out. A queer instance of this disposition came to my knowledge once where a famous Manitoba guide courageously advanced upon three grizzlies, an old she one and two half grown cubs, and, by a series of ridiculous monkeyshines and acrobatic maneuvers within a rod or two of the threatening bears, filled them with such astonishment and apparent

His Last Fencing Lesson.

A dispatch from Lyons announces that a sad accident has occurred at the Military Medical school there. M. Jourdan, who was just about to take one of the highest medical degrees in the school, was having a fencing lesson from the maitre d'armes, when during a vigorous attack by the pupil a short piece broke off the end of the master's foil. M. Jourdan, who was making a lunge, literally spitted himself on the blade. He went up stairs to his room, fell on the bed and died in about an hour, in spite of all efforts to save him. No blame is accident could not have happened but for the violence of his pupil's attack. M. Jourdan took the first prize for fencing last year and was training for a coming assault at arms.-Foreign Exchange.

The Katydid Was a Rattler.

There was a decided commotion at the home of J. D. Wells, in East Sedalia, recently. For several days Mrs. Wells had heard a peculiar buzzing in the closet was of the opinion that the noise was made by a captive katydid. Several times she was on the point of making an investigation, but household duties distracted her attention and she failed to make the search. Saturday her husband went into the closet to secure a heavy pair of trousers which he intended to don on account of the cool weather. Taking them from the hook, he gave them a vigorous shake, when out dropped a rattlesnake 3 feet in length, the reptile being what the occupants of the house had mistaken for a katydid.-Sedalia (Mo.) Railroad Traffic During the Fair. So far as the figures at hand go they show that the number of people brought into Chicago by the 21 passenger lines entering here during the fair period were in round numbers 3,335,000. This allows $50,000 each for the five leading passenger lines, 300,000 each for the five next following, 150,000 each for the next group of five, and 50,000 each for the six weak lines. Allowing each of these passengers to have visited the fair five times would account for an attendance of 16.755,000. which would be a good proportion of putside visitors. It would leave but a httle over 5,000,000 visits from Chicagoans.-Chicago News.

KING MAY SUE FOR PEACE

His Warriors No Match For Machine Guns.

LONDON, Nov. 10.-A special dispatch from Johannesburg to The Pall Mall Gazette says that the Fort Tuli column, consisting of 300 Bechuanaland police and a number of Chief Kahma's men, under command of Commander Raaf, captured preached the jubilee sermon. He recapitulated the early history of Holy Cross, column had repulsed an attack made upon column had repulsed an attack made upon it by the Matabeles, under the command of Gombo, Lobengula's son-in-law, during which engagement Gombo is reported to

The Matabeles fought with desperate fury, but they found it impossible to stand up against the machine guns, which laid the dead in swaths upon the field. It was not until 2000 of the Matabeles were killed that the remaining members of the impis retreated and allowed their king's capital to fall into the hands of the British.

This is the severest blow yet dealt to the Matabeles, and it is believed that Lobengula will now treat for peace. The British loss was only five men killed. Many of the horses of the troopers were shot beneath their riders. After Buluawayo was captured the place was set on fire and burned to the ground. The magazine, containing the greater part of Lobengula's ammunition, was blown up.

It is reported that some of the Matebele indunas, or commanders, committed suicide after the fight at Shangani, being impelled thereto by the cowardice shown by their men during the attack an the British

The chiefs along the route to Buluwavo sent presents of cattle and mealies to Dr. Jamieson, administrator of the British South Africa company, who, with the Victoria and Salisbury columns, was marching upon Lobengula's kraal, when the Tull column captured it. Two powerful chiefs beyond the border have joined Chief Khama in aiding the forces of the Chartered company.

RAILROAD SCRAP IRON.

It Is Carefully Saved, Assorted and Then

Sold by the Companies. Nothing goes to waste on a big railroad, and every scrap of iron and much secondhand material is valued at a fixed price and carried on the books as so much stock on hand. The system followed by the storekeeper's department of one railroad is a sample of many. The secondhand metals are gathered and placed in piles, regularly assorted.

Then they are classified by the foreman and taken into stock by the storekeeper or assistant. There are regular schedules-one of material which can be used again, which is denominated secondhand, and another of material which has to be melted before it can be used. which is known as scrap.

The classes are arranged something after the following order: Steel scrap, Nos. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5 and 6, at prices ranging from $28 a ton down; wrought iron, and 4. Even borings are taken into account, brass borings being credited at eight cents per pound and brass scrap and copper at twelve.

This material is shipped to division headquarters when a carload has accumulated. Here it is disposed of by the storekeeper on order of his chief, being shipped in carloads to big dealers in old metals in large cities. Much of it goes to Pittsburg, Cincinnati and such points. Orders for as high as 500,000 pounds of 271 207 264 182 229 105—1258 one kind of material are occasionally received from single firms. Most of the secondhand material is used over again in the shops, but it is previously taken on the books at a fixed price by the storekeeper and is charged up to the account of the articles for which it is used. All usable No. 1 wrought iron is received and charged up at 11 cents a pound, and east iron at one cent.—Philadelphia Call.

Cannibalism In Saghalien.

The Vladivostock, a newspaper pubished in eastern Siberia, reveals a terriole state of affairs among the convicts on the island of Saghalien. It would appear that the convicts there have been treated by some of the subordinate prison authorities so harshly that the governor of the island has been obliged to interfere for their protection. A warder named Khanoff and some of his assistants, who at one time were convicts themselves and had been raised to the rank of jailers, have been removed from their posts. Khanoff's treatment of the prisoners was so abominable that a number of them crippled themselves, cutting off fingers and toes, in order to be treated as invalids and to be freed from his terrible cruelties. Others fled to the impenetrable forest, where they suffered all the horrors of hunger.

In a satchel belonging to a fugitive convict who had been hunted down Mr. L. Godchaux's Elm Hall refinery were found some pieces of human flesh. Investigation revealed that this man had been one of a party of four, and that only one of them now remained. The others had been killed and devoured by their comrades. Similar cases of cannibalism are, according to the Siberian journal, not infrequent.

THAT WONDERFUL DIAMOND.

It Is the Largest Ever Known and Is Worth $5,000,000-How It Was Found. Captain Jonas Anderson of the firm of Westergaard & Co., shipbrokers this city, was the center of a group curious ones recently as he carefully opened a box which had been mailed him all the way from Cape Town. As he unfolded layers of paper wrappings everybody was on the qui vive, and at last he triumphantly displayed a plaster cast of the newly discovered Excelsion diamond, the largest known in the world

The discovery of the monster diamond in the Jagersfontein mine was made on the evening of June 30 last. Captain Ed. ward Jorgansonn, the superintendent of the mine, who is a son-in-law of Captain Anderson, was just quitting work after seeing the men out of the diggings when suddenly a bright lump attracted him. and he stooped to pick it up. At the same time a native Basut truck driver saw it and grabbed it. Captain Jorgansonn told the native to take it to Manager Gifford. That gentleman pronounced it a diamond of the first water and worth about $5, 000,000. It was a curious fact and much commented on that a firm, Messrs. Breitmeyer & Bernheimer, had just contracted with the company to take over all its finds for one month at a certain price, and the very first find on their contract was the Excelsior.

Extraordinary precautions were taken in transporting it to the coach. A troop of the Sixteenth lancers escorted it to Cape Town, where it was transferred to the gunboat Antelope, and is now de posited in the Bank of England. The British government has offered £500,000 for it, which has been declined. The Chicago World's fair commissioners were very anxious to get the giant bit of costly carbon, and offered to insure it to the extent of $3,500,000, but the proprietors were obdurate and would not let the stone cross the ocean. The stone is white, with a bluish tinge, and reflects all the colors of the rainbow.

It measures 3 inches in length, 2 inches in its broadest part, and weight 971% carats, or 7% ounces avoirdupois The only flaw is a small black spot right in the centre. This, however, can easily be cut out. The Emperor of Germany is said to be negotiating for its purchase. -Philadelphia Times.

At a mass meeting composed largely of aliens, the queen and her supporters were con-demned and denounced, and the committee was continued and all its acts approved. The committee addressed a letter to John L. Stevens, the American minister at Honolulu stating that the lives and property of the peo-ple were in peril and appealing to him and the United States for such assistance as was at his command. On receipt of this letter, Mr. Stevens requested Captain Wiltse, commander WE ARE ANTICIPATING of the U. S. S. Boston, to land a force for the protection of the United States legation, United States consulate and to secure the safety of American life and property.

How It Was Brought About. The well-armed troops were promptly landed and marched through the quiet streets of Honolulu with two gatling guns to a pubof honomia with two gating guns to a pub-lic hall, previously secured by Mr. Stevens for their accommodation. This hall was in plain view of the queen's palace. The governor of the island immediately addressed to Mr. Stevens a communication protesting against the act as an unwarranted invasion of Hawaiian soil, and reminding him that the proper authorities had never denied permission to the naval affairs of the land for drill or any other proper purpose. About the same time the queen's minister of foreign affairs sent a note to Mr. Stevens asking why the willing to afford full protection to the American legation and American interests in Hononin. Only evasive replies were sent to these

The executive and advisory councils mentioned in the proclamation at once addressed a communication to Mr. Stevens informing him that the monarchy had been abrogated and a provisional government established.

Dole Was Thankful. On receipt of this letter Mr. Stevens immediately recognized the new government.

Mr. Dole replied: "I acknowledge receipt of you. alued communication of this date recognizing the Hawaiian provisional govern-ment, and express deep appreciation of the same. We have conferred with the ministers of the late government and have made demands upon the marshal to surrender the station house. We are not actually yet in possession of the station house, but, as night possession of the states are only as higher is approaching and our forces may be insufficient to maintain order, we request the immediate support of the United States forces and request the United States officers to take command of our military forces, so that they may acknowledge their full protection of the city."
The station house was occupied by a wellarmed force under the command of resolute, provisional government and others held a conterence at the palace; refusing to recognize the new authority or surrender to it, she was informed that the provisional government had the support of the American minister and adams Building, Room 21.

Believing that her case was to be fairly considered by the President of the United States, the queen finally yielded and sent to the protisional government the paper stating that she yielded, under protest, to the superior force of the United States of America, whose minister plenipotentiary, John L. WASHINGTON, Nov. 11.-Ten days or a fortnight will probably see the new Democratic tariff bill given to the public. The Democratic members of the ways and means committee have not yet made their final revision of any of the schedules, but In his dispatch to Mr. Foster, on Jan. 18, describing the so-called revolution, Mr. Stevens says; "The committee on public safety forthwith took possession of the government building and treasury and installed the provisional government with the head of the respective departments. This being an accomplished fact, I promptly recognized the provisional government as the de facto government of the Hawaiian Islands."

Secretary Foster's communication of Feb. a number of them are decided upon for all practical purposes and will not be changed except in minor details.

The policy of a revenue tariff will be pretty closely adhered to in dealing with raw materials, and particularly mixed goods, and considerable cuts will be made on finished products.

Secretary Foster's communication of Feb. 15 to the president, laying before him the treaty of annexation, with the view to obtaining the advice and consent of the senate thereto, says: "At the time the provisional The Democratic members decided at the outset that they would accept the declaratheir rule of action. There are reasons for saying, therefore that the Democratic members under this provision will embody in the bill substanof the government."
Similar language is found in an official letter addressed to Secretary Foster on Feb. 3 by the special commissioner sent to Washington by the provisional government to negotiate a treaty of annexation.

These statements are utterly at variance with the evidence, documentary and oral, sontained in Mr. Blount's reports. They are sontradicted by declarations and letters of President Dole and other annexationists, and fied in the definitions of goods, but it is believed that the duties will remain subby Mr. Stevens' own verbal admissions to Mr. Blount. The provisional government was recognized when it had little other than a paper existence and when the legitimate government was in full possession and control of the palace, the barracks and the police station.

Mr. Stevens' well-known hostility and the threatening presence of the force landed from the Boston were all that could have excited serious apprehension in the minds of the queen, her officers and loyal supporters. It is fair to say that Secretary Foster's statements were based upon information which he had received from Mr. Stevens and the special commissioners, but I am unable to see that they were deceived. It is the Italian situation which most directly threatens in this growing European crisis. France has shown surprising and most creditable restraint tious purpose has not been misjudged by gressive part she will play into French sponsibility of making the attack.

The situation in Italy does not improve. It has become intolerable, and inevitable. There is some truth in the statement that the trouble is caused more by moral than material decadence Patriotism has waned. The country is bankrupt-not because it cannot pay its taxes, but because it will not pay. The reply of the Marquis di Rudini to Premier Giolitti is justified when he says it is useless to impose additional taxes, beold ones. The people best able to pay ment with more ingenuity and persever

Giolitti's government recognizes the truth of this observation, and it is this fact which gives color to the reports that the present ministry has been considering a war with France as a desperate remedy for the solution of its dilem ma. The people would willingly supply the sinews of war, but they refuse longer to be victims of the thieves in high government and crown. If winter were just ending instead of approaching, it would be a question of days only, in the opinion of many people, when Italy would fire the first gun in the greatest of European wars.

Meantime the crisis is a most embarrassing one for the present rulers of the some sort. Already the popular discontent is at the point of revolution in some parts of the kingdom. The government continues to pour troops into Sicily, and its newspaper organs virtually admit that the aim is the suppression of sedition rather than the extirpation of brigandage, although the latter laudab work is proceeding incidentally. It has been ascertained that the Fasci or associations of revolutionary socialists have a membership of 300,000, embracing all classes in Sicily. Even some regiments are tainted, and severe disciplinary measures have had to be taken against a regiment of artillery at present in the garrison at Palermo. The Sun correspondent says that serious disturbances may occur at any moment.-New York

NEW YORK, Nov. 11. - R. G. Dun's Weekly Review of Trade says: Since the election there has been a distinct improvement in business and particularly in manufacturing. There is some increase in actual transactions and much more in the tone of buseness. Men of all parties feel that there is ground for greater confidence, the silver question being put definitely out of the way and the chance of disturbing action in other respects being lessened.

In brief, the recovery which began when the silver repeal bill passed continued with increased strength. The speculative mar-kets have not changed, though the improvement in the stock market, which was expected from the silver bill, comes slowly. In boots and shoes the decline in splits compared with last year is only 17 per cent for the week, and more of the shops are active, the long economy in purchases having exhausted supplies of dealers. ures in dry goods have been much less numerous and less important than was feared. No doubt it is true that many concerns have been carried over by extension, but even a moderate revival of trade will enable most of them to weather the storm. A gradual improvement is seen in the market for cotton goods, with slightly better prices in print cloths and some other grades.

The volume of domestic, although smaller than a year ago, shows considerably less decrease than appeared in September or October.

BLOODTHIRSTY ANARCHISTS

Applaud the Work of the Barcelona Bomb Thrower.

LONDON, Nov. 11 .- The anarchists of all groups gathered at the South Place institute last evening to commemorate the execution of the Chicago anarchists six years ago. The hall was crowded. On the walls hung red flags and scrolls with anarchist mottoes.

C. W. Mowbray said the anarchists of London ought to resolve that they would consecrate the lessons of the past. They had been too apathetic in recent years. They had applauded Ravachol, but what else had they done? Nothing; because they were cowards. The responsibility for this failure rested not upon the leaders, but upon each and every member of the anarchist groups.

FUTURE OF HAWAII.

Wisdom of Restoring the Queen to Power Is Questioned.

INTENTIONS OF UNCLE SAM

Are Already Meeting With Much Opposition.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 13.-Unless he has met with some delay United States Minister Willis has now been in Honolulu a week, and it is not improbable that he has carried into effect the instructions he took with him and which have been so well kept a secret on this side of the Pacific. If he has done so be steamer which left Honolu'u Sa'u being the news of the consequent and will reach an the consequent and will reach an the North End, and connected with a very specific to the family several of his horothers. next Saturday.

Whatever recourse the administration may have determined upon to secure the restoration of Queen Liliuokalani, it is very evident that Secretary Gresham does not expect that extreme measures will have to be resorted to. The course proposed to be pursued seems to be to request the present government, in the name of the United States. United Sta'es, to give way quietly to the restoration of the queen. The Hawaiians in this city are very firm in their opinion that the government will refuse to yield to any such gentle persuasion as that. They assert their earnest belief that it will require at least a show of force to induce them to resign the reins of authority.

But this opinion is not unanimous among those familiar with affairs in the islands. It is pointed out how long and severe a strain there has been on the members of the provisional government in the uncertainty. All they have is vitally dependent on the good order and maintenance of law in the country. Any sort of assurance from Minister Willis that the moral influence of the United States government would be exerted to maintain a stable government by the queen, and to restrain it from such vagaries and excesses as that of the constitution she sought to have adopted in January last, might tempt the members of the provisional government to step aside and trust to the United States to preserve their interests in its own way.

It is what President Cleveland and Secretary Gresham hoped for, though what assurance they have authorized the minister to give as to future influence by this government in the islands is not

"IN SELF DEFENSE."

Provisional Government Has the Support of Minister Thurston

CHICAGO, Nov. 13.-Minister Lorrin A. Thurston of Hawaii, who has been detained in Chicago closing up the affairs of the Hawaiian exhibition, left for Washington today. When asked to express an opinion concerning the action of the administration in relation to Hawaii, he

"So far as I know that matter was fully covered last February, both charges and reply, and I know of no new developments since last night. I do not hesitate to reiterate that American troops took no part in the movement, and that the revolution was initiated by the late queen, and forced upon the people of Hawaii, who, in self defense, took action terminating a condition of affairs menacing to life and property, and which was no longer tolera-

"The claim of the provisional government is that, regardless of the method of how it got there, it is today the only government in Hawaii, recognized as such at home and abroad, and that any attempt to forcibly overturn it by a foreign power is in the nature of war against a friendly government, which, as I understand, requires the consent of congress,

"I am not informed that the president is recommended to abrogate such power to himself and have no right to assume it. The monarchy cannot be restored except through this force from without, and if that supporting force is withdrawn it will be forthwith overthrown. There will be no safety for those who have supported the provisional government if the queen is restored, and if the attempt is made I fear that the results will be of the gravest character. I believe that bloodshed will be the inevitable result, and Americans, American property and agricultural interests will be the greatest sufferers."

A Protest From Boston. WASHINGTON, Nov. 13. — Congressman O'Neil of Massachusetts has laid before Secretary Gresham an appeal from a Boston house having large interests in the islands, which shows that all those acquainted with the conditions have not so hopeful a belief as to the outcome of the effort to restore the queen. The dispatch reads as follows:

Boston, Nov. 11, 1893.
Please call on proper officials and request on Please call on proper officials and request on behalf of your constituents holding property in Honolulu and throughout the kingdom that instructions be sent to the United States minister to protect the same. We believe there is great danger of bloodshed and destruction of property. Have telegraphed Senator Hoar these facts.

THE AUSTRALIAN ballot, which the Wollaston Republicans are to adopt at the coming caucus, seems the only proper method of nominating candidates especially in wards where a nomination is equivalent to an election. It should be adopted in all wards by both parties and the polls kept open for at least an hour, or say from 6 to 8 P. M., when it would be convenient for the majority of the voters of a ward to vote. Nominations would then be made by citizens rather than politicians, and the preference of a larger portion of the voters having scored. would be secured.

The special meetings, one for boys at three o'clock and the others for men at were conducted by Evangelist John M. Dick, were well attended and very impressive. Over seventy boys listened attentively to Mr. Dick's stirring address on 'A Duel-Boy against Devll-who wins." He said that, boys had to fight the devil everywhere, in the home, in school, in his play, in church and in his work. Deception, dishonesty, defamation, decision and disloyalty were named as the five things which boys must meet and conquer or be conquered. An after meeting was held and thirteen boys signed cards expressing a determination to lead Christian Seventy-five men attended the men's meeting. Mr. Dick spoke on the subject "A Traitor in the Camp." He took for his text, Christ's interview with Nicodemus. He said that no man could enter into the Kingdom of heaven until sin had been cast out, Christ does not arbitrarily keep a man out of the Kingdom of heaven, but man is not able to enter unless his heart has been regenerated.

Mr. Dick's addresses are filed with freshments Saturday after the game by striking illustrations, which, with his personal magnetism and earnest delivery, serve to give him the closest attention His hold on an audience of boys is very remarkable. During the past five years it is estimated that he has addressed between ten and fifteen thousand boys.

In the evening Mr. Dick addressed a arge audience in the Congregational church His subject was, "Soul winning," and his text was, "He that is wise winneth souls." This address made a profound impression. Mr. Dick is assisted in all of his services by Mr. F. H. Leech, of Everett, whose singing adds much to the success of the

At the evening service Secretary Colton spoke briefly about the work of the International committee of the association, and asked for a liberal collection for the work of extension and supervision. Twelve dollars and seventy-eight cents was contributed. This will be increased somewhat by outside contributions The services for men and boys will be continued throughout the week. Tonight at 7 o'clock Mr. Dick will give an illustrated chemical talk to boys, and Mr. Leech will sing one or two solos. The subject for the men's meeting at 8 o'clock will be "Possibilities." All men and boys are invited to these services.

A Specimen.

Officer McKay arrested a queer species of humanity Saturday night and after a hard tussle locked him up. The fellow gave several names and claimed to come from Connecticut. He was dressed in clothing, much the worse for wear, which was tied together with old rope. He is about 5 feet 8 inches tall and 38 or 40 years of age. He tells several stories about himself, one of which was that he had been tramping for 24 years. Among his effects was an old paper bag upon which were written a number of sentences one only of which could be read this said, "I stabbed a man in Greenwich, Conn." He absolutely refused to eat or drink.

The fellow who is evidently a crank or crazy was arraigned in the District court this morning for being a tramp and sent to the State farm.

DREAMING.

The cooling fingers of the twilight lay A balra upon the fevered ebb of day, And, languor lulled by dream winged spirits in their flight

Between the half uncertain hours of dark and I dream of thee. Trilled through the silvery sphere of fading day, A late bird homeward wings its wearied way; And, through the wide tranquillity of upper Attunes his vesper note of faroff minstrelsy To songs of thee.

Far from the west the sentinel of light
Sets the dead altars of approaching night Aflame, and paints the ambient skies with mystic gold,
Whose liquid light reflects the happiness of old

Of me with thee. The sky, the air, the sea, the earth, its flowers. Lie steeped in magic of the moonlit showers. And I? Far out beyond the waves, where sky

From star to star across the night's tranquillity, I come to thee.

The evening winds, distilled from fragrant flowers, Pour out their incense on the dew wrapt hours And on the still, sweet harmony of sky and sea I stray a little space into infinity

To dwell with thee. Thus when the fingers of the twilight gray

Pour balm upon the ebbing tides of day, I, languor lulled by dream winged spirits in their flight Between the half uncertain hours of dark and light,
Can live with thee.

Kilgore's Objections.

A single phrase has made Colonel Kilgore a national character. Very early in his congressional career he began to say, "I object." He has kept this up at every session of congress with serene consistency. A small man, a nervous man or a bad tempered man could never have made a success of such a policy He would have been run over in some way. But Colonel Kilgore's "I object," uttered with dignity and with deliberapersonality, has won its way. It has stopped hundreds of little bills; it has sent many a disappointed member to the cloakroom fuming and swearing. And yet the big man, who is always good humored and who smiles on slight provocation is a popular member of control of the contr ocation, is a popular member of con- if not all, cases for their coffins. gress. There is everything in the way that "I object" is said. The tone can carry malice or anger or honest opposition. Of the Fate Which Awaits Americans In Brazil.

MEN BURIED BEFORE DEAD

To Save Time and Trouble For Inhuman Officers.

NEW YORK, Nov. 13 .- An American who has only recently returned from Brazil, after a long residence in that country, was visited for the purpose of eliciting his views upon the civil war at present in operation in the new republic of South America. On the subject of the risks being taken by Americans who were enlisting for service on the Brazilian fleet, now being fitted out at this port by the agents of Peixoto, he said: "It seems to me that it is an outrage to enlist men at this season of the year to go down to Brazil ports, even if peace was reigning there. I venture to predict that at least 90 per cent of the men going down on the Brazilian fleet will never return alive, even should they be so fortunate as to escape the bullets and torpedoes of the Mr. Bell was in 1864 convention of January, 1839. insurgent fleet. Even in times of peace in Rio de Janeiro or Santos a man ashore during the months from November to March, inclusive, cannot, as a general thing, withstand the intense tropical heat. "Besides the heat the sickening sights of these two cities are calculated to turn the stomach of a stranger. The funerals of the victims of yellow fever, smallpox and berri berri, a species of African leprosy, are seen at the turning of almost every street. I have frequently seen new arrivals among my countrymen in the full vigor of youth and strength pass away almost between the rising and the setting of the sun. Americans Are Targets. "It is not the climate and the prevailing pidemics that are m stly to be feared. The most painful and harrowing reminis-cences in my mind consist of what I have een of the indifferent brutality of the Brazilian authorities toward foreigners. They appear to have an especial pleasure n exercising this unprecedented brutality apon Americans, for the reason that there s a lack of co-operation among the Amercan colony in Rio, whereas the English, French, Germ n and other European colnies are generally united. "These latter colonies have been so long established in this country that they fore-see what will happen during each year's epidemic, and are prepared to take the ery best of care of the new arrivals into their own respective colonies. We are not so well prepared, and the result is that when an American falls sick he does not realize what his sickness is until the health officers are notified. These bru:al officers are so accustomed to witness the sufferings of strangers who become victims to the climate and filth of the cities of the ountry that it is sure death to fall into heir hands. "The true stories of what foreigners on he soil of Brazil have suffered at the hands of these inhuman, brutalized men of authority in the ports of Brazil would seem incredible. Any one, however, who nas ever passed through an epidemic can bear witness to the truth of what I say. From a Paralytic Shock. EXETER, N. H., Nov. 13 .- Ex-Governor Charles Henry Bell died at 4:30 p. m. Saturday. He was born in Chester, Nov. 18, 1823, the youngest of 10 children. He was graduated from Dartmouth in 1844, and immediately began legal studies. Upon admission to the bar he practiced for a brief period in Chester, and then removed to Great Falls, forming a partner-ship with Nathaniel Wells. He came to Exeter in 1854, and here practiced 14 years, for 10 of which he was county solicitor. His political career began in 1858 as a member of the state house of representatives. He also served in 1859 and 1860, the latter year as speaker. He was state sen-ator in 1863 and 1864, and in the latter year president of the upper house. He was again a representative in 1872 and 1873. In 1878 he presided over the Republican state convention. THE "MARBLE MAN."

A Patient Suffering From a Peculiar Dis-ease In a St. Louis Hospital.

There is a "marble man" at the City hospital. He is whiter than the alabaster statue Dixey makes in "Adonis," and the "driven snow" would soil his cheeks. Not only is his skin absolutely colorless, but his tongue, gums and finger nails are devoid of all hint of blood dyeing. He is believed to be the first patient suffering from the peculiar ailment he is afflicted with that ever stepped inside St. Louis. As is proper with such a very distinguished disease, it has a very aristocratic name-anchylostomum do-

A very, very rare little worm is engaged in merrily sucking the red corpuscles, or life giving element, from this poor fellow's blood, and if the unwelcome tenant is not gotten rid of pretty soon the patient will fade away to a shadow and die from sheer lack of nourishment, though his stomach be full of food. Albert Abbink, a young man who came from Germany, is the patient, and he isn't at all proud of it either. He looks like a marble statue, and a very skeletonish one at that, and has great difficulty in moving around owing to his weakness.

Though this peculiar disease, or affection, is very rare in this part of the country, it is common enough in Italy and Germany. The worms are supposed to be in certain kinds of muddy water, and it has been noticed that brickmakers and pottery operatives in the old country are peculiarly apt to get them. When the great St. Gothard tunnel was being dug it was discovered that nearly every workman engaged upon the job astic over it as Sir Edwin Arnold over suffered from this plague. It was first noted in Egypt, and from this fact the weakness was named Egyptian chlorosis. Scientists are pretty certain that the Pharaohs had it, and some are inclined to believe that the plague of toads mentioned in holy writ was none other than have breakfast. Then they attend to a the plague of anchylostomum dode-

Dr. Marks believes he can assist Abbink in getting rid of his high toned checkers, dominos and cards; smoke parasites, several of which now occupy a glass slide under his microscope. They are about an eighth of an inch in length, and under the magnifying glass look like white alligators. They have tremendous jaws and wear their eggs scattered along their backbones.-St. Louis Globe-Dem-

Mrs. Grant's Hunt For a Home.

Mrs. Grant has determined to make her future home in Washington, and during her recent sojourn here spent most of her time in house hunting. Almost every available residence in the West End now vacant was offered for her consideration through the various real estate agents, and it is safe to assert that she made an exhaustive examination of no less than 50 before leaving for New York with her daughter, without coming to any definite conclusion in regard to a selection. Those that suited her fancy did not suit her purse, and when houses desirable in both these respects were offered for her approval, the locality, as a rule, proved unsatisfactory. Mrs. Grant has not given up hope of ultimate success, and candidly avers her preference for Washington as a place of residence. - Washington

Telephoning Through Snow.

Professor A. H. Thompson, chief of the United States Geological survey, returned from the Black Hills a few evenings ago. The government has two parties in the hills, one at Rapid City and the other at Deadwood. The professor found the Rapid City party entirely snowbound and tells a tale of how he got communication with them. He worked his way toward the men until he came within speaking distance. By that time further passage seemed to be impracticable, but by accident they had occasion to resort to a peculiar expedient. They talked through the snow. The snow acted as a conductor of sound, and with some difficulty they made one another understand.-Denver Republi-

Browne on Insomnia. Sir James Crichton Browne, the English expert on brain diseases, asserted in a popular lecture last week that insomnia is not attended with such diastrous consequences as is commonly supposed. It is not as dangerous as the solicitude of the sufferer. He suggested that the brains of literary men, who are the most frequent victims, acquire the trick of the heart, which takes a doze a fraction of a second after each beat and so manages to get six hours' rest in 24. Some brains in cases of insomnia sleep in sections, different brain centers going off Washington this winter.—San Francisco

Golden Rod Their Emblem A charming woman's rights advocate at a recent Niagara county conventing gave voice to these stirring sentiment and proclaimed the golden rod as the emblem of woman's suffrage: We welcome you as soldiers in the army in woman's emancipation. The hour has struck at last which ushers in the dawn of "Woman's Age." The bugle sounds from the battlements Age." The bugle sounds from the battlements of justice and right, summoning us to the field. We are here today for better organization, a discuss plans which shall qualify woman to a crowned queen of a free republic, that shall open to her every avocation in life which the Maker designed her to fill, and to wield intelligently that most potent weapon, a free hallow When the shackles of prejudice, welded by blinded bigotry, shall fall from our hands then, and only then, shall many of the evilsed this world be conquered, many of the crooked places be made straight, many a dirty politica pool be cleansed, for Uncle Sam needs a good pool be cleansed, for Uncle Sam needs a go housekeeper, and the nation needs a mother

We have learned to love this flower (the golden rod) because of the honor this nation has bestowed upon it. Not many months since it was only an obnoxious weed, growing rank by the roadside and on barren fields. Its lay came. A great nation has crowned its goiden plume with honor, and we gather it with agerness and think of it with a patriotism akin to that which we feel toward the stars and stripes.

It stands by the roadside today, still true to its nature, not crying out to be a rose or a lily, still fulfilling the mission its Creator intended,

a glorified weed.

Its color is the fitting emblem of our order, for it points to the golden days when women shall by the sanction of this great republic he taken from social, moral and political bondage and crowned with womanly glory.

Chinese Women In San Francisco. An enterprising man who has been in vestigating feminine Chinese life in Sam Francisco has become almost as enthusi-Japanese women. According to the San Franciscan the Chinese women lead a charming life.

Their morning duty is to trim and attend to the lamps that burn before the household shrines. At 10 o'clock they few domestic duties. Then they embroider or paint porcelain. They visit at one another's houses, gossip, play sing ballads, tell stories and play the flute. In the evening, the chronicler of Chinese customs maintains, a happy family circle gathers about and listens to the husband or son read from a book of fairy tales, all of which the Chinese women implicitly believe. It would really seem that they lead a fairly endurable life, although they are not allowed to see any men but those of their family.

The question comes to us from over the ocean, "Should married women teach?" Well, should married women preach? Should they work, sew, laugh, walk or do anything anybody else does? It takes a long time to get the idea out of the minds of the people that a mar-ried woman has no right to step outside the threshold of her own home. Let the question be settled at home. If a woman can teach, and both husband and wife are agreed that she may teach, why shouldn't she teach?

In many respects a married woman is better fitted to teach than an unmarried woman. The general law made by some cities that no married woman can be employed in schools is unjust. There are many such married persons whom to remove from the schools would be a misfortune.-Boston Herald.

She Outwitted Cabby. It has remained for a Boston woman to get the better of a Chicago hackman, according to the Chicago papers. She lived in a house where the boarders were accustomed to hire an omnibus to take them to the fair grounds. She negotiated with the owner of the omnibus for an evening trip, beat "cabby" down $12 on the price and collected full fare from each of the party, pocketing the extra $12. She worked the scheme several times with success, finally being discovered.

The commanding position which the banks of this country occupy in our financial world cannot be denied, nor the importance of our banking institutions over-estimated. Whaling Vessel Came Across the Wrecked Ripple In Baffin's Bay.

LONDON, Nov. 14.-The crew of the whaler Aurora, which has just arrived at Dundee, report that they discovered in Baffin's bay the wreck of the schooner Ripple. This is the vessel in which two Swedish men of science, Bjorlfg and Kalvennius, left St. John's, N. F., in June, 1892. Their purpose was to collect specia mens of the flora and fauna of Greenland along Davis' strait.

The crew of the Dundee boat, after a search along the shore, found two cairns near the spot where the Ripple had gone to pieces. One was covered with the remains of human bodies. Under the other cairn were found manuscripts and a note, written in English, asking the finder to send the papers to Baron Nordenskjold or the nearest consul. Near this cairn lay a skeleton, supposed to be that of either Bjorlfg or Kalvennius.

"Ira McBride" Has Many Victims In Boston and Lynn.

CASHED CHECKS FOR HIM.

They Afterward Found That the Paper Was Worthless.

Boston, Nov. 14.-There are a large number of people in this city and Lynn besides the police who would like to learn the present whereabouts of a young man who a little while ago successfully swindled them out of large sums of money. This young man's right name is Talbot D. Gadd, but he was better known in this city as Ira McBride, for it was under that name that he passed here.

For a year and a half he worked for Superintendent Burgher of the Watkins Automatic Fire Alarm and Extinguisher company, in the capacity of special agent. While there he was an especially good employε, and it is said brought a good deal of business into the concern. Bride always dressed well and went in the very best of society. He is about 28 or 3 years of age. He made friends with every body, and until he hastily left the city an enemy of his would have been hard to find. But within a week after his depart ure there were dozens looking for his

He always made his lodgings at th Grand hotel on Columbus avenue, and there used to entertain his friends in a most lavish manner. He was a great lover of wine, and this, together with a certain woman he adored, are thought to have caused his downfall, although there is but little doubt but that he has swindled people in a like manner in other cities and this is looked upon as the reason for his going under an assumed name.

A Grand Swoop. When he came to Boston about two years ago he was practically a stranger in this city, for his home is in the far west. nature, and he had but little trouble i getting a position from Superintendent Burgher. Everything went along well until shortly before his departure from Boston, and then he "worked" his friends and acquaintances, securing in different sums before he left money amounting to $3000 to $4000.

Shortly before his departure from Boston, say five or six weeks, there appeared on the scene a woman who claimed to be his wife, and who was formerly an actress connected with the McCaull Opera com pany. She lived with him at the hotel to be in New York.

Soon after he came to Boston he made the acquaintance of a young man on Boylston street, and the latter became greatly interested in McBride, and for some time "chummed" with him. Often Mc Bride would ask the young man to discount paper and cash checks for him, which he would do. He always found them good until the fellow left town, and then he discovered that he cashed paper for him to the extent of about $300 whi was absolutely worthless.

This is the fact in a great many cases and among his victims are Superintenden Burgher of the automatic company, who endorsed a draft for $150 which was worth less; W. H. Richardson & Co., gents furnishers; Tailor Farrington; Proprietor Reynolds of the Hotel Grand; Jeweler Cohen; R. H. White & Co.; Louden & Wilson, tailors; Shoe Dealer Graham Tailor Freidman and many others.

Took a Trip to Lynn. Just before his departure he went to Lynn and there swindled three firms on the representation that his employers had sent him to collect money, when in reality he had no authority to do this. From J O. Marshall he obtained $200; Dearborn Bros., $100, and from M. Butman he also secured quite a sum. Others are anxious to find him.

When McBride went to Superintenden Burgher and told the latter that he had decided to go with his wife for a few days to the White mountains there was no ob jection offered and he started on his sur posed journey, but he never came back It was not until some time afterward that the office discovered that he had left be-hind his badge and other things belong ing to the office, which first made them inspector was consulted. Since then his whereabouts have been unknown.

McBride came from a good family, and young man.
When quite young he left home and went to the south, where he became a Texas ranger. He afterward went into the real estate business, where he made quite a lot of money, but squandered it all on women. He afterward became treas urer of the McCaull Opera company. At one time it is said that he was also an

He had for an intimate friend while in of money and for whose arrest a reward has been offered. It is thought that both of the young swindlers are now together.

Here is one: Surrounded by a bevy of Chicago beauties-most of them debutantes of the season lately endedthe princess stood one night where lights gleamed like noble opals in the parlors of a merchant prince. There was soft music above, and society was whirling in the dance. The smiling princess tapped the carpet nervously, yearning to throw off the iron fetters of the naval commander near her person and whirl with the dancers. The rigid laws of the Castilians denied her that delight, so she beat a tattoo on the carpet. A tiny silk slipper peeping from the skirts of a Michigan avenue belle caught the prin-

THE WAYS OF PROVIDENCE.

While the travel 'long the pathways Of this probation lan We meet with circumstances That we fail to understan. Some men we see fly up'ards,

On the wings of fortune mountin, While Providence keeps others, Better far, forever standin In the midst of tribulation, On the lowes' earthly landin In a way that, think our best, Reaches over all accountin.

Ev'ry day we meet with Dives, Full o' wickedness an might. Oppressin some poor Lazarus At mornin, noon an night,
Yet he's clad in gorgeous purple
An the fines' kind o' linen,
While his ears he closes tight
To the beggar's piteous pleadin,
An keeps addin to his treasure,
So mighty an exceedin,
Till it seems as if his power
Had ne endin or beginnin.

Had no endin or beginnin An if this world we're placed in Was the final en of livin,

An after death to mortals
No futur' state was given,
We'd be right in thinkin Providence
Had missed its calculations.
But w'en we recollec' that some day There'll be a changin places We jes' keep right on pullin steady In contentment's easy traces, Feelin sure that at the endin She'll even up the rations.

SABINA WILKINS.

Miss Sabina had finished her morning duties, had dressed the butter, swept n the corner, as neat housekeepers do, had gathered flowers and seed and eggs and now seated herself by the window to

But the fingers moved laggardly. She was clean sickened out of fancy work, of nursing the sick, sitting up with other people's children, going to funerals and to church picnics to see young people in love enjoying themselves. She was tired, oo, of being asked why she didn't get married. She had been literally joked to death on the subject.

But to look in the little room where Miss Sabina sat one would think she fined as David was, he was suddenly might be tolerably happy. Old Puss moved to an outburst of admiration that purred kindly at her feet, ready to fol- filled the very air about Sabina with low every step. On the mantel stood music and light and fragrance. "Miss vases of gay flowers, and between them Sabina," he said, "I think you're the an old clock, ticking and striking the sweetest woman I ever saw. Why don't hours softly, out of respect, it may be supposed, to the sensitiveness of Miss Sabina, who fain would linger awhile tle. She had never been attacked that onger at the rosy gate to the temple of time. On a table lay the family Bible, dreamed that love and courtship could in which, however, was recorded one date that saddened Miss Sabina—her age. Between the windows stood an old fashioned bureau, whose mirror kept Miss Sabina informed of all the changes in her face, which she prayed Father | Ware?" Time to touch gently, as it might yet be her fortune.

Feeling lonelier than ever before in her life, she looked about her, sat for some moments in deep meditation and then "Is this all there is in the world for

Here was the key to her discontent. Miss Sabina was right pretty, hadn't a favorably her excitement. Sabina exsharp tongue nor a long neck and was tended her hand. David examined it well off. Now, why did she have to live closely, looked up into her eyes, then alone? God's original plan must certainly have included her happiness. Why not? What could Providence possibly have against her? She had never harmed ! have against her? She had never harmed thim with a coquettish way that said, anybody and never talked spitefully of "Take it again." "You mustn't fly in men—a remarkable thing in a single wo- the face of Providence, Sabina. Beman of 40. When Miss Sabina contemplated the shrews, the redheads, the feminine scarecrows, that were flourishing ably happy, David continued: "Only as like green bay trees with husbands, and | my wife, Sabina, can I repay your kindwith children to spare, she just settled ness. As Miss Sabina sat musing on life and its inequalities she heard the sharp whistle of a train which passed right in front of her house. Something must have happened. The whistle did not usually standstill, men running back on the ence in the daily papers of advertisetrack and passengers looking excitedly ments offering to tattoo crests, coats of from the car windows. Attempting to walk from one car to another, he had made a misstep, lost his balance and fallen. The result was a badly mutilated foot. Miss Sabina's house being the nearest one in sight, he was taken to have their fair shoulders adorned with the train moved on.

Amputation was at once pronounced foot was taken off, and a trained nurse forearm.—Vogue. employed to attend him. Miss Sabina had nothing to do in the case but to furnish fresh flowers and dainty edibles to David. She was relieved of much embarrassment when she heard that it was thing before.

As David, in his pain, saw the little Louis Republic. woman moving through the hall and heard her giving orders for his comfort, he thought of the cloud with silver lining about which he had so often preached. A realistic vision was passing be- denly a one-armed gentleman turned to fore him. The third day that he lay in the person sitting next to him and said, WE ARE ANTICIPATING the little parlor, the nurse left him while he was sleeping and engaged Miss Sabina hand, as I want badly to applaud myin conversation on the porch. brown. Woman's wiles often hide under just such covers.

David, when he was not sleeping, spent most of his time watching the door. Sabina, when she was not cooking or making bouquets, spent most of her time gliding stealthily by the door, for of course she was too modest and proper to enter it except occasionally with neighbors who called upon the unfortunate minister.

Mrs. Tabitha Topp, a neighbor and a great believer in the law of compensation, made Sabina blush herself nearly to death by saying: "Well, Sabina, the Lord took the minister's foot, but he'll be sure to give him something in place of it. You've been good enough to let him have the little parlor you don't even open for most folks, and maybe you'll get your pay in some manner you're not expecting." Sabina pretended not to be thinking about pay, but she was already thinking about possibilities

Well, there's no situation in life but changes sooner or later. David Ware, minister, could not lie forever in that little parlor being waited on, and Sabina Wilkins could not go on forever broiling chickens and arranging sweet flowers for a strange man.

David was at last able to limp out to the porch, where he caught Miss Sabina sitting under the vines. The nurse was down in the village; Rex was asleep on the doormat. Sabina blushed like a girl of 18 and was afraid to sit with the minister for fear a neighbor might come and catch her. She was afraid to get up and leave for fear she would be losing an opportunity, and a woman at 40 can't afford to be reckless.

David rocked; Sabina rocked. Then he said, "Pleasant evening, Miss Wilkins. "Yes, very," she answered.

David rocked; Sabina rocked. Then he said: "Sweet little home for you here, Miss Wilkins. Suppose you never get lonely, do you?"

"Yes, very," she answered him. It announced to him that here was a tender, loving woman robbed by some broken law of the love and sympathy to which she was entitled. Modest and re-

David asked, construing spelled slowly, "W-a-r-e! There it is!" Sabina gasped, held her salts bottle to her nose, having jerked her hand from ware!" A pun and proposal in one word. States will push President Dole and demand the surrender of all his power on the ground that the provisional government itself put a limit upon the duration of its own authority, and that limit ex-pires when Minister Willis announces to him that there is no possible chance of annexation to the United States. It is a fact that for some time past the provisional government has recognized that there was no hope of securing annexation to the United S ates, and they have felt fully the obligation upon them under these circumstances of providing a permanent form of government for the islands. The form of the proposed government has been discussed and it has been proposed to call it a commonweath. THE GIFT DIVINE.

A single tree my prospect is. Of all the lavish greenness That summer yields, I have but this In place of utter leanness. Hemmed in by walls of brick and stone, This one green outlook is my own.

But breadth of land and sweep of sea Have failed of such attraction. And bloomy gardens granted me Less simple satisfaction, Less thankful sense of happiness, Than now in one tree I possess. It shuts all sordid things away;

All pleasant things enhances; Hills the silence day by day
With summer's sweetest fancies;
Brooks babble, wild flowers smile for me And forests murmur in my tree. Birds, too, and butterflies and bees

Throng in its compass narrow;

A choir of rippling harmonies
I hear in one brown sparrow;
A glint of sudden sunshine brings The dream of many colored wings Ah, gift divine! what sorrow curbs. What bitter fate can flout you? Better with you a meal of herbs Than the stalled ox without you: For eyes that you anoint can see All nature's beauty in one tree. -Sunday School Times.

OLD HORNUS.

A single French regiment, on an unsheltered railroad bank, stood like a target for the Prussian army, massed in the woods some 80 yards away. As the bullets fell thick about them, the French officers ordered their men to lie down, but not one would obey. All remained proudly standing about their

"And the flags" - demanded Hornus. "The flags were surrendered with the rest-the guns, the remains of the wagon trans-everything."

"Th-th-thunder!"stammered the poor fellow, "they shan't keep mine." And he set off on the run toward that side of the town. There, too, all was confusion. National guards, civilians and gardes mobiles were walking about. Deputations passed, trembling, on their way to the marshal's house. Hornus saw nothing, heard nothing. He hurried up the street, muttering to himself: "To take my flag from me! Come now, can this be possible? Let him give the Prussians what is his own—his silver plate and his gilded coaches—but this is mine. It is my honor. I forbid any one to touch it."

His sentences were broken up by his hurried pace and his stammering tongue; but, after all, the old fellow had a plan, a clear and fixed purpose to take his flag, to carry it into the midst of the regiment, and with any who would follow him to fall upon the Prussians and destroy them utterly. When he reached the colonel's house, he was not even allowed to enter. The colonel too, was furious and would admit no one, but Hornus did not understand push past the orderly.

"A receipt. A receipt," he repeated mechanically. Finally he went off with but one clear idea in his headthat his flag was at the arsenal, and that, come what would, he must see it again.

The arsenal gates were opened wide for the passage of the Prussian wagons which were ranged in the yard. A chill passed over Hornus as he entered. All the other ensigns were there and 50 or 60 officers, silent and heartbroken. With the somber wagons standing in the rain and the groups of men with bared heads, it was like a funeral. All the flags of Bazaine's army were lying in a heap on one corner of the muddy pavement. Nothing could be sadder than those strips of bright hued silk, the grass, while the singers, clasping was but a tattered rag in the hands of that debris of golden fringe and carved sticks, all that glorious paraphernalia thrown on the ground, soiled with mud

Zola on France and Germany.

While in London M. Zola was interviewed by the correspondent of the Cologne Gazette on the relations between France and Germany. M. Zola said: 'Though I am not exactly a politician I can assure you of one thing, and that is that no one in France desires war. In no circumstances shall we take the offensive, but if we are attacked, well and good. I do not wish to deny the existence of the idea of revenge, but there is a great difference between cherishing an idea and putting it into practice. You cannot give me the name of a French statesman of the present day who is eager for war. We have no military party and no general who can claim the right to cover himself with the laurels of war. We have become more democratic, broader and more peaceable in our views. The condition, however, in view of the fact that the anarchists in which France lives is, I confess, anything but an ideal one."

Said to Have Been Used For Purposes Other Than Intended.

PHILADELPHIA, Nov. 16 .- A fight was begun in yesterday's session of the Knights of Labor convention between the Hayes and Powderly faction, which is likely to continue with great bitterness during the remainder of the session. The morning session was consumed in routine business and the appointment of standing committees for the ensuing year by General Master Workman Powderly. Late in the afternoon General Treasurer

Hayes presented a report of the financial affairs of the order for the year just passed, in which he is said to have flatly accused the general executive board with having misappropriated all or part of the fund subscribed for the benefit of the strikers at Homestead and Cœur d'Alene.

This report, which was a direct fling at the Powderly faction, became the subject of an acrimonious debate, in which both parties indulged in almost abuse of one another. THE HAWAIIAN STAMP CRAZE.

A Situation That Attracted the Attention of Philatelists the World Over.

Of all the queer developments that have arisen in connection with the dethronement of Queen Liliuokalani none is stranger than the excitement which attended the speculation in the provision-$1 stamps issued by the present government. This speculation is not confined to stamp collectors and dealers, but is indulged in by residents of Honolulu and citizens of this and other countries alike, even one of the Spreckels family being credited with having purchased and laid aside $12,000 worth of these labels for

It was anticipated that the provisional government would be of short duration, and that the improvised stamps were to have a life as short as the temporary government, and this led to the scramble for stamps, as it was presumed that they would become exceedingly rare and val-

There were 21 varieties issued, including all the perforated stamps issued by the Hawaiian government since 1864, ranging in value from 1 cent to $1. Each of these was overprinted, or surcharged, to use a philatelic term, with the words "Provisional Govt., 1893," in three lines, each word and date taking a separate

Some of the stamps were surcharged with black letters and others with red, all of one denomination being overprinted in the same color. But the portion of one value, the 12 cent mauve, was surcharged in black and the remainder in red, there being twice as many of the latter surcharged as of the former. As but a few thousands of this particular stamp were on hand, they were soon bought up, and as much as $5 each was paid for a specimen of the black surcharge. Speculators soon bought up the supply of several of the other values, and it was not long after the date of their issue that a complete set of these stamps, which had a face value of $3.01, and the entire set can now be purchased for $10, still leaving a handsome profit on the original cost.

Recent advices from Honolulu show that the mania for stamp collecting has had somewhat of a sensational effect there. F. F. Porter, a brother of the ex-minister of finance of the provisional government, wrote as follows to a friend

"They have gone crazy on Hawaiian stamps. Even the Chinese are in it. I saw by the paper last night that one Chinese firm bought $1,700 worth at the postoffice. If such is the case, the government has a mighty good thing, for it can grind them out for about 10 cents per 1,000. I see in the windows about town samples of several kinds of stamps priced $10."-San Francisco Call.

Bostonia and the day when a mount of his stocker's weatth, not will be for a few days to come. Blanche Treville, an American actress, known on the stage as Miss Irving.

Last summer Mrs. Treville was living at 37 Avenue d'Antin. Her daughter, who was only 4 years old, was being educated at a convent in the neighborhood of Paris. When the holidays commenced, the child came to live with her mother in Paris. On Aug. 26 Mrs. Treville had to go out in the afternoon. She confided the child to the care of Marie Marterez, who promised not to lose sight of her. She, however, shut the child up in her own room, locked her in and took the key away with her. When Marie Marterez returned, she found her room full Health society opened classes for the of smoke. The poor child's cries were how to give first assistance to the inunheard. There were on the door the jured, in all of which, it seems, duchmarks made by her delicate little nails in her desperation and fear.

All that could be done to save the child was done, but it was too late. The child died the same night.

In her despair Mrs. Treville accused the servant of murder, saying that Marie Marterez detested the child and had purposely shut her up alone with matches, with which Blanche had always liked to play. But the judicial authorities made inquiries and learned that Marie Marterez was as a rule very attentive to the trated with a patient, bedding, etc." child and took good care of it. The charge of murder was consequently changed to that of homicide through carelessness. Mrs. Treville herself appeared in court to give evidence, and renewed her accusation that the servant had wanted to bring about the child's death. "I am sure of it," she said, weeping.

"She detested baby." But the court took a different view of the case and sentenced Marie Marterez the inherent right of a Briton to please to three months' imprisonment.-Paris

The pioneer among the aristocracy of nursing and sanitation was Lady Brooke, who, with her husband, enjoys the particular friendship of the Prince of Wales. Her ladyship has for years been accustomed to keep a sharp eye on the water supply and sanitary arrangements of the villages on her estates in the counties of Warwick and Essex, often to the deep disgust of the cottagers, who claimed himself in such matters, and who ob jected strongly to being coerced into cleanliness on pain of eviction. Puritanical people have sometimes said hard things of Lady Brooke. It is right that credit should be given her in this matter.-London Letter.

There has also crept into the department f state a feeling of doubt as to whether the provisional government will yield so readily to the mere suggestion of the ninister of the United States as was hoped when he was dispatched to Hono-lulu. It is learned that the forces of the provisional government, though small, are well organized and disciplined and are most of them sharpshooters.

It is now pretty well understood that Minister Willis is instructed not to land marines and adopt a policy of force, but to confine himself to a conciliatory policy. There is not near as much faith as there was a week ago that a conciliatory policy will avail to induce the provisional government to yield to the restoration of the ex-queen, and there is excellent authority for saying that there has never has been any intention of continuing aid and support to Li!iuokalani after her restoration. The conciliatory attitude toward the provisional government it was hoped would induce it to sustain the restored queen.

Uneasi ess at Washington. The possibility that Minister Willis may not be able to carry out the program of peaceable restoration of the queen and the amalgamation of the provisional government with her administration makes all interested in the movement ill at ease. It is realized at the state department that the restoration movement would be far more popular if it is accomplished with the seeming acquiescence of the provisional government and if the members of that government endorse it by entering the queen's cabinet. Consequently, news of the situation from Hawaii is awaited by the government with more interest than the general public, for it feels that it has more at stake than is supposed.

MICHAEL SET AT LIBERTY

Because Evidence Was Insufficient to Hold Him.

It was nearly 10 o'clock when Judge Fallon got his regular morning work cleared away in the district court and was ready to begin the hearing in the Toole case, to decide whether there was sufficient evidence for holding Michael and Stephen Toole, or either of them, for the grand jury, on charge of murdering their mother

After the lawyers for the government and the defense had done the usual amount of preliminary sparring, Michael A. Toole was called to the witness stand. He looked pale. After answering the usual questions as to his name, age, employment, etc., he told about his connection with the drug firm of Carter, Carter & Kilham, which terminated a year ago last August. Since then he has worked Washington-street drug store many times on business and to see the clerk with whom he was formerly associated.

Bought Cyanide of Potassium.

The last time he remembers calling there was between five and seven weeks ago, when he bought a quarter of a pound of cyanide of potassium of a clerk named Charles Adams. He testified that Adams asked him what he was going to do with the poison, and his answer was that it was to be used to kill insects. Then he took the poison home and gave it to his sister Mary. It was in a tin box, and she made a solution in a pickle bottle. A few days before he bought the poison, Michael said he went to the store of Carter, Carter & Kilham and asked for it of another clerk, who refused to sell the drug for the purpose required. The cyanide of potassium was finally purchased at the instance of Mary Toole, and with money furnished by

Michael then told the story of his doings on the day of the murders, in answer to questions by Mr. Paul, while Michael J. Creed watched him and once in a while made an objection. During the forenoon of the day, Michael said, he was in the his return. After dinner he went down cellar, where he was busy fixing some commissioners. boards at the windows until about 4:30 in

After supper in the evening he was sent after the bottle of porter by his mother, Senator Voorhees and upon his return he left it in the kitchen without having seen any one open it. The next thing that happened was the discharge of Michael Toole on the

The pail was partly full of water when Stephen poured the solution into it, and witness did not know that there was any more of the poison in the house, except in the box which Michael purchased at the store of Carter, Carter & Kilham. Later in the day, witness saw Stephen empty the contents of the pail into the sink. Perhaps Stephen might have put some of the solution on some bedsteads to kill bedbugs, during the day, but witness did not see him. In regard to the poison left in the box in the dry state, witness saw her mother put it into a trunk, and no one connected with the household had seen it since.

practically the same story as has been told by all of the members of the family since

Patrick's Testimony. The next witness called was Patrick Toole. Patrick said he had not been at home during Wednesday after 7 o'clock in the morning. He returned at about For Latest Local and Vicinity 10.30 p. m. He went home then because his youngest brother went for him to where he was spending the evening. Patrick's testimony regarding the alleged trouble between himself and Stephen was considerably different from that of previous witnesses. He denied having any words with Steve on the Monday previous to the deaths. He did not accuse Steve of taking his pocketbook. So far as his knowledge went he did not notice any of the family around after 11 o'clook that night. He was not aware of the presence of syanide of potassium in the house at my time. He heard acthing about possess an Wednesday evening.

Knew Nothin; About Polion, Joseph F. Toole, the youngest of the five brothers, followed Patrick. He is 18 years old and is employed at the state ouse as messenger to Governor Russell. On Wednesday morning Joseph left home at about 8 o'clock, returning at about 5. Had his supper soon after. He saw his mother, father, Minnie and Stephen in different parts of the house. The latter Boston, Nov. 18.—There was a surprise was in the kitchen. He did not know that for those who attended the preliminary there was any cyanide of potassium in the trial in the Toole poisoning case in South house. Witness heard Dr. Whipple say Boston yesterday, for at the conclusion of the deaths of his mother and sister were the testimony of Michael Toole he was caused by poisoning. He saw the bottle discharged from custody by the court, that his mother was in the habit of refer that his mother was in the habit of using porter.

Another Brother Testifies. John J. Toole, another brother, testified that he overheard some words between Patrick and Michael on Monday evening. John said he did not see Stephen in the house on Wednesday night. He did see the bottle of porter and the two glasses. Did not touch the bottle. Witness saw Stephen in the house late in the evening, after the fact of the deaths became known. He was in the kitchen with an uncle and two cousins; did not know the exact time. Never knew poison to be kept in the

Dr. Draper on the Stand. The last witness of the afternoon was Dr. Frank W. Draper, medical examiner for Suffolk county, who testified that the contents of the porter bottle was given to Professor Tucker by him to be analyzed. He made a full autopsy on the bodies the fol-lowing morning. In the cases of both bodies the after-death stiffness was marked. The various internal parts of the bodies were placed in bottles and preserved for analytical purposes. Tests were made for prussic acid or potassium, and the response was instant. At this point the court adjourned.

MYSTERIOUS DOINGS

Which White House Guardians Are Unable to Check.

WICKED WORK WITH KNIFE

Accomplished Despite the Extraordinary Precautions.

NEW YORK, Nov. 18 .- A Washington special to The Commercial Advertiser

In spite of all the precautions for the protection of the president and to keep cranks away from the White House, the sacred precincts of the mansion have been entered in some mysterious manner, and the president's household is greatly excited.

For many weeks past there has been a series of robberies of a mysterious and peculiar kind in Washington. The burglars have stolen but few things, but have at each visit destroyed a considerable amount of furniture, slashing pianos and chairs and cutting up table linen and clothing. Every effort to trace the criminals has failed up to this time.

Without any thought of burglars, but solely for the protection of the president, who is greatly afraid of cranks, the White House has been guarded by special detec tives and policemen in addition to the regular watchmen, and every precaution has been taken to prevent any unauthorized person from entering the building. The east room alone has been open to visitors. None have been permitted to enter there who leaked there who looked suspicious, and those who have been permitted to examine the house have been in charge of watchmen. All other portions of the house have been kept closed to visitors.

Precautions of No Avail. Notwithstanding all these precautions it has been demonstrated that the house may be entered without the knowledge of the guardians. It has been discovered that some person, or persons, possibly a crank, has entered the green room, where visitors are not allowed except with a guard in attendance, and slashed the furniture with a knife. Great slashes in the form of a cross have been cut isto the beautiful satin upholstery, and other acts of vandalism upon the furniture have been committed.

Whether this was wanton vandalism with no other object in view, or whether it was done by some crank as a warning or threat against the president, is not known. The supposition is that the cutting of crosses in the furniture is intended as a threat, such as senders of bloodthirsty an nymous letters convey by cross bones and bloody skulls.

Whatever may be the motive, the fac that an entrance could be made to the build ng, and this act of vandalism committed and the culprit escape without being discovered, has sent cold chills down the back of the president's household.

A WOMAN FOR SALE.

A Betrayed Girl Offers to Sell Herself to the Southern Medical College. With a pale, haggard face; with a wild despairing look and tears literally despairing look and tears literally streaming down her hollow, sunken Are in the cheeks, Maud Fambro, a once innocent country girl, entered the Southern Medical college yesterday afternoon. Approaching Uncle Robert Pierce, the kind ly disposed old janitor, she asked for the ladies' reception room. After having seated herself, the young woman in a dazed sort of way surveyed the room and its contents with ment's hesitation she inquired of the jani tor if the college wanted to buy a sub ject. If so, she had one to offer for sale, which, although alive now, would in the course of a month or two be at the dis posal of the college if terms were agreed where to go or what to do." It is the same old story of man's perfidy and woman's worse than weakness Six months ago she was a highly respect ed country girl, living on the line of the Atlanta and West Point railroad near a pretty little town of 1,800 or 2,000 inhabitants-now an outcast and a wan derer upon the face of the earth. A once poor, innocent country lass, she seeks to make a horrible and ghastly disposition of her corpse that she might make proper provision for her future offspring. It is ndeed a sad case. The girl, not meeting with what she thought proper consideration, left the college, saying she was going to carry out her intention or commit suicide. She was entreated to go home and was given enough money to pay her railroad fare to the little town from which she came yesterday. It is not known where she went after leaving the college.-Atlanta Constitution.

A FREAK OF NATURE.

It Is a Calf With Two Heads and Six Feet, and Alleghany Has It.

Alleghany has a monstrosity. It is in the shape of a newly born calf. It is a freak of nature that the museum man would be after it this morning if it were still alive. But the calf is dead. It died shortly after it was born. The calf | large bonus to get the club and get in the had two perfectly well developed heads, six legs and two tails, and is a curiosity that attracted all Alleghany that knew about it yesterday afternoon.

The calf's mother was the property of in their hands. Herman Jacob, a dairyman, residing at 277 Madison avenue, Alleghany. He was obliged to kill the cow before the calf was born. After the calf died Mr. Jacob decided to stuff the hide and keep it as a curiosity.

So far as the heads and front part of the monstrosity are concerned, the calf is shaped and proportioned normally, but at the shoulders the "double calf" is merged into one, with a perfectly formed hind part, with the exception of the two well formed tails of equal size and proportion. Within the calf there were found to be two stomachs, one set of bowels and one pair of lungs .- Pittsburg Dispatch.

PRINCE ALEXANDER DEAD.

The Once-Popular Ruler of Bulgaria Dies on German Soil. GRATZ, Nov. 18.-Prince Alexander of Battenberg, formerly prince of Bulgaria, The Woodruff-Gould Story Prodied here yesterday. Prince Alexander of Batten berg, ex-prince of Bulgaria, was born April 5, 1857, the second son of Prince Alexander of Hesse by his morganatic marriage with the Countess von Kauck. Prince Alex-ander served his apprenticeship to the professor of arms in the Russian service, and took part in the Russo-Turkish war of 1877-78. Subsequently he was transferred to the German army, holding a commission in the Imperial Life Guards. In 1879 he was chosen Prince of Bulgaria by the assembly of the notables at Tirnova.

In 1885 events forced a collision between Bulgaria and Servia. In this short and sharp war Prince Alexander proved him-selt an admirable commander, winning a series of br lliant victories over the Ser-WOLLASTON-Ross' news stand and vians. The result of his success was the union of the two Bulgarias under his rule.
This moved the anger of the czar, who did not wish to see Prince Alexander too powerful a potentate, and a series of intrigues was set on foot against him from St. Petersburg. On the 20th of August, 1886, a military revolt, instigated by Russia, forced Prince Alexander to abdicate. He was taken a prisoner to Russian soil, but his subjects clamored for his return, and he was restored to them.

His experiences had satisfied him, however, that he could not rule in Bulgaria, pave with the consent of Russia, and he formally abdicated the throne and retired to Germany, where he passed the remainder of his life. His elder brother is the husband of Princess Beatrice of Eng-

WELCOME NEWS.

Work In English Mining Towns Will Be

LONDON, Nov. 18 .- The conference be tween the Mine Owners' association and delegates from the Miners' Federation was held yesterday at the foreign office under the chairmanship of Lord Rose-bery. The question of ending the strike was discussed in all its bearings.

It is announced that it was settled by the conference that the miners should resume work at the old wages till February when a conciliation board will be formed This board will hold its first meeting Dec. 13. It will be constituted for one year. If, at the first meeting, the members fail to elect a chairman, the speaker of the house of commons will nominate one. The board will be empowered to determine the rate of miners' wages.

The news that work would be resumed in the mines on Monday at the old wages was received with demonstrations of great joy in all the mining centers of the midands. The leaders of the miners read the dispatches aloud in the streets, and the waiting crowds of strikers cheered themselves hoarse. Church bells were rung in all the mining towns last evening, and thanksgiving services are being held today in the dissenters' chapels.

Charges Were Pending Against Him For Alleged Misdeeds.

Boston, Nov. 18.-John M. Washburn, ex-treasurer of the Old Colony Railroad company, died at his home at 529 Beacon treet, yesterday, at the age of 73 years. Mr. Washburn was treasurer of the Old Colony road up to Sept. 26 last, when a meeting of the directors was held and President Choate made the announcement that an investigation revealed the fact that he was some $69,000 short in his ac-

It is probable that the shock from this exposure lead to Mr. Washburn's death, for up to that time he had been held in high esteem in the community and by the rail-way company which he served. He knew that the blow was coming, and had spent so much energy in worrying over it and in trying to place himself right that on the day the announcement was made he was too sick to be seen by any one at his home, and it was stated at the house that he had Mr. Woodruff was seen very late last then been confined to his room for some night, and said to a reporter: "It is days.

Speculation on the Hawaiian Tangle

WASHINGTON, Nov. 18 .- The expected Before the smoke from the weapon had cleared away Squires was lying dead on the pavement, and the three Italians were from Hawaii, the Australia, has had the effect of decreasing to the lowest point the speculation and surmise that has been prevalent regarding the Hawaiian question. Officials of the state department, as well as the public at large, feel that this steamer will bring messages to the United States authorities and the representatives of the provisional government of the Hawaiian islands which might controvert all the speculations that have been indulged in and bring definite information of the situation at Honolulu.

Under these circumstances there is abso utely no news, and it is doubtful whether there will be any until the arrival of the teamer at San Francisco. THE NEW CHINESE BILL.

The Photograph Provision and the Declaration Concerning Merchants. The senate of the United States on the lay before its adjournment passed the act for the amendment of the Geary exclusion law precisely as it came from the house. In view of this decision and If the overwhelming majority which the measure had received in the house, it must stand as the matured expression of the judgment of the representatives of the American people as a whole.

It is rather noteworthy that while the period of extension granted to the Chihese for registration is six months after the enactment of this new law, the time will expire during the first week of mext May, or almost exactly one year after the period fixed in the original Geary act. That year will have taught much to our Mongolian fellow residents, and they may be expected to avail themselves almost to a man of the privilege now accorded by congress. The new law requires of the applicant a photograph, and this provision has sometimes been stigmatized as importing rogues' gallery methods into its execution. This criticism is not sound. Many railroads, as was pointed out in the house debate, in giving their most er price than ordinary mileage rates, require that upon such a ticket shall be placed not only the purchaser's name, but his photograph, in order that nobody else may use it. Most of those persons who had season tickets of free admission to the Chicago fair were in like manner obliged to attach their photographs to the tickets. In these and imilar cases the purpose is not humiliation, but identification, so that privileges ranted may not be misused by persons vho come wrongly into possession of hem. That is exactly the case with the Chinese, and there is nothing else in the equirement of a photograph for the cerificate of protection. Another important new feature of the mendment act is that which defines the word "merchant," as used in the Geary law. No one can question that it is better to have a precise description of what is intended by this term than that it should be left to conjectural interpretation outside of the lawmaking power. A merchant is now declared to be, for the purpose of this act, "a person engaged in buying and selling merchandise at a fixed place of business, which business is conducted in his name, and who, during the time he claims to be engaged as a merchant, does not engage in the performance of any manual labor, except such as is necessary in the conduct of his business as such merchant." This does not appear to be an unjust definition, or one unduly strained for the purpose of excluding persons from the status of merchants who are fairly entitled to it. But however that may be, the words thus used in the amended act are directly drawn from similar definitions, either in preceding Chinese exclusion acts or in existing treasury decisions interpreting those acts and establishing rules for their execution.—New York Sun.

A REVIEW OF THE CRIME

Which Puzzled Authorities For Over Eighteen Months.

BROCKTON, Mass., Nov. 20.-Edward F. of the large Yarmouth herring fleet, as Luddy, John F. Maher and Michael Smith well as for a number of Scotch fishing were arrested Saturday evening by the were arrested Saturday evening by the Brockton police, charged with the murder of Collins Leaman in Brockton on April 26, 1892. Le Forest W. O'Connor, who claims to belong in Maine, is also held as a witness in the case.

Luddy is 32 years old and a laster by rade. Maher is a shoe stock sorter, 35 years old, and Smith is a shoemaker. All are familiar characters in the police court, but have never before been charged with a crime of such magnitude as that which now confronts them. Story of the Crime

It will be remembered that this murder was the sensation of this vicinity for months. Detectives were employed, re-wards were offered, the whole police force worked hard and long on the case, but nothing resembling a clue resulted.

Collins Leaman was a barber who had ooms in Satucket block on Main street in this city. He was an honest and industrious man, and had a wife and two chillren, and resided on West Elm street. On the night of April 26, 1892, Leaman left his rooms about 10 o'clock. He was club-footed, and his walk homeward was necessarily slow. West Elm street is a fine residential section, but at that time the street, after passing the causeway which runs across the Howard pond, was only dimly lighted by incandescent lamps.

On the right, just beyond the pond, a new street, now known as Lexington street, led to the right from West Elm usensible. He was robbed of two watches and a small amount of money—all posses sions of any value about his person—and then dragged around the corner into Lexington street and thrown down an em-bankment some eight feet high, where he apparently laid for some time un

Later two men passing up West Elm street heard a call for help, and looking over a picket fence into the field where eaman had been thrown, they saw him in a dazed condition attempting to find a place where he could get through the fence around the end of which he had been

ment of the facts of the assault, except to vaguely repeat that some one struck him. His injuries were found to be of a critical nature, his skull being fractured by one two fishing boats were wrecked and 13 or more terrible blows, and he soon sank into a wholly unconscious state, from The Standard says that it is reported | which he never rallied, and death ensued

Witnesses were found who heard somedid not at that time realize what it was The city authorities offered a large reward for information which would lead to the capture and conviction of the murderer or murderers. Detectives were employed and many suspected persons were shadowed, and every effort was made to detect the authors of the atrocious crime, but with-

Nearly 19 months have passed since the murder, and meanwhile City Marshal Chase and the officers of his force have been quietly and persistently at work to detect the criminals. The belief has prevailed that the deed was committed by a man or men who knew Leaman and were familiar with the route over which he must pass to reach his home, and who knew that he would probably carry with him whatever money and valuables he pos-

O'Connor, who is held as a witness, has been here before and is working for a New York concern, and if he will testify to the court as he did to the police about what these three men told him when they had been drinking, it looks more than probable that justice will after 18 months overtake the guilty. The police are very confident that they have the right men.

Charles H. Grindell read the call and Frederick L. Jones was elected chairman and James Copland secretary.

The following were nominated from the floor for the voters to select their councilmen from: Alex. Clark, Charles H. Grindell, John N. Kelley, John C. Murray, Lester M. Pratt, John P. Bigelow, Warren H. Rideout and Peter W. Dakers.

It was voted to ballot for three candidates upon one ballot, Messrs. J. Q. A. Field, W. H. Mitchell and Dr. J. M. Cutting being appointed to receive and count ballots.

The result of the ballot was	as follows:
Charles H. Grindell,	44
Lester M. Pratt,	35
John P. Bigelow,	21
Alex. Clarke,	19
Warren H. Rideout,	13
John N. Kelley,	11
John C. Murray,	10
Peter W. Dackers,	9

Messrs. Grindell, Pratt and Bigelow were declared the candidates, but Mr. Pratt declined to serve which left the three highest Messrs. Grindell, Bigelow and Clarke. The two latter gentlemen thought another ballot should be taken for two candidates as they did not have a majority of the votes. This was accordingly voted, Mr. Grindell being first declared one of the non	linees.

A ballot resulted:

A Quincy Pig Dealer Accused of Swindling at Rockland.

The Herald of Saturday tells a great story as follows: Perhaps the man who swindled the countrymen of Rockland did not hail from Quincy, though: An enterprising pig dealer, hailing from Quincy, did a thriving business in Rockland one day this week. Having disposed of what stock he had on hand he went to the Hotel Richardson, where he took dinner. While there he traded two pigs with the landlord for an overcoat, promising to deliver them the following day. The weather was very cool at that time, and he aduced the landlord to loan him an overcoat until he came with the pigs.

From here the man went to the residence of John Dunn on Liberty street, where he examined a horse which Mr. Dunn had for sale. He expressed his satisfaction with the animal, but told Mr. Dunn that he was purchasing him for his father and asked that he might be allowed to drive the horse to his home in Quincy so that his father might see him. To this proposition Mr. Dunn assented and the man exchanged his horse for that of Mr. Dunn.

The pig dealer then returned to Hotel Richardson and told the landlord that he had just purchased a horse of Mr. Dunn and that it had taken all his available cash, and asked him to loan him $5, which was

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct In-

terferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc. If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once

advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the THE PRESS CLAIMS COMPANY. WASHINGTON, D. C.

Some of these began to send her ruffs of lawn to starch, which she did so excellently well that it became a ened in his det rmination to reseat the saying that if any one sent her a ruff made of a spider's web she would be able to starch it. So greatly did her reputation grow that fashionable dames went to her to learn the art and mystery of starching, for which they gladly paid a premium of £4 or £5, and for the secret of seething starch they paid gladly a farther sum of 20 shillings.—New York World.

"News" From Hawaii Still a Matter of Guesswork.

THE QUEEN NOT RESTORED.

Provisional Government Probably Firmly Entrenched.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 20 .- The state department is less disposed now than ever to take the public into its confidence on the Hawaiian question. In considering

The fact is that those in the confidence of the administration have felt and expressed the utmost assurance that the son. Australia would bring news that ex-Queen Sh ished letter.

The information as to these instructions was received from what was believed to be thoroughly trustworthy authority. This was that Minister Willis was to seek to induce the provisional government to give way to the restoration of the ex-queen, but was to employ no force, waiting for fur-ther instructions if he found it necessary.

It is possible that Minister Willis has become convinced to his entire satisfaction. without having laid the matter before President Dole, that the provisional government cannot be displaced without force, and so has determined to wait for further her out of the house into the road. manent footing. It may be that the public and press have come to a wrong conclusion as to the extent of Minister Willis' instructions. They have supposed that Secretary Gresham's letter declaring what he thought ought to be done and President Cleveland's declaration that he agreed with the secretary's opinion meant that they had determined to proceed with what they declared ought to be done. Some people believe that the publication A pretty "slumber roll" is made out of public opinion for information as to the queen without using means he was not

Boston, Nov. 20.-Joseph Messer, a cook in the Boston Industrial home, Harrison avenue and Davis street, was stabbed by George Johnson, a fellow employe, Saturday evening.

Messer was a Scotchman, about 50 years old, and had worked off and on at the home during the past year. Johnson, who is about 25 years old, has been employed at the place in various capacities during the past six months.

When Johnson made his appearance at the home he represented that he was unfortunate and out of work, and his case being fully understood by the officials as due pretty much to his love for liquor, he was given sheller. He kept sober for some time, but had recently "broken out" again. He was intoxicated when he stabbed

The tragedy, from all the information at hand, seems to have grown out of an alter-cated aggravated and precipitated by Johnson in his drunken condition. science and song. The lovers of humanity will rejoice when there no longer exists the necessity for a congress of women or a separate representation for their interests in any way, but this can never be until men erase the line they have themselves drawn. As long as men ignore the common human interest by organizing for the conduct of great enterprises like this without recognizing women in a co-ordinate capacity, so long must women organize separately to gain such strength and recognition as will impress the world with their importance and potential usefulness as a factor in the concerns of the race. - Woman's Illustrated World.

Wellesley Gris Play Football. There has been a new departure inaugurated at Wellesley college in the matter of athletics. Early this fall Miss L. E. Hill, who has charge of physical culture at the college, conceived the idea of introducing a number of outdoor games hitherto the almost exclusive property of young men, and at the foot of the hill, which is surmounted by the main hall of the college, Miss Hill has laid out a small football field. An association football is used, and passing is the sole method of advancing the ball from one goal to the other. All violence is eliminated from the game, and it is very amusing to hear the "I beg your pardon" when two of the contestants jostle each other in their endeavors to catch the

The Wellesley girls are enthusiastic devotees to golf and football as well as tennis and archery, and some of the girls boo portiere interlaced with colored would make their brothers envious. In all their games there are earnestness and enthusiasm, but, strange to say, no suggestion of rudeness and nothing unwom anly. No one laughs at any discomfiture of a player, due perhaps to the encumbrances of dress, and accidents are accepted as natural consequences not to be noticed. Miss Hill is now endeavoring to have a level tract of land within the grounds set apart and fitted up for a permanent athletic field, which is indeed much needed, as the gymnasium at Wellesley is altogether inadequate for the 700 students in the institution. Miss Hill By dint of leagues and efforts we fought restricts this outdoor exercise to those who have first had physical examinations. and no girl will be allowed to participate in any game for which she has not strength.-New York Sun.

A Staff of Clergymen's Daughters. One of the largest mourning houses in London has a staff peculiar to its own organization. This is made up of the daughters of clergymen. These live in the building, which is most extensive. They have their well appointed rooms and their comfortable table. They have their times and seasons of relief, opportunities for recreation, but their hours are appointed. They are well dresse and always in black silk. When the notice of a death is received, one of these young women is sent in a cab, if it is in driving distance, and personally superintends every detail of the mourning. She goes, comes, takes measures, buys gloves, scarfs, veils, sees to their transmission, and at the last goes personally to adjust bonnets, veils and drap-

If the errand is out of town in a distant place, she takes the train and goes up and down until everything is in readiness. If the order comes from a distance so far that her presence is impracticable, she assumes its entire charge in town. The ceremonial of English mourning is her care of the estate. So successful has so well prescribed and so thoroughly understood that any order can be easily filled .- Exchange.

The Woman Who Works.

Writers in the English press and periodicals are very much exercised lately over the rushing of women into all departments of labor. The Spectator recently devoted two columns to prove that the woman "who works is injuring herself and may even be injuring civilization." Discussing this and other similar opinions on the subject, Miss Emily Faithful, whose long service in behalf of her sex gives her voice authority,

The Girl of the Period.

Sneak thieves and burglars who believe that the old fashioned girl of the three volume number, who faints in the face of danger, is a creature of flesh and blood, should be undeceived at once. If she ever existed, the species is fortunately extinct, for the girls of today are made of entirely different stuff. This was proven conclusively in west Philadelphia recently, when Miss Alice Sypher, a daughter of Lawyer Josiah R. Sypher, put a burglar to flight and nearly ended his earthly career.

The thief entered Miss Sypher's room, and, instead of scaring her half to death, found himself looking down the muzzle of a revolver. The fellow had nerve, however, and carelessly remarking, "That isn't loaded," started to walk toward her. But it was loaded, as the thief discovered when a bullet whizzed within an inch of his head and imbedded itself in the door panel. With an oath the baffled burglar flew down the stairs and escaped through the front door .-

For 11 years the women have taught in this school, and no Christmas, Easter or Thanksgiving day passes without some token of gratitude from the Mongolians privileged to learn English under such pleasant auspices. Even now there are whispers of these curls having appeared in Paris, to the satisfaction of hairdressers, I dare say, because hair is not plentiful nowadays, and so those who wish to be in the mode will have to buy false bunches and stick them on .-

Toole Poisoning Case Will Never Be Explained.

REHEARSAL OF TESTIMONY

Results In the Discharge of Stephen by the Court.

Boston, Nov. 21.-Nearly all the witnesses who have at one time and another appeared for the government or defense in the Toole poisoning case in the municipal court in South Boston were present to listen to the closing arguments in the preliminary hearing and to hear the decision of the court.

Promptly at 2 o'clock ye-terday Judge Fallon took his seat upon the bench and Lawyer Creel began his argument for the defense. He sail that the evidence, presented largely by witnesses summoned by the government, not only failed to establish the probability of the guilt of the defendant, Stephen Toole, but it established his innocence beyond all question of doubt. Lawyer Creek then were the doubt. Lawyer Creed then went over the testimony of each of the witnesses.

advanced in explanation of this mysterious case were touched upon by Mr. Creed, touching particularly upon the likelihood of Margaret's having used the cyanide of potassium in place of sugar. One hour and 20 minutes were taken up by Mr. Creed in his review of the testi-mony offered at the hearing.

The various theo:ies which have been

The Government's Argument. At 3:25 Lawyer Paul arose to present the government's case. For more than an hour he argued, pointing out to the court the singular coincidence of cyanide of po-tassium, one of the rarest of poisons, having been in the Toole house for weeks be-fore the accident, and of it having been used by the defendant on the very day of Stephen's previous record, or at least the government's version of his record, was touched upon, and the alleged quarrel between him and his brother Patrick on the Monday night previous to the tragedy was dilated upon to the full st extent.

Mr. Paul closed his argument with an appeal to the court urging that the defendant be held for the action of the grand

The Judge's Decision, Judge Fallon, in an el quent and able reviewal of the case, presented the facts as they appeared from the testim ny given. In one of his closing periods he made use of these words:

"Were I to hold the defendant for the grand jury on the evidence which has been given in this court, there is no conhold Minnie and Michael also for their share in the crime-if crime it be-for the evidence has ben in every way to connect them with the deaths fully as much as the defendant."

At 4:45 the concluding words were from the dock, again a free man.

The solution of this, the most mysterious case which has happened in this city for years, may never appear; in fact, the probability is that it never will. What caused the death of Hannah and Margaret Toole will remain unknown, and the case will go down into history as one more of the mysteries of Boston, whose true solution will never be brought to light.

A BAD RECORD.

Railroad Accidents Have Caused a Reign of Terror In Massachusetts.

Boston, Nov. 21.-July, August and September were bloody months in Massachusetts. During that period there were recorded 313 accidents. It has been well characterized by some the "reign of terror," for scarcely a day passed on which there was not at least one disaster reported in the state. The two most disastrous catastrophes were Chester and North At-

According to the law in such matters, a report of each accident must be written out as soon as possible and forwarded to the railroad commissioners. These accidents involved directly 352 persons. Eighty-seven were killed instantaneously, or practically so, as they died within a few moments; 269 were injured, and the majority of these bear the same. The greater part of the injured were employes of the railroads. Many of the accidents occurred at grade crossings.

The negro rushed at Elliott with a pick, but before he could reach him he met two fatal shots. Excitement runs high, and should a gun be fired on either side a terrible race war would result.

The Mexican Revolution. JUAREZ, Mex., Nov. 21.-Reports of further engagements between the revolutionists and the federal troops have produced much excitement. Palomas and Conception have been invaded, and the former completely looted. President Diaz has or dered that all the revolutionists caught be ONE MAN KILLED

NEWPORT, R. I., Nov. 21.-Late yesterat the torpedo station. One man was killed and half a dozen were injured. Excavating was in progress for one of the new gun cotton factory. They are to be on the west side of the island, some 100 or 200 feet apart, and are to be sunk into the bank so that only their roofs will appear in sight.

The men were digging a ditch, and blasting was resorted to, though there was no rock, it being closely packed clay. This cut was a trifle softer, but still so hard that the men did not fear caving in.

Both were literally cut to pieces, and were unconscious when found. Forsythe, in addition to a number of hacks and cuts, was run through the lower part of the left lung. While there is some hope for his rival's recovery, the doctors express little hope for Forsythe.

Davis and Forsythe had met by agree ment in the woods and fought by lantern light. They thrust and parried and the fight had progressed for a quarter of an hour, when Davis disarmed Forsythe by breaking his sword. He begged Forsythe to desist, but the latter pulled out his jackknife and rushed at Davis with fury. "I could have killed him easily," said Davis, "but did not care to take an unfair advantage of him. 1.e could not reach me with his knife, but his assaults were so vicious I was compelled in self-defense to run him through with my blade." FINE MUSICALE.

A Grand Treat at the Greenleaf Last Evening-Favorite Artists.

The musicale given at the Greenleaf last night by Mr. J. D. Jones, assisted by members of the Symphony Orchestia, Miss Loella Wagner and Mr. Herbert Fiske, was very fine. Mr. Jones, who is organist of St. John's church, Boston, acted as accompanist, also rendering a selection from the Italian opera, Il Trovatore, which was listened to with marked appreciation. The violin solo by Mr. Fiedler was excellent. Mr. Fiske, the genial proprietor of The Greenleaf, sang a solo entitled "Good night my love," which, considering Mr.

The celloist, Mr. Van Vleet, in playing "Reverie" so captivated the audience that Dolan, James Foy, Daniel J. Ford, Thomas he rung from them a round of applause P. Fihely, Daniel J. Ford, John F. Connor, to which he kindly responded.

Miss Wagner is entitled to much praise for the excellent manner in which she rendered her solo. The duett sung by Miss Wagner and Mr. Fiske, entitled, 'Say once again, I love thee," was from The Ward Candidates of Last Year Re the opera of DonPasquale, and brought out the beauty of each voice. On the whole it was a fine concert, and we hope that there will be many more to follow it.

Chairman Sherman, after considerable gratuity such as a zealous postman would study, elaborated a scheme which was successfully carried out last evening.

The Australian ballot, which has been described at length in these columns, contained the names of Ichabod W. Faunce, Frederick E. Litchfield, Walter F. Nichols, Edward L. Robbins and Ephraim A. Snow. A vote was unanimously passed thanking Charles R. Sherman for the able manner in which he has attended to the duties of councilman for the past four years.

Previous to the balloting the caucus elected the following ward committee and o'clock this morning. The victim was delegates to the municipal convention: Ward Committee,-Hon. Henry O. Fairbanks, Harry E. Gifford, Walter S. Pink-

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. WASHINGTON, Nov. 21. - Secretary commissioner sent to Hawaii by President Cleveland to investigate the revolution which dethroned Queen Liliuokalani and the establishment of the provisional government.

Mr. Blount arrived at Honolulu March 29, 1893. In his report he calls attention to his reception by Minister Stevens, who, "accompanied by a committee from the Annexation club, came on board the vessel which had brought me. He informed me that the club had rented an elegant house, well furnished and provided with tion just what I chose, from nothing up. He urged me very earnestly to accept the offer. that I should go to a hotel." The committee renewed the offer, which was declined. He also refused to accept profferred favors from the ex-queen.

The most interesting portion of Mr. Blount's report is that concerning the revolution, which he explains as follows: "Nearly all of the arms of the island of Oahu in which Honolulu is situated were in the possession of the queen's government. A military force, organized and tween Servia and Austria are very drilled, occupied the station house, the strained, owing to the fact that Servia is barracks and the palace, the only points

> "The great body of the people moved on their usual course. Women and childre passed to and fro through the streets seemingly unconcerned of any impending danger, and yet there were secret conferences held by a small body of men, some of whom were Germans, some Americans and some native born subjects of foreign origin. On Jan. 14 they took up the subject of dethroning the queen and proclaim ing a new government, with a view to annexation to the United States. The first and most momentous question with them was to devise some plan to have the United States troops landed. "Mr. Thurston, who appears to have been the leading spirit, sought two me.n bers of the queen's cabinet and urged them to head a movement against the que n and hardt, the 15-year-old girl who disappeared a few days ago from her father's home at assuring them that in such an event Mr

"Failing to enlist any of the queen' cabinet in the cause it was necessary to devise some other mode to accomplish the purpose. A committee of safety, consisting of 13 members, had been formed from a little body of men assembled in W.O. Smith's office; a deputation of these, informing Mr. Stevens of their plans, arranged with him to land the troops if they would ask it for the purpose of protecting life and property. Cut and Dried.

"It was agreed between him and them that in the event they should occupy the government building and proclaim a new government he would recegnize it. The two leading members of the committee, Messra. Thurston and Smith, growing uneasy as to the safety of their persons, went to him to know if he would protect them in the event of their arrest by the authorities, to which he gave his assent. the form of government, but only to au-thorize the committee to take steps to prevent a consummation of the queen's purposes and to have guarantees of public safety. The committee on public safety had kept their purpose from the public view at this mass meeting and at their small gatherings for fear of proceedings against them by the government of the queen. After the mass meeting had closed, a call on the American minister for troops was made and signed indiscrimi-nately by Germans, by Americans and by

Hawaiian subjects of foreign extraction."

The commissioner says the response to that call does not appear on the files of the legation. "That very night the commit-tee of public safety assembled in a house next to Minister Stevens' residence. J. H. Soper, an American, was elected to command the military forces. It was on Monday evening, Jan. 16, at 5 o'clock, that United States troops were landed.

"Not much time elapsed before it was given out by members of the committee of safety that they were designed to support them. At the palace, with the people who were loyal to the queen, the apprehension came that it was a move-ment hostile to the existing government. Backed by Stevens.

"Protests were filed by the minister of foreign affairs and by the governor of the island against the landing of troops. Messrs. Parker and Peterson testified that Washington, Nov. 21.—Secretary on Tuesday, at 1 o'clock, they called on Mr. Stevens and by him were informed that in the event the queen's forces asthe report of James H. Blount, the special | sailed the insurrectionary force he would intervene. At 2:30 o'clock of the same day the members of the provisional government proceeded to the governme building in squads and read their procl mation. They had separated in the march to the government building f fear of observation and arrest."

Mr. Blount describes the location of t troops, showing that the American troo controlled the position of the queen forces, and continues: "They were doub less so located to suggest to the queen and her counsellors that they were in co-opera tion with the insurrection movement, and 1889, Jason G. "Why had the American minister located the troops in such a situation, and then assured the members of the committee on safety that on their occupation of the government building he would recog-nize it as a government de facto, and as United States marines meant that the Japanese would land troops from a manof-war in the harbor. The American government building designated to them government building designated to them lowed by his recognition?

"It was not a point of any strategic con-sequence. It did not involve the employment of a single soldier. A building was chosen where there were no troops stationed; where there was no struggle to be made to obtain access, with an American mass of the population impressed with its unfriendly attitude.

"Aye, more than this, before any demand for surrender had ever been made on the queen or on the commander of any officer of any of her military forces at any of the points where her troops were lo cated, the American minister had rec-ognized the provisional government and was ready to give it the support of the dress of brocade has the entire pattern Mr. Blount says that this legislature Stevens are quoted and commented upon. on the part of the minister and the revo lutionists

He goes into the details of the matter and points out by time and place the haste with which Mr. Stevens acted, and by quoting from Stevens' report and the papers on file at the legation declares that the minister misrepresented the revolution to the United States government. He points to the lack of harmony in the statements and criticises Stevens, saying:

"Mr. Stevens consulted freely with the leaders of the revolutionary movement from the evening of the 14th. These disclosed to him all their plans. They feared arrest and punishment. He promised them protection. They needed the troops on shore to overawe the queen's supporters and government. This he agreed to and

"They had few arms and no trained soldiers. They did not mean to fight. It was arranged between them and the American minister that the proclamation dethroning the queen and organizing a provisional government should be read from the government building, and he would follow it with a speedy recognition. All this was to be done with American troops provided with small arms and artillery across a narrow street within a stone's throw. This was done. Stevens Blamed For It All. "The leaders of the revolutionary movement would not have undertaken it but for Mr. Stevens' promise to protect them against any danger from the government. But for this the mass meeting would not have been held. But for this no request to land troops would have been made. Had the troops not been landed no measures for the organization of the new gov-ernment would have been taken. The American minister and the revolutionary leaders had determined on a new addition to the United States and had agreed on the part of each to act to the very end."

Mr. Blount says that the native race feel that a great wrong has been done them and their queen. When the queen resigned under protest she did not believe that the action of Stevens would be endorsed, and he adds:

"Indeed, who could have supposed that the circumstances surrounding her could have been foreseen and sanctioned deliberately by the President of the United States. Her uniform conduct and the prevailing sentiment amongst the natives point to her belief, as well as their own, that the spirit of justice on the part of the president would restore h r crown." That is the only thing in the nature of a recommendation made. The special commissioner closes with a description of the parisons of the races, changes in the conditions of the natives and information to show that they have been badly treated. Yarns Were Exaggerated. CHICAGO, Nov. 21.-The stories which are gross exaggerations. The total amount

"I know I cannot get ashore now." he said, turning to Charley. "Do you think you can beat him over to the other shore?"

"Yes, sir," answered our skipper, 'we can and will, or else lose the mast,' and I saw that he meant it.

Just then the two boats were alongside, and the old man and the young one exchanged expressive gestures as their eyes met.

Rang! went the signal to start, and the fleet squared away, the Dawn and the Foam crossing the line together.

Charley ordered up more sail until we had every stitch flying, while the Foam did likewise. It was a dead heat before the wind, and the two boats led the fleet. REVIEW OF PAST EFFORTS

Which Were Squelched by Secretary of State Marcy.

Internal Politics In the United States and the Slave Question Had Much to Do With Preventing the Sandwich Islands From Becoming a Part of Our Country - The Ex-Minister Touches Upon the State of Affairs In Hawaii the throne. Coupled with this statement is and Explains His Action In Ordering the Landing of Marines, and Says "We Must Have the Hawaiian Islands," Washington Officials Have No Further News-Thurston Has a Grievance.

BOSTON, Nov. 22.-John L. Stevens arrived in the city yesterday afternoon from Augusta, Me., and at once took a carriage for the home of his nephew, Elmer Stevens, at West Somerville. The traveller partook of a light supper, and almost immediately retired.

On the train yesterday Mr. Stevens entered into conversation with an acquaintance and talked some regarding Hawaii. In the course of the conversation he alluded to the shadow which had fallen upon his home circle in the death of his daughter, saying that her sudden demise had left him with much less interest in the affairs of the world. Continuing, he

'My desire from the start has been, and is now, to do all I could for the Hawaiian people, who are now passing through a state of excitement to be compared to nothing except the state of the people of the north during the first two years of the civil war. There is the same interest and the same state of public feeling.

"The treaty of annexation was in line with the Democratic policy for 50, years. This is something that seems to have been overlooked, but is fully brought out in ocuments ordered printed last wint r.
When the late William L. Marcy was cretary of state there was an attemp nade to bring about the annexation of the islands, the effort being in line with Democratic policy. A commissioner was apking and the chiefs

"There were then a great many chiefs. They are mostly dead now and the com missioner was instructed to extinguish their title to the country and was authorized to offer them, together with the king. $100,000 for a full and complete relinquishment of their rights. He was further instructed to provide for the admission of the islands into the Union as a territory. "From the first obstacles were thrown in his way. How or why was not then understood, but after the fall of the government of the queen, papers were placed in my bands explaining the whole

"The then king had for a minister of foreign affairs an old Scotchman named Willie. He has been dead for very many years, but in his time must have been a very able and adroit man. He had great influence with the king, and through him with the chiefs.

Staved Off by Politics. States raise. The slavery question was commissioner. The mother of the child stood with it the question all important a. It is the first of the mob. It was immediately the hands of the mob. It was imme tion of the admission states with or without slavery. The Hawaiian people were strought posed to slavery, and the missionaries religious people agreed with Willie that, if annexed at all, they must come into the Union as a state. That point, although in doing so he exceeded his instructions, the the rop commissioner was obliged to agree to. "The next step taken by Willie was to induce the king and the chiefs to increase their demands for money. Step by step this was done, until the treaty submitted to Secretary Marcy provided for the pay-ment of $390,000, and the admission of the island as a state. The state department held the commissioner to the letter of his instructions, and the treaty was rejected."

Stevens Explains His Action. Mr. Stevens then touched on the present state of things in the islands and on his famous act of ordering the landing of the United States marines. He said that even had no request been made to him by the head of the provisional government, the marines would have been landed to save the city from the danger of fire and

He acted under the last instructions touching on that subject issued by the state department, the letter of Secretary Bayard to the then minister, holding the minister and the commodere of the United States fleet there "responsible not only for the preservation of American property and the safety of American citizens, but for the good order of the city."

"Have you seen any occasion to change your opinion as to the course you took?"
"I have not," said Mr. Stevens. He said

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney. With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, its duties. Gentlemen, I again thank you for the honor conferred and the confidence you repose in me.

W. G. Corthell presented the name of Dr. George B. Rice of Wollaston as candidate for school committee at large, and he was unanimously nominated.

A committee was appointed to request the presence of Mr. John R. Graham.

While the committee was out Chairman Sherman said the work was not completed. It remained now for every Republican to take off his coat. Let each of the sixty delegates see that twenty-seven and onehalf voters go to the polls and success is assured. He urged every one to vote before 10 A. M. and thus save the committee much work and expense. Every one who was able should walk to the polls, The Republicans can elect any worthy candidate if they will only get right down to work. Mr. Graham here entered the hall and was heartily received. He congratulated Mr. Thompson on his unanimous nomination, and wished him success.

No gentleman could consistently refuse to accept a nomination from the Republicans. There was work before us. A great load had been taken off his shoulders, but he was young and could wait. He would do all he possibly could to secure the election of Mr. Thompson. It was going to be a hard winter, and as all public improvements enhance property, he hoped the city would make liberal appropriation, give the needy work and make them inde-

Northern and eastern beef cattle—The supply was very light, and consisted mostly of beef cows and young bullocks. There is no demand and trade was dull. Values were quoted about the same as last week.

Milch cows and springers—There was a fairly large supply. The general run was of a fair quality. Cows continue to cost high. The only sales were made to speculators and jobbers.

Veal calves—The supply was lighter than last week. Trade was active and a clearance was soon effected at values showing no change from those quoted last week.

Sheep and lambs—The Boston market is dull and trade continues to be light. A clearance was effected, however, at prices showing no markrals change from last week.

Western beef cattle—The supply was consigned to shippers and exporters.

Swine—Swine are quoted at 7c pr lb.

It is quite true that practical men are capable of giving sound advice and often may suggest ideas which are really worth adopting, but it should be borne in mind that each tradesman represents but a narrow sphere, and while his opinions, when confined to his own trade, may be valuable, beyond this he is merely expressing an opinion as it appears to him without the required technical knowledge. A clergyman's ideas of a house would not be the same as those of a bricklayer. It is the architect who can harmonize and regulate all these elements and bring everything to a complete finish, protecting the interests of both owner and contractor.

Of the home and store of J. W. Webber and the four blocks adjoining, only piled up and smouldering heaps of brick, iron and timber remained. Of the Office is increased. Two freight trains were made up at oking fragment of the corner facing the postoffice building on Worthington street, of debris.

A steady and disagreeable drizzle of rain was falling, and torrents of water poured down the stairways of the Wight Buildings. It was mud and water everywhere in the vicinity of the ruins. Main street from Worthington almost to Bridge street was a sorry spectacle. The pavement and the east sidewalk were lost to sight under a mass of brick, stone, charred and splintered woodwork and fragments of what had been once plate-glass windows. Tangled lengths of electric light and trolley wires were coiled among the debris

Street Choked Up. Worthington street was in even worse ondition. From one side to the other it was an almost impassable mass of debris, and where the fallen fragments of buildings had left a space stood pools of water. The thousands of spectators on the postoffice steps and every point of vantage, kept in check by the police lines, formed an interesting background, and over all hung like a pail leaden-hued clouds.

No time was lost in setting Main street partly to rights. As soon as daylight made work re-sible a large force of men vere set at work clearing away the debris up its tangled and broken trolley wires.

The corner towering aloft in melancholy sitical condition. grandeur ali that was left of the front of the Glendower attracted a considerable share of the attention of the spectators, expecting to see it fall. But its liability to totter and crash down at any moment made it dangerous, and the firemen decided that it must come down.

So the aerial ladder was swung against t, touching as a point a few feet below its top, and two firemen mounted the ladder and threw a rope around the fragment. This done, the men on the ground pulled with a will and the column crashed, raising a cloud of dust in the debris below. James T. Abbe will begin to rebuild at

TARIFF TINKERING.

Iron Ore Has Been Placed on the Free List.

WOOL SCHEDULE FINISHED.

Outline of Changes From the Present Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 23 .- The iron ore men have been defeated, and the men who have combatted so valiantly to keep this article off the free list were yesterday informally notified by members of the ways and means committee that it had been finally decided by the Democratic members that iron ore would be placed on the free list.

This is the most important development Henry S. Cochran, late chief weigher of of the day, as it leaves the iron ore men of the Philadelphia mint, was begun before Alabama, Virginia and Michigan no al-Judge Butter and a jury in the United | ternative but to carry their fight to the floor of the house. This they threaten to do. and it is more freely stated than ever that the new tariff bill containing this new provision will be opposed in the house by the solid Democratic delegation from Ala-bama, and in the senate by Senators Morgan and Pugh.

The Western Iron Ore association, through George Ely, president, has made a vigorous protest to the committee. The western iron ore men in their communi cation gave a history of the development of Lake Superior iron ore industry, and make an appeal for the retention of the present duty not only in their own interest but in the interest of the consumer and the laboring man. The letter conclude

If, for a while ahead, iron ore should be any heaper than it has been for the last two ears, it can only come through materially wer wages, not only in mining, but on the locks, on the vessels and on the railroads tha give it transit to mills and furnaces; and along the line of independent industries in Lake Superior ores alone, $182,000,000 is now invested with all the labor occupation in-

Iron ore is a product of labor and capital. To discriminate against it because it is at the bottom and because theorists designate it as a raw material, would be an obvious injustice. If finished products above iron ore are mede dutiable, there can be no valid reason for a different treatment of this product. Wool.

The committee yesterday concluded the wool schedule of the new tariff bill. The measure provides for the admission free of duty of all wools, hair of the camel, goat alpaca and other like animals, and of wool and hair on the skin, top waste and other wastes, and rags composed wholly or in part of wool; and also repeals what are known as compensatory duties on woolen goods and reduces the ad valorem duties on such goods. It also repeals the compensatory duties upon carpets of all kinds, rugs and mats, and reduces the ad valorem duties thereon from 40 per cent ad valorem to 30 per cent ad valorem. It reduces the duties upon certain qualities of waste which have been advanced beyond the condition of scoured wool, by the use of machinery or by the application of labor, to 25 per cent ad v lorem. SLEIGHING IN Vermont. There will be slaying in this city December 5.

THE HERALD says "Springfield has experienced only one more disastrous blaze." Perhaps one, of that kind, half a million loss, is quite enough.

POLITICS ASIDE, and Thomas L. Williams, the West Quincy jeweler, would be a member of the next City Council. If Ward Four voters really desire a gentleman who will work hard in its interests they will elect Mr. Williams. There is abundant proof of what he has already done for that section of the city. He has been first in many little movements for its benefit: cheaper fares and more trips on the street cars, workingman's tickets on the Old Colony, etc. His recent philanthropic work in making wooden hands with movable thumbs for an unfortunate man are fresh in mind. In business he has been progressive and successful and encouraged the erection of better business blocks, until he now has one of the largest and finest jewelry stores in the state. In the Council he would be something more than a figure head. He would be among its most active

Had Mr. Federhen run at large for the Council this year, as he was earnestly urged to do, he would have found, readily, how he was regarded in the city. In his own ward, which is Democratic, he may be reelected, but there is much doubt of this. In 1892, his first year in the Council, his course was not opened to serious criticism and he was handsomely reelected at the head of the Ward Two delegation, but his course this year will not secure the independent vote, and we look to the election

Christmas Numbers.

Short Stories is one of the first magazines in the field with a Christmas number, and a very attractive one it is both as to reading matter and illustrations. One noteworthy feature of this number is an interesting and pathetic study of a Japanese family, called "Sakakura San," by Mrs. McNeil Scott, who, we understand, was long a resident in the Satsuma valley. Another is the prize story by Mary C. Stockbridge, -an entirely unconventional Christmas story in which the author with a few clever touches has presented a charming picture of an old Southern family. Current Literature Publishing Co., 52-54 Lafayette Place, New York. Current Literature closes the fourteenth volume with a most brilliant and delightful number, thoroughly abreast of the times in the Christmas books, with which its Hurrah! for the hearts that are true, for the December number opens, gives one an excellent idea of the picture-side of the best books of the season. The forty departments comprised in Current Literature every month enables it to cover every field of human thought and effort with a grasp and completeness that can be realized only by a personal perusal of a number. It is unique in its scope, its style, and its con pleteness.

By order of the German Emperor, the Prussian minister of the interior has forbidden parents to baptize their children with political names of a certain character or color. Young Germans may be christened with names from the Bible, of princes, or of "loyal" statesmen, generals and patriots. This measure is intended to prevent Socialists from commemorating in their own families prominent revolutionists. "Robespierre" has long been a favorite name for Socialist babies.

Mrs. William Astor has a wonderful snake ring which literally writhes in constant motion on her finger. It is constructed of flexible gold wire, each scale being represented by a loop of wire in which a ruby, an emerald or an amethyst is firmly set. The lightest movement of the fingers sets the wires quivering, and the ring scintillates and seems to go round the finger with a serpentine movement that has some thing eery in it. It was made in Egypt.

SIGNS OF A MILD WINTER.

A Prophet Produces Evidence to Show the "I notice that some wise men in various parts of the country are predicting an uncommonly severe winter," said the old Lackawanna valley weather prophet, but they are all wrong. All the signs point to a mild and an open winter. When you see caterpillars crawling on the ground all through October, as they did last month, you may set it down as a fact that the temperature will be unseasonably high throughout the winter. Caterpillars don't crawl up to election time when a cold winter is ahead.

"Robins were thick in the sumacs and laurels on the hillsides on All Saints' day, and that is a sure in that there will be no real cold weather till the second or third month next year. On Nov. 2 I picked a basketful of dandelion and crow's foot blossoms on the highest hill in Lackawanna county. I never saw the like of it before, although I have searched for such indications of a mild winter at about that time in the year every fall since 1837. I also ran across some boneset and ferns that hadn't been touched by frost, and that is another good sign of a mild winter. "In a piece of beech woods I knocked a chipmunk over with a stone on the afternoon before Halloween and found that it hadn't a single beechnut in its chops, although the nuts were plentiful. That is a sure sign of warm weather up to the holidays. On Oct. 28 I saw a woodchuck sitting on a stone wall. October Strawberries, White Blackbirds and Albinos In the Nutmeg State. This has been the latest, warmest, most blooming autumn for many years in this state. There had been no severe frosts until this week, and the orchards were California state. There had been no severe frosts fragrant with unseasonable blossoms on peach, pear, apple and plum trees, and the fields bright with dandelions, violets and other wild flowers. There were also strawberry and raspberry blossoms, and a farmer of a neighboring rural town picked luscious ripe strawberries and raspberries in his garden a day or two ago. More wonderful still, a Norwich gardener, Charles H. Miner, got a mess of fine green corn in his garden on Oct. 31. It was the latest green corn probably in the whole record of the Nutmeg State. On the same day Engineer Henry

J. Adams of the Norwich and Worcester railroad picked a bouquet of wild roses and buds by the roadside in Greeneville, in the outskirts of Norwich. A great number of albinos have been shot by hunters in this county this fall. There were several pure white blackbirds and crows, a white robin and two albino red squirrels. A milk white robin with pink toes, raised a family in a nest in a shade tree in front of the Congregational church at the borough of Stonington, on the seashore, and recently migrated to the south. No one molested her or her nest. Her young were of the color of ordinary robins. The strangest albino freaks were killed recently by hunters in the forests among the wild hills about Middletown. They were perfectly white gray squirrels, with beautiful pink eyes and claws and great flowing tails as beautiful as white Rhodes of Chicago on the last day of the fair. It was done without the knowledge of the company, which steadfastly protested against such notoriety. The mother carried a christening bowl wrapped in paper and her 2-year-old boy. A young woman took up a bottle of water in a shopping bag and bore the 3-month-old girl in her arms, and the officiating reverend gentleman, Dr. D. F. NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and ventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor who being on the the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Advantages of Amnesty. It was claimed that not only the information furnished by Mr. Blount, but the reports received since Minister Willis arrived at Honolulu, was to the effect that the provisional government was sustained on the supposition that the United States was of folio type and contained 27 of the papers read before the society. Each man-of-war was in the harbor for that purpose, and that as soon as it was known under the author's direction, and the artistic decorations carried out the theme and treatment with the rarest sustain the provisional government, but was determined to undo what had been done by the revolutionists and the alleged is paralyzed. Chicago Girls Who Expected to Be Translated to Heaven Sorely Disappointed.

A Chicago correspondent says: Thirtyfive girls were grievously disappointed This phase of the case was suggested to practice since. He was elected to many on Sunday. For nine weeks they had fondly expected to be translated from earth to heaven in a body, but the ascent did not come off according to expectations. The event was to have taken place on Sunday from Hyde park. At 5487 Madison avenue there stands a little church, the pastor of which is the Rev. O. A. Larson. He is a Swede, and the small congregation is made up of that nationality, Swedish servant girls predominating. The members of the congregation call themselves the "Children of God." It is in this church that for the past nine weeks a small company of fanatics have almost literally "prayed without ceas-According to the peculiar doctrines of gregation prepared themselves for the great event. On Sunday morning early 35 Swedish girls assembled in Parson Larson's church for the expected ascent. They knew not the hour, but they were certain the event was to occur, and they waited patiently and reverently for it.

All day long and far into the night they sat in prayer waiting to be called away, but the call never came. Tired out at last, they left the church a disappointed company, but still firm in the faith that they would yet be called to heaven at no distant day.

Want Immigrant Wives.

A New Jersey capitalist, in search of a wife to share his wealth, applied by letter to the barge office employment bureau the other day. His name is Ed ward Hogan of Dover, N. J.

The letter said: "Can you send me a wife to leave my money to? I have two houses (she must be under 35), also a pig and two horses, but no chickens, for the neighbors would steal them."

Mrs. Boyle, the matron in charge, is now looking for a young woman who aspires to be an heiress and a wire.

A letter was also received from John J. Jones of Jackson, O., who wants a Welsh wife. The only qualification he mentioned was that the woman who chooses him should be able to wash a "biled" shirt.—New York Herald.

Willing to Work.

The people of Manitou were entertained the other day by the spectacle of a man carrying a stone around a triangular track, letting it drop and shouldering it again at every turn. The performer was a man who has a reputation for a disinclination to labor, and the incident was the outcome of a wail he was making about the hard times and his inability to get work. A citizen told him he would not work if he got the chance and offered him 50 cents an hour as long as he would carry the stone. To the surprise of all, he accepted the offer and held out for five hours. A large crowd gathered to watch the performance.—Denver Republican.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is hat of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicit ors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, u pon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys. and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. One, Two and Three.

A reader asks for the vote of Mr. Thompson at the elections when he was run at large as compared with the head of the ticket, and investigation shows these facts.

At the state election of 1891 Mr. Thompson was one of the three Republican candidates for Representative in the Quincy-Weymouth district. There were cast 2698 votes, of which Russell for Governor received 1373, and Allen 1190. Although the city went Democratic by 183, Mr. Thompson went out of Quincy with a plurality. The vote by wards for Allen and Thomp-

In making the comparison it might be borne in mind that there were 734 blanks for Representatives.

A month later Mr. Thompson was one of the five Republican candidates at large and stood second in the list of ten. There were cast 2744 votes, which was 46 more than at the state election. Mayor Fairges, 1329. Mr. Thompson increased his vote to 1359, which it is reasonable to suppose would have been materially increased had there not been 1201 blanks to divide among the ten candidates.

But, none the less, local historical societies like ours have in the past a sufficient field of usefulness. Unquestionably in the sister towns constituting old son and Mr. Hodges was as follows, by Braintreee there are many records which may yet be collected and preserved. These exist in the form of letters, diaries, memorandum books and manuscripts more or less public and private, besides printed matter. NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life require continual accessions to in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. ustified by Louise Michel the Mouth piece of Anarchy.

LONDON, Nov. 24.-A reporter had an interview with Louise Michel, the notorious French female anarchist, in regard to the Barcelona outrage and narchism in general. She declared that the throwing of the man who attempted to assassinate General Martinez Campos. She added Souther's Periodical Store, 1 Granite that increasing poverty and the severer means of re pression that had been adopted McGovern Bros.' Periodical Store, Han-by the authorities warranted more terrible means of defense.

With reference to the European international agreement for the suppression of anarchism and anarchists, she said the whole thing was worthy only of derision. The same thing had been tried before. Wholesale arrests helped the cause.
Explosions formed the best and most clement means for extending the propaganda. The number killed by explosions was always less in proportion than the good done. The French measures against anarchists, she declared, were most repressive, owing to the government blockheads. Bombs had not been recently used in the United States, because that country was younger and the evils there had not become firmly rooted. These evils do not need violence to cure them.

The anarchist cause in the United States is in a flourishing condition. The execution in Chicago of the men convicted of connection with the famous Haymarket affair had converted more persons to anarchism than thousands of speeches could have done.

A LOSS OF REVENUE.

Enlarged Free List Does Not Please the Radicals.

LOOKING TO INCOME TAX

To Make Up Deficit In Whisky, Beer and Tobacco.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 24.-As the proposed tariff revision bill nears completion, and some of its provisions are beginning to be understood, the wing of the Democratic party which favored Mr. Cleveland's nomluation and secured his election is already beginning to criticise the action of the majority of the committee. It maintains that the Chicago platform and promises made during the campaign were for a tariff for revenue only, and any system looking to protection was unconstitutional.

It does not believe in an enlarged free list and a corresponding cut of duties on articles produced from these raw materials. It holds that that is not a tariff for revenue, but is on the same line which the Republican party has been pursuing for years, and must necessarily result in a great loss of revenue, which must be made up by an income tax or some other extraordinary method.

The majority members of the committee, however, take the position that a tariff for revenue only is not the kind of a measure which the necessities of the country at this time require. If a bill as outlined by their critics, they say, was brought before the house, making radical changes in the leading schedules without some compensating reductions elsewhere, it would have the effect of not only disturbing, but seriously embarrassing many large industrial interests.

This course the Democrats of the committee are anxious to avoid. They have decided, however, to make some marked reductions on certain classes of articles, ike pig iron, steel rails, structural iron and other articles in the metal schedule, which, they assert, have never been subject to the same reductions as other schedules. In the cotton and woolen schedules their proposed reductions, as in iron, are made to correspond with their free raw ma-terials. This they hold can be done without seriously interfering with those industries. The committee will not determine on the rates on sugar, whisky, to-bacco, beer, and an income tax, until it ascertains the amount of revenue which is to be raised.

The Income Tax.

The present feeling is not to increase the put an additional 10 cents on whisky, making it $1. This, however, will not very much increase the revenue. Such man's business to go around late in the is the opinion of Internal R venue Commissioner Miller, who is opposed to any increase. If no increase in ans direction is made, the committee will rely upon the income tax to make up any deficit. They will be governed in a great meas-for reasonable discussion has not been determined, but it will hardly get under way before the holidays, and as consideration cannot therefore be resumed before early in January, at least six weeks or two months will be required to pass the bill. To Be Divided. A leading Democratic member of the committee on ways and means said that it had been proposed to divide the customs and internal revenue legislation into two bills-the first covering the subject of duties exclusively, and the second internal taxation and income tax. Under this plan the customs legislation will be passed upon

The internal revenue bill will then be hell subject to modification in order to meet the conditions on the tariff bill. This will enable the committee to make up, by internal taxation, any loss of revenue. through the enlarged free list and nominal duties on articles of manufacture.

FORETOLD THEIR DEATHS.

A Soothsayer's Warning to a Suicide and a Seaman Who Drowned. Seaman John Fascal has received a letter from Alitak, Alaska, giving an account of the suicide of Francis James, an able seaman who shipped on the Merom when she left here about six months ago for the northern canneries. Francis James killed himself by blowing his brains out with a revolver. "Perhaps you remember," said Fascal, 'that a young man named Lawrence fell overboard from the Merom when the bark was sailing through the Golden

"Lawrence's death and the suicide of Francis James recalled to my mind a very strange coincidence-a happening which occurred the night before the Merom sailed. Lawrence, this young fellow James and myself were taking a drink together in the Bowhead saloon. While we were standing at the bar an elderly man approached us and offered to tell our fortunes, provided we would furnish him with a few dimes with which to procure a night's lodging. "We agreed to his proposition, and he started in by saying that Lawrence would die before the month was out. 'You will meet with a very unexpected death,' he declared. 'You will die by drowning, and your body will never be recovered. And as for you,' he continued, ooking at James, 'I predict that you will never return to San Francisco. You will meet with misfortune while in Alaska and will become very despondent. I am not certain whether you will take your own life or will die in a fight to death with one of your shipmates, but it looks to me as if you are going to resort to self destruction.'

"You may think I am telling you what is not true," said Fascal, "but all this occurred as sure as I am talking to you. "Lawrence fell overboard, as you know, and here is a letter from Alaska saying that James committed suicide by shooting himself through the head. I have no further particulars, but surely it is a strange case, and I am anxious to hear what motive led to the latter taking his life."-San Francisco Call.

THREE GIRL TRAMPS.

Without Means They Started Out to Beat Their Way to California.

It appears that a number of women have taken to the road as tramps and are traveling toward California. They search of employment. There are three of them who are said to be headed for Sacramento, having traveled together tax on whisky, tobacco and beer. It may from Portland. They were without means, and starvation stared them in the face if they remained in the Oregon metropolis during the winter. It was a decidedly bold thing for women to do, but these three maidens determined to get to California in regulation tramp

Accordingly they sallied forth and climbed to the top of the first freight train they came to, and seating themselves on the edge of a box car they allowed their feet to dangle along the side was so paralyzed with astonishment when he saw the petticoated tourists that he almost fell overboard.

"Where are you going, my pretty maids?" he politely asked and gallantly lifted his hat.

The girls told him plainly that they were going to California; that they had no money to pay their fare, and that they did not propose to be put off the train. None of the train crew interfered with the women. At various stations the girls went about and begged food. At one place, it is reported, a tramp insulted one of the women, when the three sailed in together and gave him a trouncing that he will remember for many and many a day.-San Francisco Examiner.

Pathetic Willmaking.

It it probable that two wills were never made under more distressing and peculiar circumstances than those executed at the City hospital of Wilmington, Del. by John Rado and Dinzinzo Dinatale, the Italians who were blown up and terribly mangled in an explosion of dynamite at Woodale recently. A few days ago they were told at the hospital that they could not survive. They are sightless and handless, in addition to other terrible injuries. They made their wills. Each man was worth $1,000. Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney. With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct In-

While the wants of mankind are the great factor in our industrial prosperity, the ability to gratify these wants is essential. The manufacturer makes cloth because the merchant wants it and can give ample security for payment, and the merchant wants it because his customers want it and are able to pay him for his investment with a profit. "If the great consuming classes are cut off in their income and wages the merchant's sales decline, and when this occurs the manufacturer's orders decline, and when they decline the demand for labor declines and the workman's wages' decline. Manufacturing industries have no assurance today either as to the price or the market beyond the immediate present. If they turn a wheel beyond present orders they are confronted with uncertainty and probable loss, and capital, always sensitive, shrinks from these, and while it sits in fear, labor sits in idleness. The too com-mon expression that "tariffs could not

The Yale men are the guests of the International Young Men's Christian asso-ciation training school, under the guard-ianship of F. N. Seerley, M. D. They brought their own cook, waiters and food from New Haven, and secured the use of the Winchester cafe opposite their head quarters. They are accompanied by their mascot, white haired "Pop" Smith.

The Harvard men were given an ovaon upon their arrival here last evening The train which brought them and their friends was in two sections, the last section being a special, and it was on this train that the Harvard eleven and students were. The special arrived at 7:20 o'clock. Carriages were drawn up in line to convey the Harvards to the residence of W. C. White, 48 Madison avenue, where supper was prepared for the eleven and the substitutes.

Possibilities of the Game For the past two seasons, and partly since the introduction of the wedge, the plays of individual men, so interesting to the spectators, have become less, and in place of them have come the mass-playing that prevents the ball from being seen by the spectators, and productive of more injury to the players. It is an almost foreboth teams that Yale has at least two new methods of wedge-playing that they expect to spring on Harvard, but the backers of the latter disparage such attempts.

Harvard has practiced successfully her expects to find easier work in opening the center for Brewer to go through, as Lewis is doing magnificent work at center and is expected to be the giant of the game. Then, too, Brewer is apt to please the populace by getting a chance to run. He is by far the most brilliant man behind the line. On the contrary, Yale is sure that she can use her own particular center wedge on a down and that even Harvard's strong rush line cannot stop it altogether. One thing is certain: so evenly are the teams matched that it will only be by surprises that any great advantage will be gained. If either eleven makes a gain on a new play and repeats it, they will by such a surprise dishearten their opponents. There have been no changes of note in either of the teams except that of substituting Adee for quarter on Yale instead of Morris, who is said not to be in condition.
As to Yale's condition, Coacher Wur-tenburgh, who himself played quarter on Yale for three years, said: "The Yale team has the best defense line she has ever put on the gridiron, and her offensive line is fully the equal of former years. My own opinion of the game is that if Yale can prevent Harvard scoring for the first 15 minutes the crimson will never score at Harvard men laugh at this statement, however, and say that their eleven will show as much endurance as that of Yale. The Line-Up.

ccident will the personnel of the two elevens be changed from the way they were made up two days ago. Here is the way they will line up at the outer line: POSITIONS. Right end YALE. Greenway Right tackle Right guard Center Mackie Lewis Left guard Murphy Left tackle Hinkey (captain) Left end Manahan Quarter-back Beale
Right half Waters (captain) Thorne

Full-back It is the general opinion that never have two teams been so well matched, and that the struggle will be a thoroughly game one. There was a ball last night in honor of the two colleges by the society people of the city.

Goyernor and Mrs. McKinley and Mr. and Mrs. Osborne arrived from Boston and will witness the game. In the evening ex-Lieutenant Governor Haile will tender a reception to the party.

Boston Money Goes Begging. NEW YORE, Nov. 25.—Betting on the great football game between Yale and usual. Yale men are showing the usual amount of confidence in their representathan usual, and are urging the betting. Most of the bets that are made are at even money, neither Yale nor Harvard backers doing any plunging.

There was lots of Boston money floatng around on Harvard. Charles Head & Co. had $5000 to bet on Harvard and only a part of it was taken at even money. A. J. Wormser also took a number of beta at even money on Harvard.

It seems to us that there is a greater disposition this year to observe the day, as it was once observed, than in some years past. One favorable symptom of this is to be found in the silence of the daily press, in calling it a relic of the past and of no

We never could bring our mind to de this. The old-time institutions and holidays peculiar to a country ought not to be lightly esteemed or set aside. They, as a general thing, have a history; have been established by the wisdom and genius of the people evolved out of the conditions by which they were largely confronted and

Nations like individuals ought to be praised for the possession of a robust and listinct personality.

Thanksgiving day as it was observed at one time in New England, was a glorious occasion or all the stories we read about it are myths. It comes to us freighted with memories of joy and gladness and the exercise of the best offices of friendship; charity and actual goodness, that does ones heart good to read about.

Winkfield Bros., We as a people have a great deal to be thankful for, and a fine opportunity to show it. Let us all try to bring back the gracious and beneficent spirit which characterized the early observance of Thanksgiving day on the forth coming occasion and we will never regret it.

ANOTHER RESIGNATION.

Vacancy Caused.

Joseph W. Dennen, who was nominated by the Democrats for Councilman in Ward One, has declined to accept the nomination. City Clerk Spear is of the opinion that it is now too late to fill the vacancy, the time having expired. Section 87 of the Acts of 1893 provides a way of filling vacancies in case of withdrawal, but the question arises, must this not be done within the time. There is a difference of opinion on this. The Ward One caucus authorized the chairman and secretary to fill vacancies. Section 87 reads:

In case a candidate who has been duly nominated for a State, city or town office, shall die before the day of election, or shall cause his name to be withdrawn from nomination in accordance with the provisions of this title, or shall be found in accordance with the provisions thereof to be ineligible to the office for which he is nominated, the vacancy may be supplied by the political party or other persons making the original nomination, in the manner in which such nomination was originally made; or if the time is insufficient therefor, then the vacancy may be supplied, if the nomination was made by a the banquet given by the Home Market as excessive, as there has been no change the convention or caucus has previously provided for the purpose, or, in case no Mr. and Mrs. John Shaw, Mr. and Mrs. to be maintained throughout the Pittssuch previous provision has been made, James Thompson, Mr. and Mrs. Joseph L. then by a regularly elected general or Whiton, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Keating, executive committee representing the John R. Slow Consumption Causes Business to Wait For a Boom

NEW YORK, Nov. 25.-R. G. Dun & Co.'s weekly review of trade says: Consumption increases slowly, and all branches of business are waiting for its growth. There has been a little improvement in stocks, about $1.25 for railroads and 50 cents per share for trusts, while the price of products has declined a little on the whole, but the volume of business has somewhat

H. Nash of them profitable employment. But the sales of wools have been the largest since September, 1892.

In the manufacture of boots and shoes the demand is about as usual for the season, though smaller in quantity. The markets for produce have been ir regular. Wheat has advanced 1 cent. The corn receipts are remarkably large, amounting to 3,000,000 bushels, and the price has declined 1 cent. There has been a slight decline in oil, of about a quarter of a cent in coffee and also in hogs, and $1.50 in pork. Cotton is 1-16th higher, though considerably depressed. NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts: and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurt nees and implements of each in order to save labor time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American control of the American inventor, who, being on the alert and ready to perceive the existing defici-nees, does not permit the affairs of gov-ernment to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing dis crepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and *kilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an appli-cation for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" ystem. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do s) at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the pa'ent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. Curfew Rings Every Night. Like many of the old New England towns, Newburyport, Mass., retains some puritanical customs. Her announcements are made by a crier in the streets, and to strangers this crier is indeed a curiosity. Now the ringing of the curfew has been revived. This old custom was continued here without interruption till about 12 years ago, the city paying the expense of ringing the 9 o'clock bell a custom of the past.

Not again until Monday evening was curfew sounded in this city. Then the people residing in the vicinity of the Old South church were somewhat startled to hear the old bell ringing. On investigation they ascertained that a prominent member of the parish had obtained per mission from the church to have the bell rung every night at 9 p. m., he to employ a man to carry out his desires .-Cor. FRAME SCHOOLHOUSE.

Design For a Building In Which Health and Comfort Are Considered. (Copyright, 1893, by American Press Associa-

The schoolhouse is beyond question the most important building in the community, and its design and erection should interest every one. A great many cities, towns and villages have had unpleasant ex periences in regard to the building of their schoolhouses, generally to be attributed to the ignorance, indifference or selfishness of school directors or boards of education. Often no more thought is bestowed on the planning of a schoolhouse than that necessary to determine the size, possibly, and cost, certainly. Sometimes the advisability of having plans will be conceded. Then advertisement will be made that "plans and specifications for such and such a schoolhouse will be received by the board at a certain time and place. The right to reject any or all plans is reserved," etc. No reputable architect will respond, of course. The consequence is that some contractor gets a fat job, the people a poor schoolhouse and the community a scandal.

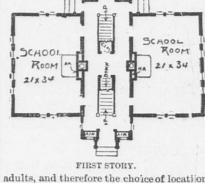

PERSPECTIVE VIEW.

The importance of the schoolhouse justilies the employment of the best architectural talent. School boards are often made of very ordinary material, but this much they should know-employ an architect who has made schoolhouse work a special study, selected without reference to personal or political considerations. The position that a member of a school board occu pies is a very important one, that requires good judgment and brains. Sometimes after a design has been agreed upon the building committee decides that it must be cut down to fit a certain appropriation. The site may be all that could be desired. but it seems to us that the building has been sacrificed to a false standard of economy. Far more to the public than the waste of their money, consequent to its expenditure by a whole series of incompe tent if not corrupt servants, is the question whether they got in the end as sound and serviceable a building as was possible to be had, and which they would have got without trickery or delay.

The necessity of the healthfulness of the site is generally well impressed upon the public mind. However, it much depends upon its location in regard to the surround ing land, its elevation and drainage. Of course in cities the choice is somewhat restricted. Children, it should be remembered, much more easily fall victims to the results of bad hygienic conditions than ATT CA health.

The exterior design of the schoolh suse the problem, the simplest architectura lelevations will prove most satisfactor y, if symmetrical and dignified and there lie no waste of materials and labor. Care should be used in preparing the ground vinder schoolhouses where the basement is amitted. The sod, soil and all vegetable and decaying matter should be removed, and the ground between the walls graded high up in the center to prevent water from gather ing or rising out of the ground under the building. In places where the ground is naturally damp a tile drain should be run around the building below the foundation, graded to a place for an outlet.

In each schoolroom 15 square feet of floor space and 200 cubic feet of air space should be allowed for each pupil. The height of the classroom should never exceed 14 feet. Every schoolhouse should have a playroom or gymnasium. These may be placed in the basement, but all classrooms should be placed above. The design here shown is for a two story four room school. Entering from the front or rear into the main hall, flights of stairs rise from each end of the hall to the second floor. On each side of the mair halls are two classrooms 21 by 341/4 feet, with ceilings 121/4 feet high in each story. From the center of the first story hall are stairs leading down to the basement under the front flight. There is a basement under the entire building, perfectly dry, with cor crete floor. In the basement under the schoolrooms on each side are the playrooms. Under the rear hall are located two hot air furnaces, heating the entire house. The fresh air i received from the front and rear at each side of the hall, and when heated enters the rooms near the floor. The chambers in the flues are built large for ventilating shafts, with an iron smokestack passing

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the WASHINGTON, Nov. 27. - The new Demo cratic tariff bill was laid before the new membership of the ways and means committee at 11 o'clock this morning. Five minutes later the bill was submitted by Chairman Wilson and read at length, and it was promptly moved that it be adopted by the committee. The measure was adopted by a strict party vote. The internal revenue schedule is reserved until a later date, as it is not yet completed. The practical certainty, however, that the changes in this feature of the law will be slight, and that the increase of the whisky tax, if an increase at all, will not exceed 10 cents a gallon, deprives the international revenue of any great public interest.

In its general terms the new tariff bill may be denominated a radical measure. The free list will be a surprise to the country. It includes wool, iron ore, cotton ties, copper, lumber, chocolate, salt, binding twine, flax, lead ore and many other articles of less importance to the large mmercial interests

The Wool Problem. The disposition of wool and woolen goods has been one of the most difficult problems that the committee had to solve After two months of deliberation, it has been finally decided to adopt the Springer policy of the last congress in this respect in all its material details and a written report to accompany this portion of the bill will also be substantially the report and woolen schedule will be as follows:

All wools, hair of the camel, goat, alpaca and other like animals, and all woo of wool, worsted or hair of the camel goat, etc., valued at not more than 30 cents a pound, are rated at 35 per cent, which is he ad valorem rate under the present law without the specific duty which that bill provides.

On all woolen or worsted cloths, shawls and knit fabrics, and all fabrics made on knitting machines or frames, and all manufactures of every description made wholly or in part of wool and worsted hair of the camel, goat, etc., valued at not more than 30 cents a pound, the duty is 40 per cent. On blankets, hats of wool, flannels for underwear, composed wholly or in part of wool or hair of the camel, goat, etc., valued at not more than 30 cents a pound, the duty is 25 per cent; valued at more than 30 cents and not more than 50 cents a pound, the duty is 30 per cent.

On blankets and hats of wool, etc., valued at not more than 50 cents a pound, the duty is 35 per cent.

Dress Goods.

There is likewise a well accredited fore-cast as to the schedule, which includes woolens and children's dress goods, on which coat linings, Italian cloths, and goods of similar character, the warp of which is cotton or other vegetable matter, the value not exceeding 15 cents a square yard, a duty of 35 cents is placed. On woolens and children's dress goods, wholly or in part wool, worsted, etc., the duty is fixed at 40 per cent.

In clothing ready made and articles of wearing apparel a duty of 45 per cent is placed. On cloaks, dolmans, jackets, etc., for ladies and children, a duty of 45 per cent; on webbing, suspenders, bolting, binding, braids, balloons, fringes, etc., 40 per cent. On common carpets, which were taxed 23 per cent in the Springer bill, the duty in the tariff bill will be about 35 per cent, and on some of the finer grade carpets, all of which were taxed 40 per cent in the Springer bill, the duty in this bill is somewhat less.

The cut in linen schedule is quite heavy; that on silk is comparatively light and the cut in the cotton schedule is nothing like as great as the cut in wool. Steel rails are put at] a smaller figure, representing a tariff of 40 per cent ad valorem, while rails are selling at their present low price of $20. Rails will be one of the few articles upon which a specific duty will be retained. Pig iron is put at 5 per cent, while bar iron is reduced about 50 per cent.

The rate on nearly all manufactures of cotton is 40 per cent. This includes hosiery, which now pays compound duties ranging as high as 72 per cent. The classifications of different grades of goods are abandoned. Manufactures of flax, hemp and jute are greatly reduced, in view of the placing of the raw materials on the

They Are Slow In Acknowledging That They Are Whipped.

BUFFALO, Nov. 27.-The Lehigh strike s practically over. The strikers are whipped, but are hardly aware of it yet. The leaders realize that defeat has overtaken the first and only strike of the much vaunted Federation of Brotherhoods of Railway Employes in much shorter time than it did the little strike gotten up by the single unassisted unfederated association of switchmen a year ago. But they hate to acknowledge it.

The rank and file will soon learn that behind the bluster of the chiefs there is very little armament for further strife. Boston, Nov. 27.-The culmination of one of the greatest railroad deals known to New England appears to be at hand, and The Associated Press is able to give the innermost history of the deal which is to lead to a combination of the most farreaching character; a deal which means the consolidation of the leading railroads in two states in conjunction with the most powerful corporation in a third.

The trio comprises the Boston and Maine, the Concord and Montreal and the Maine Central, with another in view yet unnamed. The Concord and Montreal railroad as now made up comprises the Concord railroad and the old Boston, Concord and Montreal railroad, the former having formerly operated 35 miles of road from Concord to Nashua, N. H. In the course of time it took on several leased lines, including the Concord and Portsmouth railroad, the Nashua and Acton railroad and the North Weare and Suncook Valley railroads, which it helped to

It had and now maintains the control of the Merrimack valley. Later, about six years ago, the Concord ralroad and the Boston, Concord and Montreal railroad were consolidated under the name of the Concord and Montreal railroad. The road was a rich and valuable property and has been for years a coveted prize, much sought for by other corporations, parcicularly the Boston and Maine, its princi-pal rival in that state. The result has been a series of legislative battles between the two roads that have attracted the attention of railroad and business men all over the country. So intense has been the struggle that the two roads have expended ortunes in the warfare and have practically controlled not only both legislative bodies but the governor as well. Bottled the Concord. Four years ago a truce was declared and the two corporations have since that time worked more harmoniously. In the mean-time Hon. Frank Jones, president and leading spirit of the Boston and Maine and Maine has extended its connections in

The Boston and Maine railroad will guarantee to the stockholders of the Concord railroad such a sum as will equal the dividend of 10 per cent for years paid by the Concord railroad. It will guarantee to keep in its present repair and efficiency the roadbed, its rolling stock and all of its property, and to operate the same in a manner equally advantageous to its stockholders and the public. Thanksgive on two low on the large of Mr.

It was the hope of the friends of Mr. Hodges that the canvass for the mayoralty & Co. would be carried on in a spirit of fairness. But we find in the very issue of the LEDGER announcing the names of the candidates, a very long communication endorsing Mr. Thompson. The article was evidently prepared before the Republican caucus was held, and it would be interesting to know what line would have been taken if Mr. Graham had been nominated. We have nothing to say against Mr. Thompson, but we must protest against the unfair attempt to make it out that Mr. Hodges is a large holder of stocks in corporations, and therefore would be unduly influenced by them in case he should be elected as mayor. The facts in the case are these: Mr. Hodges owns less than $2000 in all corporations H. L. Kincaide & Co. will be used by Miss whatsoever in Quincy. NOTICE TO INVENTORS.

THERE Was never a time in the history of our country when the demand for inventions and improvements in the arts and sciences generally was so great as now. The conveniences of mankind in the factory and work-shop, the household, on the farm, and in official life, require continual accessions to the appurtances and implements of each in order to save labor, time and expense. The political change in the administration of government does not affect the progress of the American inventor, who, being on the last and ready to progress the savet and ready to progress the existing dealert and ready to perceive the existing deficiences, does not permit the affairs of government to deter him from quickly conceiving the remedy to overcome existing discrepancies. Too great care cannot be exercised in choosing a competent and skilful cised in choosing a competent and *kilful attorney to prepare and prosecute an application for patent. Valuable interests have been lost and destroyed in innumerable instances by the employment of incompetent counsel, and especially is this advice applicable to those who adopt the "No patent, no pay" *ystem. Inventors who intrust their business to this class of attorneys do so at imminent risk, as the breadth and strength imminent risk, as the breadth and strength of the patent is never considered in view of a quick endeavor to get an allowance and obtain the fee then due. PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable additions. able solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the Influence of Manchester Canal. A London correspondent says: It is evident that the Manchester Ship canal, which will open on Jan. 1, will obtain a large share of its business from cotton carrying steamers. The managers of the canal say that several steamers have already engaged to bring cotton from New Orleans and Galveston to Manchester direct, and 323 spinners, owning more than 20,000,000 spindles and consuming about 350,000 tons of raw cotton yearly, have signed a statement booming the new route. They pledge themselves to give preference, when buying to arrive, to cotton shipped direct, and when buying on spot to cotton imported direct and stored in Manchester.

Edison's English patents on incandes cent lamps expired on the 10th inst., and hereafter their manufacture and sale will be free. FUTURE OF RELIGION Discussed by Bishop Keane of Catholic University. BOSTON, Nov. 27.-Rt. Rev. John J.

Keane, rector of the Catholic University of America at Washing on, lectured to a crowded house at Boston theater last night. The subject of his discourse was "The Religion of the Future." He said

"Religion is one of the three great constituents of human nature. Religion is the basis of civilization, and as civilization develops man's notion of religion becomes more clear. Education and scientific re search take away from religion all that is mythical, unnatural and superstitious, and leaves only the good, the true and the beautiful.

"Notwithstanding the sneers of the scoffers, man recognizes that there must have been a beginning, and in that beginning he recognizes the omnipotent power of God. Scientific research forces men to philosophy, and there can be no philosophy without a God. Thinking people who fol-Carriers.

"The future religion leads more to in-dependence and self-government, it is the coming of an era of universal democracy wherein the church will deal directly with the people. The aristocracy of the future will be intellectual superiority and moral worth, and in the advancement of education the church will take a prominent part. It will found universities, colleges and schools and fill them with the double

IT WAS BLUES' DAY.

Elis Threw Trickery Aside and Downed the Crimsons.

A FAIR AND SQUARE GAME

Caused Disappointment to the Friends of Harvard.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 27. - Yale won the great football game by the hardest kind of work at the opening of the second half Saturday afternoon, and another of the yearly contests between the New Haven eleven and the Harvard team passes into history as a victory for the lads in

The wearers of the crimson fought pluckily in the first half of the great struggle, and their supporters confidently ooked for a score after that, but the sons of Eli plunged in with their old time snap, and, disdaining all tricks, carried the ball quickly across the line by the hardest kind of football.

The Harvard team proved a disappointment. Only a few of the tricks that it had rehearsed for weeks were used, and these were soon sized up by Yale. In places where a kicking game ought to have been played the c imson captain ordered mass and wedge plays which were of no avail. The defensive work of both teams was strong, but Yale excelled at just the right time in offensive plays. The score was 6 to 0, and 25,000 people saw the cleanest and best exhibition of football in the history of the Rugby game. Details of of the Game. It was the just verdict of every individual who saw the struggle between the two greatest football teams that it was a gentlemanly game. If there was any hard feeling—an; that everybody seems to think inevitable when it is Harvard against Yale-it did not appear on the surface. 1891, William A. Hodges, McCrea was warned once for a little rough play, but of a mild sort. This was all the slugging there was, even on the sly. Fair hearts undoubtedly quaked as they saw Brewer or Butterworth heavily thrown, while somebody obligingly sat on their heads, for fear they would make more trouble, after the manner of a horse that is down, but the pair neveronce get hurt. They were securely padde!, and expected

For once Harvard men have nothing to say of Yale "muckerism." They acknowledge that they have been beaten by gentlemen, as they claim to be gentlemen themselves. They have no resentment. Yale beat them fairly and squarely. There was not even an important questionable decision. Harvard never had occasion to find

The playing of the two different halves of a game never presented so great a contrast as that of this gladiatorial contest At the close of the first half everybody conceded the game-at least the best chances-to Harvard. The Elis had little demonstration to make. Still, in customary Yale style, they gritted their teeth, as if they knew their eleven would do the same and more. That they did do more goes without saying after a perusal of the account, yard by yard, of the second half. In the first half Harvard had the ball the greater part of the time, in fact, just about three times out of four. There were 72 distinct plays, and 55 of those were made by Harvard. Aside from the punting, Harvard gained 137 yards, or nearly ough to score three times. Brewer punted s making 71 vards by the Harvard's total yards gained in that half was 208. She lost only nine yards, five of that being on offside play by Beale.

Yale, on the other hand, though gaining 37 1-2 yards-some 30 more than Harvardpunted 210 of theirs, gaining by rushes with the ball in her possession only 27

But that little story of having the ball only 17 times to 55 for Harvard shows bet ter than anything else which side was

But what a difference in the second half. Harvard made just 31 plays, four of those being punts. She punted 108 1-2 yards on three trials, and lost nine on a fluke, Yale breaking through on Brewer before he could get the ball away. Harvard's total gain was 204 1-2 yards. Even under these circumstances Harvard made 96 yards on steady rushing-considerably more than enough to make a touchdown. Harvard lost four times, once on the kick, the loss aggregating 19 yards. Quite a different tale is that of the Elis. They figured in no ess than 75 plays, only one of these being a kick, when Butterworth punted 21 1-2 yards against the wind. They g ined in a 1 247 1-2 yards. This would give 226 12 yards clear profit by steady rush n4, only five of this being given them fr an off s de play. This 226 1-2 is enough to score just four times. Yale lost at just th ee times this half, two yards at one time, one yard at each of the Figures may not always tell the truth but they do for this game. Exclusive of kicking, Yale's net gain was 225 yards. Harvard had only 214 to her credit, almost enough less to make the difference of one touchdown. Considering the enormous advantage Yale had on the punting, if It must be confessed that Harvard's play was, all in all, disappointing to Harvard football cranks. Even in the first half, when Harvard had such a decided advantage, the play was unusually slow and tame for a Harvard-Yale game.

Some Notable Features of the New Tariff Bill.

LIKELY TO BE ASSAILED

By Representatives of Iron, Coal and Wool Interests.

Free Wool, Coal, Lumber, Sait, Agricultural Implements and Iron Ore. Duty on Steel Rails Reduced Mor-Than Fifty Per Cent-Material Reduc tion Upon a Large Number of Articles. Duties Are Left Highest Upon Luxuries and Lowest Upon Necessities.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 28 .- The new tariff bill is radica! in its reduction of duties and conforms nearly to the Chicago platform and the promises made by the Democratic party last fall to the people.

Chairman Wilson, who will have charge of the bill in the house, is confident that he will be able to carry it through that body without any important changes. He expects that it will be assailed by the representatives of the iron and coal and wool interests. He asserts that his own state is as much interested in keeping the duty on coal and iron ore as any other

But he maintains that in the prepara-tion of a general tariff bill, local interests must give way to the general interests, and that no discrimination should be allowed to interfere in formulating a tariff and revenue measure. The general features of the bill are fully understood by President Cleveland and have been carefully considered by Secretary Carlisle, and both these high officers approve of the measure.

Where the Fight Came. The committee has had a protracted struggle for several days over the subject of whisky, sugar and the income tax. The more the last was considered, the greater were the objections alleged against it. At one time President Cleveland was rather disposed to favor it, but after talk-ing the matter over with Secretary Carlisle, David A. Wells and other eminen authorities on economic questions he was persuaded to believe that it would be a very unpopular measure, and one which could not be passed concurrently through both houses without creating dissension in the Democratic party. Another source of revenue that has been been made in the papers, is a tax upon proprietary medicines. This has found considerable favor and is endorsel by treasury officials. The arguments urged the People's Fire Insurance company, and easily collected by compelling every bottle or package to bear a stamp, and that the names be joined to the petition of Retaxation would not fall upon the consumer, as the list prices of the medicines would remain unchanged.

The Bill Summarized. The following is a summary of the tariff

The bill puts wool, coal, lumber, salt and iron ore on the free list, and reduces the tariff on refined sugar from one-half to one-quarter of a cent a pound; it also provides for the extermination of the bounty

As a rule, the tariff has been made low est upon the cheaper goods of necessary use and left highest upon the more expensive articles. In the wool schedule there is no duty higher than 45 per cent on manufactures of wool, and that only on ready-made garments, the average being less than 40 per cent. The cheap quality of blankets and flannels are taxed 25 per cent, and the lower grades of car-pets 20. A gradual reduction has also been applied to the woolen schedule so that at the end of five years the highest duty will be 40 and the average near 30 per cent. Very material reductions have been made in the cotton schedule. Iron ore is placed on the free list and a large cut is made all along the metal schedule; the duty on steel rails is reduced more than 50 per cent. Free lumber will benefit the cople of the prairie states, and free salt will give to those who need salt for their cattle or for curing meat the same advan-tage which has been secured heretofore by means of rebate to those who cured fish Agricultural implements have been placed upon the free list because many of our agricultural implements are being sold abroad today cheaper than at home. But Few Republicans Present. The meeting of the ways and means committee was very brief. All the Democratic members were on hand, but the only Republican members present were Reed, Burrows, Hopkins, Payne and Dalzell. Immediately after the rollcall Chairman Wilson spread the tariff bill that the Olympia made for 13 miles the test of 25.25 knots an hour. The patent log shows that the Olympia made for 13 miles the before the committee and the clerk instantly supplied it to the members of the press outside.

The Republican members were supplied with copies of the bill, a few jocular remarks being made, and the committee adjourned to give time to the minor ty to examine the measure. Most Republican members declined to express any opinion on the bill until they should have an opportunity to examine it in detail. Ex-Speaker Tom Reed, a member of the ways and means committee, said last night: "Of course it is very easy for the gentlemen who prepared this bill to present their views, since they have been busily engaged in the work for a number of weeks, while the first sight that the minority had of the bill was at 11 o'clock.

PARIS, Nov. 28.—The senate met yesterday and decided that it would be unconstitutional to legislate in the absence of the ministry, and therefore adjourned until Thursday.

today. Like any other tariff bill, which covers so many different objects and takes up so much space, all any one could do who has but seen it is to make some obvius comments on certain portions of it. "In the first place, the country ought to Coal Mines and Glass Mills Have understand that there has been a certain degree of unfairness about the preparation of this bill—unfairness to the country rather than to individuals—arising from the composing of the committee. The Democracy have taken the lion's share of the committee and have done this for a purpose, for while the northern Democrats are represented upon the committee they are represented in such a way that the south holds a strong and very un-fortunate predomination.

"As their industrial status is very much different from the average of the whole country, it necessarily follows, and absolutely in fact has followed, that the bill is as bad as could be reasonably imagined. This may not be true with regard to every item, but it is certainly true with regard to the most important matters in the bill."

As Viewed by McKinley. CLEVELAND, Nov. 28.-Mr. McKinley arrived in Cleveland last evening. He was asked his opinion of the Wilson tariff. He said he had not read the abstract of the measure and had only glanced through it. He said that the bill proposed very sweeping reductions in the existing tariffs. It was such a measure as he had expected, yet a little more sweeping than he had antacipated. It was, however, in line with the expressed demand of the Democracy to ignore the business interests and the work- a brightening outlook for the future. The ing people of the country.

UNDER ARREST.

The Projector of a New Bank Must Explain Certain Doings.

St. Johnsbury, Vt., Nov. 28 .- The arrest of T. C. Brewer of New York, vice president and projector of the new state bank of Barton, is the beginning of a sensation in this region. About a month ago State Attorney Miles of Barton was notified by Brewer that a bank would be established, and he was asked to arrange for hiring quarters. This he did.

Several different times notice was given of opening for business, but the opening did not come until last week, when the newspapers of the region were filled with "long ads" giving notice. A cashier was engaged. The president, Joseph A. Lord, was reported sick in New York, which fact, it was said, had delayed the opening

Meanwhile some business had been done, but the bank having no funds its paper went to protest. Mr. Brewer was arrested on the charge of procuring certified checks under false representations and opening the bank fraudulently. Bail was fixed at $1000, which he furnished.

It is alleged that Brewer did not comply with the state law as to having a majority of the directors residents of Vermont. There were 500 shares of stock, of which Brewer held 475, and the remainder was divided between Charles A. Brewer and J. J. O'Farrell of Burlington, and Joseph A. Lord and Thomas J. Brewer of Rutland, none of whom is known to exist.

Brewer is said to be the head man in the American Investment company of New Marriage Was a Failure.

Paris, Nov. 28. — Princess Colanna, daughter of John W. Mackay, has ap-plied for a legal separation from Prince Ferdinand Gallatro Colonna, and for the custody of her three children. The marriage took place in Paris in 1883. After six months the prince began demanding money from her. She discovered his taste for gambling, racing and fast life, but bore his abuse, taunts and vulgarity till October, when she left him in Paris.

There's Money In It.

SPRINGFIELD, Mass., Nov. 27.-Manager Moore of the Harvard football team, who is settling up the bills of Saturday's game, says that the number of paid admissions was over 21,800. These, with the news paper men, substitutes, coaches, medical attendants, police and those who stole in, would make the crowd which saw Saturday's game nearly 25,000. The total receipts were over $39,000, and the expenses about $12,000.

Coal Goes Up In Scotland. GLASGOW, Nov. 28.-The strike of the

Reported In Various Portions of the Country.

SCRANTON, Pa., Nov. 28.-All the mines of the Hillside Coal company and of the Erie railroad north of this city were yesterday ordered to work full time. The Scranton Glass company has started its No. 2 factory after five months' idleness. Van Alen & Co.'s rolling mill and nail factory at Northumberland yesterday went on double turn, employing 300 men.

Decidedly Cheering. NEW YORK, Nov. 28.—The Herald printed page of dispatches as to the business outlook, mostly from New England and the south, with a few from the west. Their general tenor, with allowance for purely local conditions, indicates a gradual and widespread return of cautious confidence, a slow improvement in general trade and reports from the manufacturing towns of New England all dwell upon recent resumption of work at mills, increase in the working time and the desire to have the tariff adjusted as early as possible.

In the south dispatches from Georgia, Tennessee and Texas report business conditions as more promising than at any time for months. In the central states prospects for the new year and the spring trade are said to be encouraging, and closed mills are gradually resuming opera tions here.

In New York much stress is laid upon the success of the cotton sale last week as a proof of the willingness of merchants to replenish depleted stocks, and upon the creasing demand for first-class securities, especially bonds, for investment. Steel Mills Running.

PITTSBURG, Nov. 28.—In this manufacturing section there is a steady resumption of business. Nearly every day some iron nill, glasshouse or factory resumes operations, and at present more than one-half of the various plants are in operation.

The Carnegie mills at Homestead are running almost full in every department. The wire mills at McKeesport and Du quesne are running full. The Sligo mill, one of the oldest in this city, is working three turns a day, the first time in its his tory. Evidence that business is resuming generally is found in the increase in Connellsville coke shipments, which last week were 8000 tons more than the previous week. About 4000 cars were sent Bankers, manufacturers and merchants report business getting better every day. Many window glass factories are blowing, and the National association reports many others heating up or intending to operate in the near future.

Merchants Encouraged. CINCINNATI, Nov. 28.—Several industries bave recently resumed work. Those in operation increasing their working benefit of low prices. forces and payrolls, as reported by the anks are about 10 percent greater month ago. Both merchants and many facturers talk very encouragingly over the prospects and many look for a rapid improvement after the first of the year and a good spring business. The rolling mills and foundries that resumed two months ago, with then orders enough to keep them running for a short while, have been surprised at the new or ders received, and there are no apprehensions of reducing forces or closing during the coming winter.

Pipe works are exceptionally busy. There has been a larger volume of business in pig iron than for many months. and considerable speculation. A million dollars' worth of iron was sold in one week. Tribute to a Great Man. NEWTON, Mass., Nov. 28.—The choir guild of Grace Episcopal church, to whom the last public utterances of Bishop Brooks were addressed, paid a fitting and graceful tribute to the memory of Bishop Brooks in the dedication of the Bishop Brooks Memorial hall last evening. The hall is designed as a meeting place and rehearsal room for the vested choir of Grace church, and is designed to perpetuate the memory of the bishop in the minds of the members of the choir. Another Sensation.

Be it enacted, etc., as follows:

Section 1. The city of Quincy, for the purpose of supplying the said city and the inhabitants thereof with pure water for the extinguishment of fires and for domestic and other purposes, after the purchase of the franchise, corporate property, rights and privileges of the Quincy Water Company, as provided in section nine of chapter one hundred and sixty-two of the acts of the year eighteen hundred and eighty-thiee, may take, hold and convey into and through said city, the waters of Blue Hill river and of the tributaries thereof, excepting Braintree great pond and Houghton's pond in the town of Milton, at any point or points in said city of Quincy and the towns of Braintree, Randolph and Milton, with any water rights connected therewith, and may also take and hold by purchase or otherwise any land, rights of way, easements and real estate necessary for laying, constructing and maintaining pipes, aqueducts, water-courses, reservoirs, storage basins, dams, filter galleries and such other works as may be deemed necessary for collecting, purifying, storing, retaining, discharging, conducting and distributing said waters, or for preserving the purity of said waters, provided, however, that any lands taken for preserving the purity of said waters or water supply shall not be more than one thousand feet distant from the same.

Section 2. Said city shall, within sixty days after taking any lands, rights of way, water rights, water sources or easements aforesaid, otherwise than by purchase, for the purposes of this act, file and cause to be recorded in the registry of deeds for the county of Norfolk a description thereof sufficiently accurate for identification, with a statement of the purposes for which the same were taken, which statement shall be signed by the mayor.

Section 3. Said city, for the purposes aforesaid, may construct aqueducts and maintain the same; may construct and maintain dams, reservoirs, storage basins, filter galleries and other proper works; may erect buildings and machinery; may make and establish such public fountains and hydrants as may from time to time be deemed proper, and may change or discontinue the same; may regulate the use of water, and establish the rates to be paid therefor and collect the same by process of law. Said city may also, for the purposes aforesaid, carry any pipe, drain or aqueduct over or under any river, water-course, street, railroad, public way, highway or other way, in such manner as not unnecessarily to obstruct the same, and may enter upon and dig up such road, street or way for the purpose of laying down, maintaining or repairing any pipe, drain or aqueduct, and may do any other thing necessary and proper in executing the purposes of this act.

Section 4. If said city enters upon and digs up, for the purposes aforesaid, or by any other thing necessary and proper in executing the purposes of this act.

Section 4. If said city enters upon and digs up, for the purposes aforesaid, or by reason of anything authorized by this act injures any road, street or way which is outside the limits of said city, it shall be subject to such reasonable regulations as may be prescribed by the Selectmen of the town in which such road, street or way is located, and shall restore the same to as good order and condition as it was in when such digging commenced, or before such injury occurred; and shall forever maintain all railings which may be necessary on account of any alteration required to be made in the grade of any portion of any street by reason of anything done under the authority of this act; and the work shall be done and all repairs be made in such manner and with such care as not to render any road, street or way in which such pipes are laid, unsafe or unnecessarily inconvenient to the public travel thereon. Said city shall at all times indemnify and save harmless any such town which is liable to keep in repair any road, street or way aforesaid, against all damages and costs which may be recovered against it, and shall reimburnes to it all expense which it shall reasonably incur in the defence of suits or otherwise by reason of any defect or want of repair in such road, street or way, caused by the placing, maintenance, repairing or replacing of said pipes, or by reason of any injury to persons or property, caused by any defect or want of repair in any such pipes, provided that said city has notice of any claim or suit for such damages or injury and an opportunity to assume the defence thereof.

Section 5. Said city shall be liable to pay all damages sustained by any persons or contents and the property of their loud water, water rights, rights of or suit for such damages or injury and an opportunity to assume the defence thereof.

Section 5. Said city shall be liable to pay all damages sustained by any persons or corporations by the taking of or injury to any of their land, water, water rights, rights of way, easements or property, or by the constructing or repairing of any acqueduct, reservoir or other works for the purposes aforesaid. If any person sustaining damages as aforesaid does not agree with said city upon the amount of said damages he may within two years from such taking, and not afterwards, apply by petition for an assessment of the damages to the superior court in the county of Norfolk. Such petition may be filed in the clerk's office of said court in vacation or at any sitting, and the clerk shall thereupon issue a summons to the said city, returnable, if issued in vacation, at the next sitting of the court to be held after the expiration of fourteen days from the filing of the petition, and if at any sitting, returnable on such day as the court shall order, to appear and answer to the petition. The summons shall be served fourteen days at least before the sitting or day at which it is returnable, by leaving a copy thereof and of the petition, certified by the officer who serves the same, with the clerk of said city; and the court may, upon default or hearing given to said city appoint three disinterested persons who shall after reasonable notice to the parties, assess the damages, if any, which such petitioner may have sustained as aforesaid; and the award of the persons so appointed, or a major part of them, being returned into and accepted by the court, shall be final and judgment shall be rendered and execution issued thereon for the prevailing party with costs, unless one of the parties claims a trial by jury as hereinafter provided.

SECTION 6. If either of the parties mentioned in the preceding section is dissalisfied with the amount of damages awarded as therein expressed, such party may at the sitting at which such award was accepted or the next sitting thereafter, claim in writing a trial in said court, and have a jury to hear and determine at the bar of said court all questions of feat relating said court, and have a jury to hear and determine at the bar of said court all questions of fact relating to such damages, and to assess the amount thereof: and the verdict of the jury being accepted and recorded by the court, shall be final and conclusive, and judgment shall be rendered and execution issued thereon, and costs shall be recovered by the parties, respectively, in the same manner as is provided by law in regard to proceedings relating to

Section 8. In every case of a petition to the superior court for an assessment of damage, as provided in this act, the city may tender to the complainant or his attorney any sum, or may bring the same into court to be paid to the complainant for the damages by him sustained or claimed in his petition, or may in writing offer to be defaulted, and that damages may be awarded against it for the sum therein expressed, and if the complainant does not accept such sum with his costs up to that time, but proceeds in his suit, he shall be entitled to his costs up to the time of the tender of such payment into court or offer of award, and not afterwards, unless the complainant recovers greater damages than were so offered.

SECTION 11. A board consisting of three commissioners, who shall be citizens of said city, shall be appointed by the mayor, as soon as practicable after this act shall have been accepted by the citizens of said city as hereinafter provided; they shall hold their offices respectively until the expiration of one, two and three years from the first Monday of February pressure they have been compound and am now well. ruary next preceding their appointment and until their respective successors have been appointed and qualified, unless they shall sooner resign or be removed for cause as herein-

Section 12. The said commissioners shall superintend and direct the construction, execution and performance of all the works, matters and things mentioned in the preceding sections. They shall be subject to such ordinances, rules and regulations in the execution sections. They shall be subject to such ordinances, rules and regulations in the execution of such duties as the city council may from time to time ordain and establish, not inconsistent with the provisions of this act and the laws of this Commonwealth: provided, however, that whenever a system of water works under the provisions of this act shall be substantially completed and put in successful operation, said commissioners, upon written request of the mayor, shall transfer the same to the commissioners of public works of said city, and thereupon the powers of said board of water commissioners shall cease and all of its powers shall be vested in and all of its duties imposed upon said commissioner of public works. Said water commissioners shall make all contracts for the above purposes in the name and behalf of the city, but no contract shall be made by them which involves the expenditure of money not already appropriated for the purpose by the city council of said

BOSTON AND NEW YORK YOUNG WO-MEN'S ECONOMIC CLUBS.

How Mrs. Grannis Voted-An English Wo man's Opinion of Us-Miss Emerson's Appointment - Gave Better Than She Got-Miss Means Wins Her Case.

A gentleman, whose opinions on many subjects the world has thought worth preserving, has said that, with small variations, men and women are interested in the same subjects. Lord Chesterfield, who never made sweeping statements, and whose knowledge of women no one the big stake hung up by the Metropole will dispute, is in this belief entitled to respectful consideration. At this moment from Boston comes the news that the young women there for some time than any event pulled off in this city this have had a widely connected organizaseason. The contest was one which sport- tion of protective tariff clubs. These were formed two years ago under the inspiration of Governor McKinley's speeches. It seems that whenever the governor spoke there was always conspicuous in the audience a young woman with a notebook. After the speech was ended she was sure to present herself with a query in the group that always collects to shake hands with the speaker. There was an earnestness in her demeanor and serious light in her eye that could only some from deep conviction and a high purpose. This forbade the thought of a woman reporter. These various young women were, in fact, the representatives of the different young women's protective clubs, now a flourishing affiliated organization.

The enterprise is not at all a new one In this city a group of working girls has for six years had a club devoted to economic subjects. This club, however, is not committed to any selfish, one sided view of these questions, but to the study of the underlying principles. Their opinions vary as their minds incline. One girl is a protectionist, another a free It was the general impression that trader. It is especially interesting to see O'Brien would be a winner. Miss Emerson's Appointment.

Miss Nellie M. Emerson of San Francisco was appointed a commissioner of the United States court of land claims a few days ago. The position is to some extent judicial. Commissioner Emerson will take testimony as an examining officer and will decide whether the statements made before her are relevant, competent and material, or the opposite. Miss Emerson's appointment came about in this way. When Attorney Thomas Ball of Virginia was in California last summer, Miss Emerson proved herself a very valuable assistant to him in his investigations under the Indian depredations act. Together they made a tour or inquiry from Eureka to Los Angeles, and when Mr. Ball returned to Washington he carried with him a high opinion of Miss Emerson's abilities.

Miss Emerson was born in Oakland, Cal., went through the high school and took additional courses in Maine and in Boston. She is an expert with the typewriter, and for several years she has conducted a typewriting business in San Francisco. The Daily Call of that city, from which these facts are obtained, commends the appointment and rejoices that a daughter of California is the first woman to hold the office.

The little toque is of the velvet, which shades from palest green into dark, with the contrasting shadow tints a rich brown. The velvet is dented here and there and framed in a little sable bow, with the head and two tails adorning the toque in front. The cape is formed of two velvet ruffles, very full and lined with the palest green silk. They are edged with a narrow band of sable.

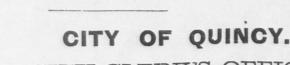

The velvet muff is a peculiarly shaped affair. It hangs down in points at the sides and shows conspicuously its delicate silk lining. It is bordered with sable and suspended from pale green ribbons.-New York Advertiser.

ATHENS, Me., Nov. 28.—William Childs, a partially insane man from Boston, who has been living for the past six months at West Athens, died at the home of John Leavitt. The deceased came to West Athens last summer and obtained permission of David Corson to live in a small shanty, the property of the latter. Both the arrival and sojourn of this stranger was enshrouded in mystery. He was a great hunter and was known as "Old

The first of last week he came to Mr. Leavitt's house in a terrible condition. He was ragged, dirty, hungry and sick. While on his death bed, he made repeated attempts to commit suicide with a revolver which he carried with him.

At his death it was discovered that he had friends in South Framingham, Mass. They were telegraphed for and came to Athens. It was learned from them that the deceased was once a merchant in Boston, but had been partially insane for past three years on account of sunstroke. He had escaped from home and his where-abouts had been unknown for nearly two While at Athens he received clothes and money from friends, but would not wear the clothes and spent but little of the money. His remains were taken to Massachusetts, to his wife and mother. He was about 50 years of age.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS. Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attor and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid patents, we have retained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to

INCOME TAX PLANS

May Include Those Who Have Incomes of $5000 Per Annum.

THE WEST IS SATISFIED

With the Present Makeup of the New Tariff Bill.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29.-The ways and means committee is today devoting its attention to the internal revenue schedule of the new tariff sys em. The strain of the Democratic members, the sessions frequently running far into the night. The internal revenue schedule prop r will not be a very difficult one, but the income tax scheme will involve considerable labor. It still appears that the increase of the whisky tax, if any increase be made, will not exceed 10 cents a gallon, and the charges in the tobacco schedule will be very slight and directed rather to more regular classifications than to an increase in the tax. The whole income tax question is opened anew, and it is now possible that the tax may after all be of that sweeping character as to include all individuals of incomes of $5000 per annum or The Republicans are already preparing for a vigorous fight on the new tariff bill. Circular letters are now being sent out by the thousands by Justice Bateman & Co., the Philadelphia wool commission merchants, asking that certain data be sent to J. C. Burrows, a Republican member of the ways and means committee, in regard Figuring Begun. Of course the principal theme of discussion in congressional circles is the new tariff bill. Democrats are figuring that the deficit caused by the new bill will not exceed $35,000,000. They claim that in addition to the revenue to be derived from the stimulated importation by the relief of article; taxed to the degree of prohibition, which, they claim, will amount to from $10,000,000 to $15,-000,000, that the natural increase in importation under the McKinley bill, had not the hard times set in, would have nounted this year to from $5,000,000 to 0,000,000. With the resumption of busiess this increase they think will be fully realized, so materially reducing the amount to be raised by the internal rev-

In the south generally the effect of the new tariff bill will not be felt so severely as elsewhere on account of the local charcter of its great industries. In those lo calities, however, its results will be felt to a very considerable extent. Rice, sugar, ron ore and coal are the principal articles in which the southerners are interested and all have been subjected to vigorous

There is a 25 per cent cut in the duty on cleaned rice and 20 per cent on the un-cleaned product. South Carolina, Florida and Louisiana are much interested in this matter, and the representatives of those states do not relish the reduction at all. They will prolably make an effort to re-

The western members seem to be fairly well satisfied with the bill. The Demo-crats of that section are largely free traders anyway. Up in Minnesota, Wis-consin and northern Michigan there are Jackets. some of the largest and most easily worked deposits of iron in the country.

Some Comments. Representative Baldwin, whose district n Minnesota includes many of these mines, to those fields where the ore can be most easily worked. When that time comes the western mines will be developed with startling rapidity."

Representative Boatner of Louisiana (Dem.) said: "My objection to the bill ones. is that it falls below the point of raising revenue. If they had put a small revenue duty on some of the things which are on the free list under this bill which would not have affected the cost of articles to the consumers, but would have added to the revenue of the bill, it would have been a measure entirely unobjectionable."

Representative Gear of Iowa, a Republi can member of the ways and means conmittee, says: "The cut in the schedule farmers to competition with the agricul-tural products of Canada. The people of Iowa understand the situation and appreciate fully what competition with Canadian products means. Irrespective of this fact, Iowa is a protection state just as much as Ohio.' Vehement Language. COLUMBIA, S. C., Nov. 29.—Governor Tillman's message to the legislature assails the system of conducting the railroads in the state through the medium of receivers, and calls it an unholy marriage "between the dignity of the federal court and these harlot corporations," and insists that the union must be dissolved and the owners of bonds made to understand that there is a point beyond which the patience

ITHACA'S MYSTERY.

Perhaps Dr. Merriam and Miss Yeargin Were Not Drowned.

ITHACA, N. Y., Nov. 29 .- Much excite ment was caused here over the report that Dr. L. S. Merriam and Miss Mary L. Yeargin, who were supposed to have been drowned in Lake Cayuga Nov. 18, were in New York, and that the doctor had writ-ten a friend in Ithaca informing him of his whereabouts. The report is said to have been started by a letter carrier, who however, said he could not account for the origin of such a story.

Every day since the two young people first disappeared the lake has been dragged by competent boatmen. Electric lamps have been employed in illuminating the bottom of the lake so that the search could be more thoroughly made, but to no avail. There are some very queer things conpected with the affair. When Boatman Jarvis asked Mr. Merriam to keep near the shore, as he started out that afternoon, the doctor is said to have told him to mind his own business. The doctor and young lady then pushed off, heading directly for the center of the lake. The finding of the doctor's overcoat has also created considerable comment. The coat, together with Miss Yeargin's gloves, were found on the bank of the lake, quite dry. The boat was near by, partly filled with water. There are some who incline to believe the story that Dr. Merriam and Miss Yearast week has been very severe on all the gin are still alive, and more important disclosures are looked for.

STANTON DEFENDED.

Saluted the Only Brazilian Flag Flying In Rio's Harbor.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29. - The steamer Morkyle arrived yesterday from Rio. She left that port in Brazil Nov. 5. Among her passengers was a sailor from the United States cruiser Charleston, which was anchored in Rio harbor, when acting Admiral Stanten saluted Mello and received the revolutionary admiral on board the United States vessel.

The Charleston sailor is Charles Let ford. He says there can be no doubt as to the admiral's action in saluting. The United States commander only did what every foreign commander is expected to and always does on entering the harbor. But our admiral knew full well, the sailor adds, that Mello was a rebel.

The admiral ordered the United States ensign sent to the peak and fired the sa lute. There was no other vessel in the harbor which flew a Brazilian flag and was not under Mello's command, so an error could not have been committed. No comment was made about the matter by those on other foreign war vessels, as they all had done the same thing and Admiral Stanton's recall occasioned much sur-

NOT A SOUL SAVED.

A Schooner Wrecked Close to the Swampscott Shore.

A DISASTER AT BAYPORT.

Crew of a Four-Master In Deadly Peril.

LYNN, Mass., Nov. 29 .- A two-masted schooner in the Reighborhood of 200 tons now reposes beneath the angry waves of the treacherous set a quarter of a mile northeast of Egg Rock, and presumably with all hands on board. Shortly after 10 o'clock yesterday forenoon the fishermen along King's beach, in Swampscott, saw a strange schooner passing, apparently on her way to Boston. She was on the inward course, with her mainsail double-reefed and jib set. There was a heavy sea on. It was close on to 10:30, when suddenly the schooner was seen to settle, and in less than three minutes she had entirely disappeared from sight.

Many times before the fishermen of Swampscott have been called upon to go to the rescue of vessels in distress, and in less than 15 minutes the humane life-saving boat had been manned by a dauntless crew. It took the better part of 30 min-utes to reach the sunken schooner. The crew were in hopes that some of the crew were still alive and were hanging to some of the wreckage, but not a soul could be

Close to the sunken schooner were two boats, one about 17 feet long so badly damaged that she was unseaworthy, and the other was a 10-foot punt upturned. A gray spotted coat and dip hat were picked up and undoubtedly were the wearing apparel of one of the sailors.

The crew of the lifeboat stayed by the wreck an hour and overhauled every piece of wreckage there was to be found in that vicinity, but all they got was a paper water bucket. No name was attached to any of these articles and so no clue was obtained to where the boat came from or the news of its the name of it.

Probably a Maine Boat. After the life-saving crew returne I the looked into the pockets of the coat found and discovere 1 a handkerchief with the portraits of Cleveland and Stevenson. another pocket were several cigaret pic-tures and on one of them was the name "C. Haines, Bangor, Me."

The first two persons to discover the schooner were George Stephens and Russell Pedrick while they were standing on King's beach. Their story is that the ves-sel was going before a southwest breeze, and to them it looked as though the boat was having a hard time. They finally lost sight of her, and they knew in an instant that she had gone down. They attempted to get out a lifeboat, but were unsuccessful. They went to the further beach and notified Captain Jones, who got the crew the small punt, but they got caught in the whirlpool of the sinking schooner and were drawn drawn to a watery grave.

The other boat had evidently been smashed against the side of the schooner before any others of the crew had a chance to leave the lost schooner.

and it was four months later that the last body came ashore. There was a report in this city that the schooner was bound for this port with a cargo of stones for Blethen & Curry, but the firm say that they are not expecting a vessel just at present. CLINGING TO RIGGING.

Life Savers Unable to Rescue Crew of the Louise H. Randall.

BAYPORT, N. Y., Nov. 29.—Patrolman Corwin of the life-saving station at Smith's Point, South bay, saw a fourmasted schooner, stern down, in four Word was immediately telephoned to all saving crews from Fargo station, Smith's Point and Bellport hastened to the beach at a point opposite where the wrecked lines, but the lines either burned or fell ful, but the trials were continued until every cartridge had been used.

A bundle of letters which had been washed ashore were all dated about 12 months ago and were addressed to Captain W. H. Randall, schooner Louise H. Randall, Portsmouth, N. H., Boston and New York. From these letters the identity of the schooner was learned. The beach is strewn with wreckage. At that there may have been 12 or 14 men on board and that some of them are lost.

The wind is piercingly cold and there no doubt that some of those in the rigging will succumb to hunger and exposure. It will be almost impossible for a boat to get close enough to the Randall to take her crew off. The Louise Randall belongs in Newport,

R. I. She left Philadelphia, on Nov. 23 for Boston. She was carrying a cargo of coal. She registered 1502 gross tons. She is a comparatively new boat, having been built in Boston about a year ago. Two Instantly Killed. CONNEAUT, O., Nov. 29.-A Lake Shore freight train backed on the siding at this

Section 5. Said city shall be liable to pay all damages sustained by any persons or corporations by the taking of or injury to any of their land, water rights, rights of way, easements or property, or by the constructing or repairing of any acqueduct, reservoir or other works for the purposes aforesaid. If any person sustaining damages as aforesaid does not agree with said city upon the amount of said damages he may within two years from such taking, and not afterwards, apply by petition for an assessment of the damages to the superior court in the county of Norfolk. Such petition may be filed in the clerk's office of said court in vacation or at any sitting, and the clerk shall thereupon issue a summons to the said city, returnable, if issued in vacation, at the next sitting of the court to be held after the expiration of fourteen days from the filing of the petition, and if at any sitting, returnable on such day as the court shall order, to appear and answer to the petition. It is summons shall be served fourteen days at least before the sitting or day at which it is returnable, by leaving a copy thereof and of the petition, certified by the officer who serves the same, with the clerk of said city; and the court may, upon default or hearing given to said city, appoint three disinterested persons who shall after reasonable notice to the parties, assess the damages, if any, which such petitioner may have sustained as aforesaid; said city appoint three disinterested persons who shall after reasonable hottle to the parties, assess the damages, if any, which such petitioner may have sustained as aforesaid; and the award of the persons so appointed, or a major part of them, being returned into and accepted by the court, shall be final and judgment shall be rendered and execution issued thereon for the prevailing party with costs, unless one of the parties claims a trial by jury as hereinafter provided.

SECTION 6. If either of the parties mentioned in the preceding section is dissatisfied SECTION 6. If either of the parties mentioned in the preceding section is dissa'shed with the amount of damages awarded as therein expressed, such party may at the sitting at which such award was accepted or the next sitting thereafter, claim in writing a trial in said court, and have a jury to hear and determine at the bar of said court all questions of fact relating to such damages, and to assess the amount thereof: and the verdict of the jury being accepted and recorded by the court, shall be final and conclusive, and judgment shall be rendered and execution issued thereon, and costs shall be recovered by the parties, respectively, in the same manner as is provided by law in regard to proceedings relating to the laying out of birdways. the laying out of highways.

SECTION 7. No application shall be made to the court for the assessment of damages fo the taking of any water rights, or for any injury thereto, until the water is actually withdrawn or diverted by said city under the authority of this act.

Section 8. In every case of a petition to the superior court for an assessment of dam age, as provided in this act, the city may tender to the complainant or his attorney any sum, or may bring the same into court to be paid to the complainant for the damages by him sustained or claimed in his petition, or may in writing offer to be defaulted, and that damages may be awarded against it for the sum therein expressed, and if the complainant for the sum with his costs up so that time, but proceeds in his suit, he shall be known fact that they pride themselves on expressed to the control of the sum with his costs up so that time, but proceeds in his suit, he shall be entitled to his costs up to the time of the tender of such payment into court or offer of award, and not afterwards, unless the complainant recovers greater damages than were so

Section 9. For the purpose of defraying the cost of such property, land, easements, water and water rights as may be purchased, taken or held for the purposes aforesaid, and of constructing the works authorized by this act, and paying all expenses incident thereto, the city of Quincy shall have the authority to issue notes, scrip or bonds, to be dominated on the face thereof Quincy Public Water Supply Loan, to an amount not exceeding four hundred thousand dollars, bearing interest not exceeding five per cent. per annum, payable as semi-annually, the principal to be payable at periods of not more than thirty years from the issuing of such notes, script or bonds respectively. Said city may sell the same, or any part thereof, from time to time, or pledge the same for any money borrowed for the above purposes; but the same shall not be sold or pledged for less than the par value thereof. Said city shall pay the interest as it accrues on said loan, and shall establish a sinking fund and shall contribute thereto annually a sum sufficient with its accumulations to pay the principal pay the interest as it accrues on said loan, and shall remain sacred and inviolate and pledged to the payment of said principal and shall be used for no other purpose. The provisions of sections ten and eleven of chaper twenty-nine of the Public Statutes shall so far as applicable apply to said sinking fund.

SECTION 10. The said city of Quincy instead of establishing a sinking fund may at the time of authorizing said loan provide for the payment thereof in such annual proportionate payments as will extinguish the same within the time prescribed in this act; and when such vote has been passed by the city council and approved by the mayor of said city, the amount required thereby shall without further vote be assessed by the assessors of said city in each year thereafter, until the debt incurred by said loan shall be extinguished, in the same manner as other taxes are assessed under the provisions of section thirty-four of chapter eleven of the Public Statutes. of chapter eleven of the Public Statutes.

SECTION 11. A board consisting of three commissioners, who shall be citizens of said city, shall be appointed by the mayor, as soon as practicable after this act shall have been accepted by the citizens of said city as hereinafter provided; they shall hold their offices respectively until the expiration of one, two and three years from the first Monday of Febagopinted and qualified, unless they shall sooner resign or be removed for cause as hereinafter provided; and thereafter in January in each successor has been appointed an member of said board, who shall hold office for three years from the first Monday of the February next ensuing and until his successor has been appointed and qualified, unless this duties are sooner terminated as hereinafter provided. This plan presents two good rooms in front, a hall and a parlor, a dining room in the rear of the former, a sitting room with a view to the side and rear, and a kitchen having proper communication with the din-ing room. In the china room there is a table on one side and a china closet on the other. The pantry has shelves on one side and a doughboard on the other. The kitchen flue is shown as extending to the outside Municipal bill, No. 8, entitled an act to of the wall. This admits of setting the more space in the kitchen. If the flue came into the kitchen in the usual manner, it would project the range farther into the room than is now the case. The advantage of this plan is apparent.

On the second floor there are shown three On the second floor there are shown three bedrooms and a bathroom, a linen closet, which is accessible from the hall, and from the front bedroom there are two closets, the larger one, say, for the mistress of the house and another for the master. The location of furniture is shown in each of house and another for the master. The location of furniture is shown in each of the rooms—a bed, dressing case and wash-stand. It is an advantage to arrange wall space so that a washstand may be near the Quincy, Oct. 31.

In the construction of the closets shown in the two larger bedrooms it may be not ed that the door opens into the room directly on a line with the cross partition the closet. This arrangement is desirable on account of the fact that it leaves the closet without a corner at this point. Thus one can sweep out the closet without hav ing a corner to catch the dirt. This is a small matter, but is important. The exterior of this building is simple in its outline and contains no decorative mation of the house-that is, there is no con structed decoration. However, the con struction in a measure is decorative. This makes quite a distinction. In a frame building where there are constructed decorative features, it implies unnecessary expens and develops material which is certain to decay in time, whereas if all the parts are constructive they may be arranged so that could easily wipe out the balance of the little or no repair is necessary, and hence the fixed charges of living are reduced to a minimum as far as that part of the work is concerned. CLEVELAND'S PLAN

For the Settlement of the Hawaiian Question.

RESTORATION OF THE QUEEN

People to Then Express Their Choice by Vote.

WASHINGTON, Nov. 29 .- A prominent member of the committee on foreign relations, in speaking of the Hawaiian muddle, said that he was beginning to get at the bottom of the program of the president and Secretary Gresham.

"If it comes out as I now understand it the president and his secretary of state will be amply justified in their course. The whole thing hinges on the instruc-tions to Minister Willis and his sup-plementary instructions forwarded to him since his arrival at Honolulu. As 1 understand the plan, Minister Willis was clothed with power to open negotiations with the provisional government and the queen and her representative supporters, looking to a restoration of the status as it existed prior to the interference of Min ister Stevens, the landing of the marines, and hoisting of the United States flag over the government buildings. "The reason assigned for this course is the belief on the part of a large number of people, which the president and his administration share, that the success of the provisional government was due to the moral support in the first place, and subsequently to the active participation of the minister and naval forces, thus overawing the people Left to the People. "After the status quo has been restored, the president thinks that there should be a vote of the people as to whether the queen or the provisional government should prevail. As I now understand the they desire. If, as it is alleged, the provisional government has a majority of the people with it, this fact will then be established. If they prefer the old order of things and the restoration of the monarchy, they will indicate it by a fair vote of the people. Coupled with this solution is an American protectorate in either case.

"It has been the belief of the president and Secretary Gresham and others informed on the subject that Minister Willis will be able to bring about this solution of the complications peacefully. The presi-dent feels that he can then move ahead, and after everything is settled not have it said that the American protectorate was established as the result of intrigue or conspiracy.

Annexation Not Favored. "The president from the inception of the revolutionary movement in Hawaii and the establishment of a provisional government has not favore i annexation. He is sustained in this view by every member of his calinet and many Demo cratic senators, and, he also claims, by a number of Republican senators who have talked with him on the subject. The general trend of opinion, however, among these senators of both parties was favor-

Hawaiian international and commercial "In domestic and municipal affairs the president holds and says he is sustained in a policy of non-interference except to preserve order and protect American citizens and their property. The president and will prove the most equitable solution of the problem and will give the greatest satisfaction to American public sentiable to a protectorate or supervisory jurisdiction of the United States over

Possible Complications. The senator added: "If Preside t Dole and his advisers refu-e to accede to such a program it might greatly complicate matters. I hardly believe, however, that public sentiment in this country would acquiesce in an attempt on the part of this government to forcibly overthrow the existing state of things and restore the mon archy. If, as I understand it, the presi dent and secretary are able to carry out their plan and not resort to arbitrary methods, the solution will be much more satisfactory all around. "The mass of the people of the United States believe in autonomy just as among their own states, and the people must say what form of governing authority they prefer, even if, as in the case of Hawaii, it should mean the restoration of a monarchical form, which would be distasteful to American public opinion."

THE VIKING SHIP

Reported to Have Been Wrecked In the Bay of Biscay. London, Nov. 29.—A dispatch to The Standard from Buda-Pesth says: The Neuzet learns from Fiume that the Viking ship which was on exhibition at Chicago and which was on her return from United States to Christiana has been wrecked in the Bay of Biscay and sunk. Her captain and crew were saved by the Austro-Hun-garian steamer Deskadria.

NEW YORK, Nov. 29.-With regard to the report printed in the Buda Pesth Neuzet that the Viking ship which was exhibited at Chicago had been sunk in the Bay of Biscay it is said that the boat which has been on exhibition at the Worll fair is now on the Mississip piriver.

WAS AN INFORMER. Patrick Reid Was Probably the Victim of Dynamiters. LONDON, Nov. 29 .- A morning paper asser's that Patrick Reid, who was murdered in Dublin, was an informer. The correspondent of The Times at Dublin says there is no reason to doubt that there was an intimate connection between the di c very of the box containing dynamite in irent of the Alboro barracks and the murder of Patrick Reid. The victim was a member of a secret society, which met at a club in Tyrone place. An altercation occurred between Sheridan and Reid, and they left the club together between 1 and 2 o'clock in the morning. A slight explosion was heard in the street in front of the club at about the same time. A constable hastened to the spot and found on the sidewalk a lighted fuse. Observing the two men hurrying away to gether, his suspicions were aroused, and he followed them and arrested Sheridan. Reid accompanied him to the station.

but was not detained. Reid did not go to work the next day. He shaved off his beard with the view of disguising himself, and it was evidently his intention to go ab oad. He had £7 in his pocket when his body was found, and this was probably intended to pay his passage.

His companions must have led him to suppose that they could smuggle him aboard a vessel and so facilitate his departure. The assassins made a judicious choice of the scene for the murder where shots were not likely to attract attention, as a man had been shooting rats in the locality recently.

Won't Be Prosecuted.

CHICAGO, Nov. 29.—After a consultation between the attorneys in the Coughlin trial State Attorney Kerns said that Jurors Gates and Wilson, who are charged wi h securing their places on the jury by fraut, would be dismissed by consent of the lawyers for the defense. Mr. Kerns said that the men would not be prosecuted.

PATENTS

FOR INVENTIONS.

Equal with the interest of those having claims against the government is that of INVENTORS, who often lose the benefit of valuable inventions because of the incompetency or inattention of the attorneys employed to obtain their retents. The much care council be everying in employing competent and religious patents. Too much care cannot be exercised in employing competent and reliable solicitors to procure patents, for the value of a patent depends greatly, if not entirely, upon the care and skill of the attorney.

With the view of protecting inventors from worthless or careless attorneys, and of seeing that inventions are well protected by valid tained counsel expert in patent practice, and therefore are prepared to Obtain Patents in the United States and all Foreign Countries, Conduct Interferences, Make Special Examinations, Prosecute Rejected Cases, Register Trade-Marks and Copyrights, Render Opinions as to Scope and Validity of Patents, Prosecute and Defend Infringement Suits, Etc., Etc.

If you have an invention on hand send a sketch or photograph thereof, together with a brief description of the important features, and you will be at once advised as to the best course to pursue. Models are seldom necessary. If others are infringing on your rights, or if you are charged with infringement by others, submit the matter to us for a reliable OPINION before acting on the
